After all these years . . . Still Crazy

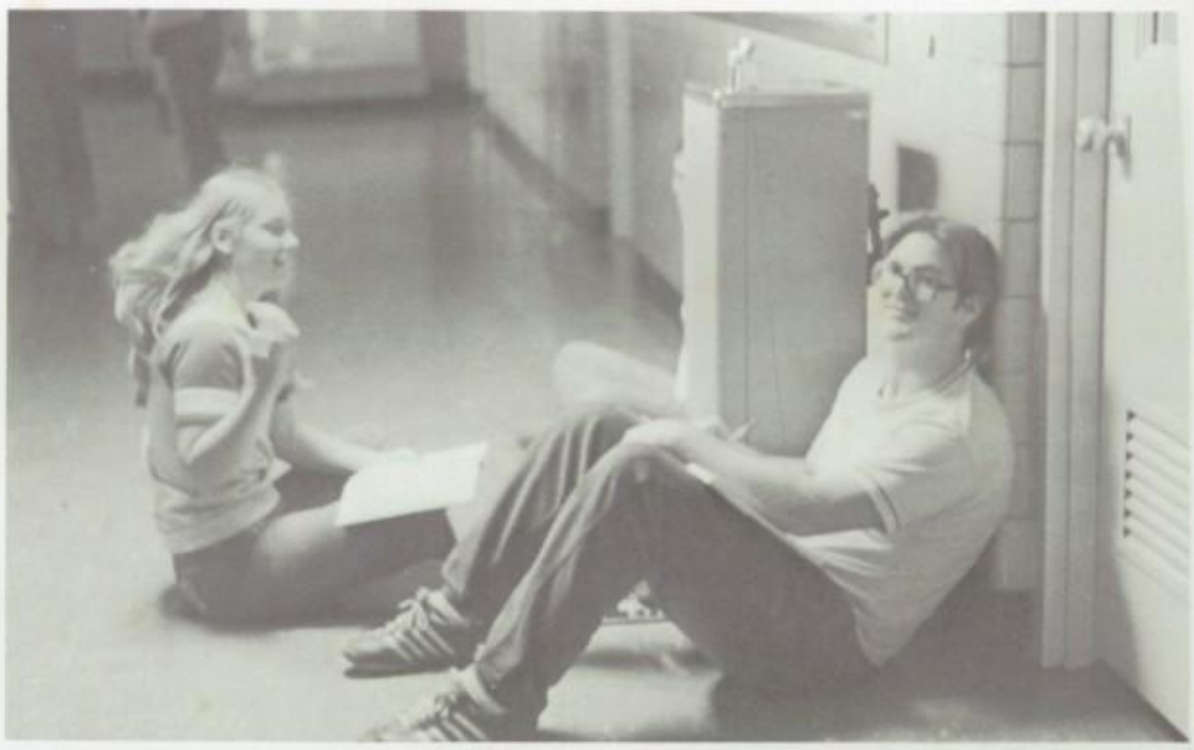
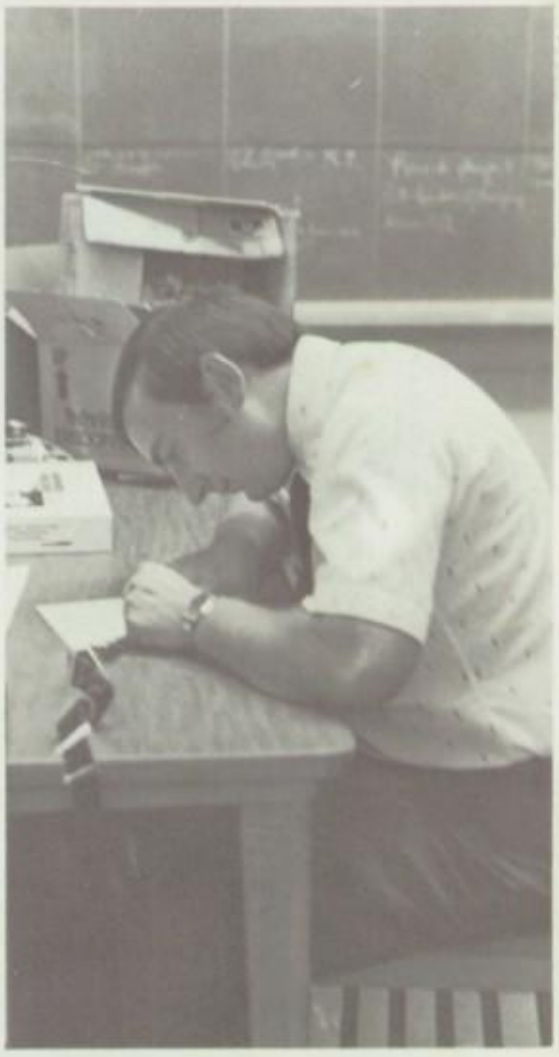
Work and sleep help students get through each day

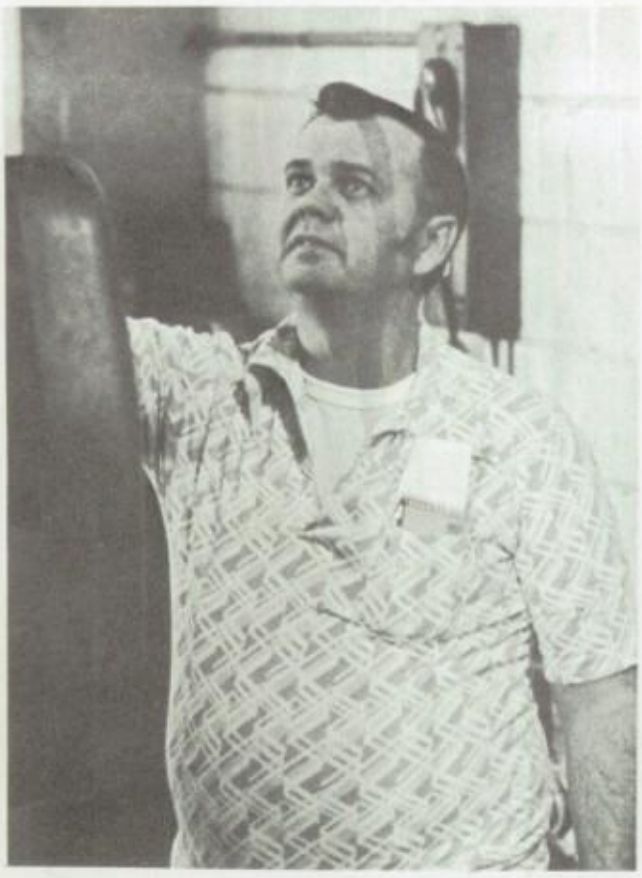


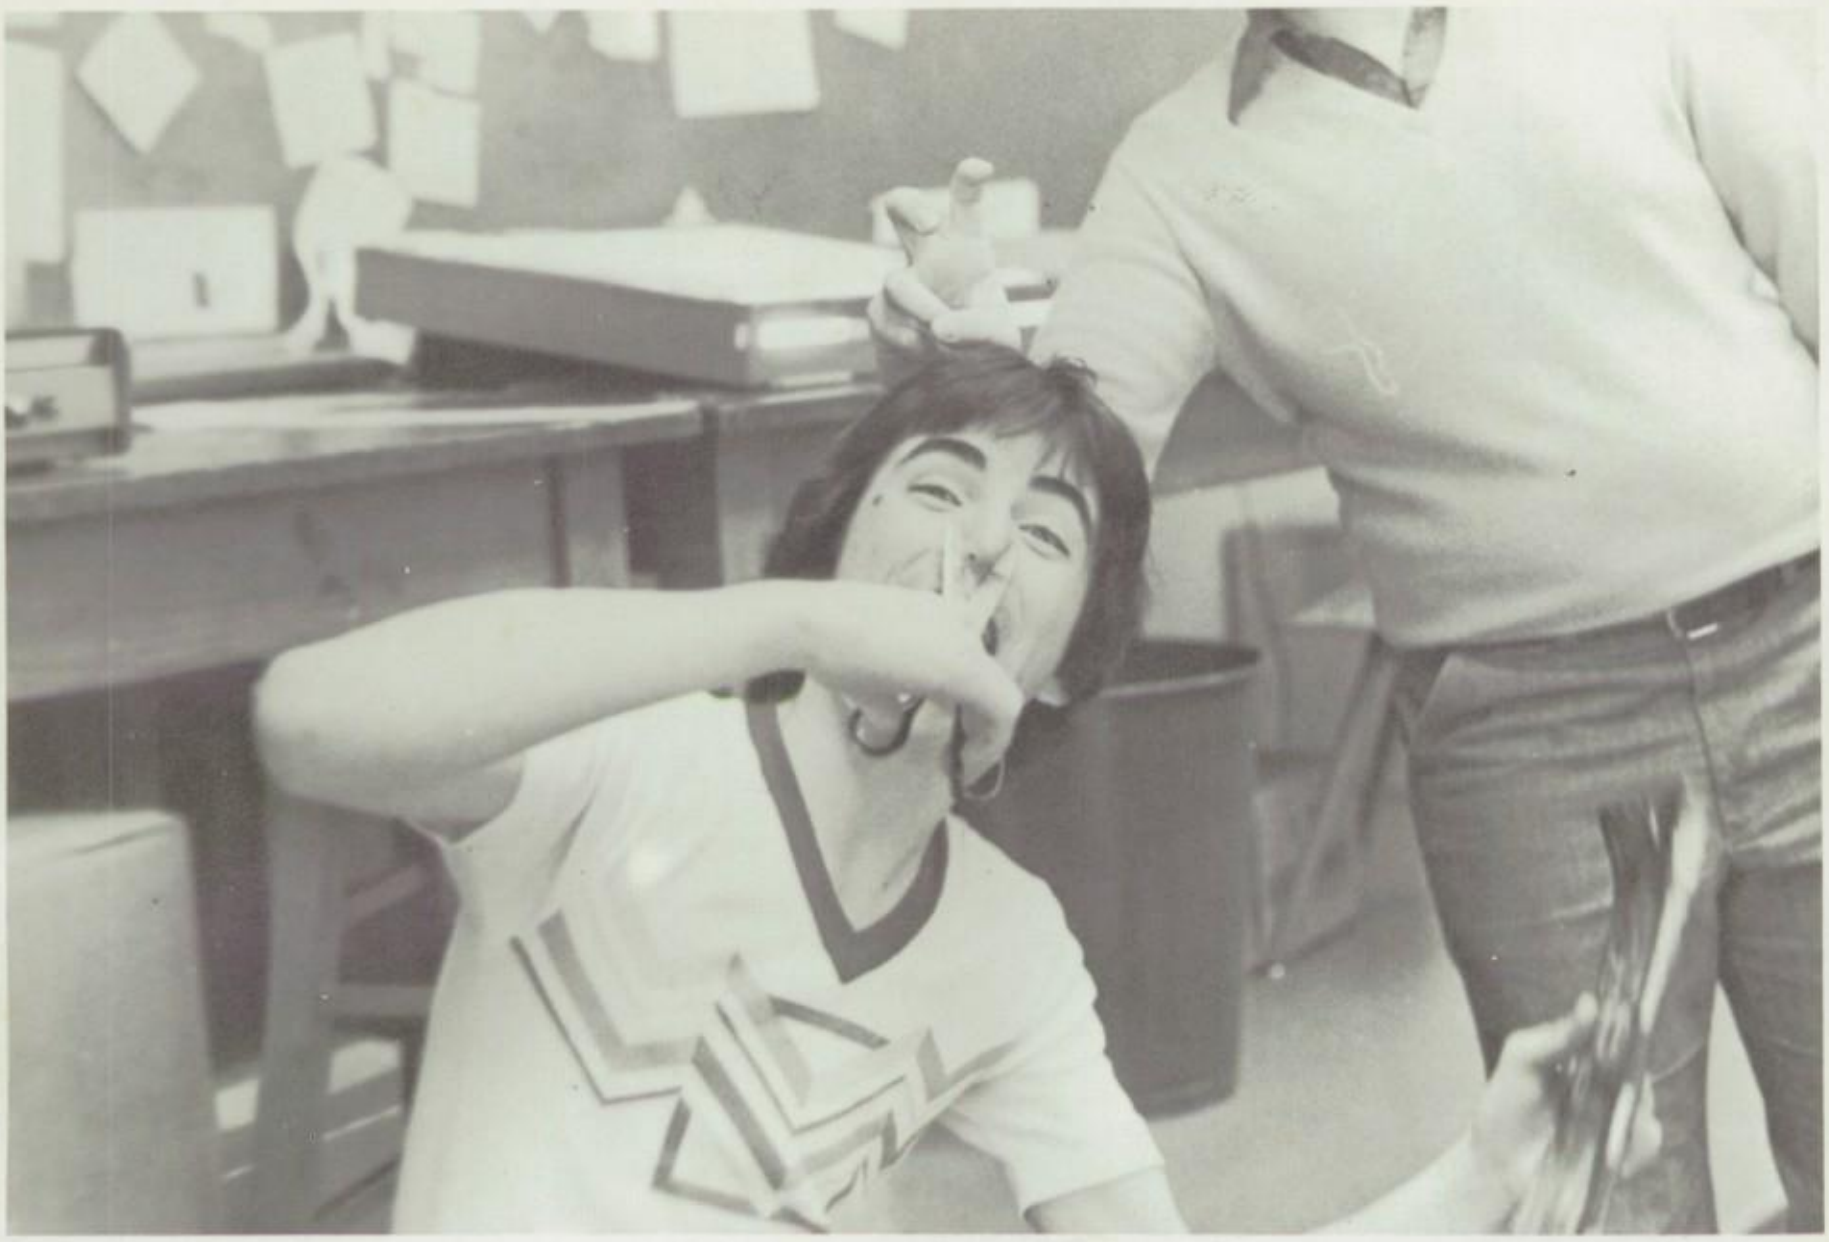
1—"Look! Up in the sky! It's a bird, it's a plane . . . no it's a basketball!" shouts PE teacher Janet Claycombe.
2—Although not allowed by the administration, T. Neil and C. Gasser sit on the floor without a guilty feeling.
3—Blowing bubbles and thinking about tonight's date, V. Edmondson listens passively to a lecture in sophomore English class.
4—Staying awake is harder work than quadratic formulas. P. Renaker finds this hypothesis is true in Algebra II class.



5—"Hey, throw me another roll!" shouts J. Amick to a friendly passerby while the rest of his food sits on his tray.
6—"Don't tell anyone we've drunk more than we've sold," S. Zink whispers to D. Kramer at a Junior concession stand.
7—Slaving patiently over equipment is only one difficulty with being head of the AV Department as Mr. Beck discovers.

From donkeys to banquets, a candid look at SHS





1—Keeping the school running smoothly is what custodial work is all about, as exemplified by head custodian, C. Goen.
2—Cheerfully instructing a student about sign out procedures is one of Mrs. J. Barrett's many secretarial responsibilities.
3—A good joke among friends is always more amusing, which is why K. Bills, L. Brewer, and A. Liebert are in hysterics.
4—"This sinus trouble is driving me crazy," shouts a deranged R. Baker. P.S.: He doesn't really cut his nose off!
5—Tri-Hi-Y vice-president E. Floyd reads a little poetry to make a point in her toastmistress speech at the M-D Banquet.
6—M. Humphrey tries to steer his faithful mount to the goal at the Annual Donkey B-ball game sponsored by StuCo.

Seniors are endeared in faculty hearts forever

That headline, a direct quote from Senior Class president Ron Henderson exemplifies the jovial spirit expressed by the seniors this year. But when graduation day came, four years of hard, and seemingly unending, work finally paid off for them as they walked down the aisle to receive their diplomas. Although the seniors were the first in many years to get an extended Senior Trip, they were unable to take advantage of it because of arrangement problems. King's Island Grad Night and the Talent Show were high points.

Junior class of '80 upgrades to a powerful year

The Junior Class started its year out with a very successful group of leaders. President W. Backus has held his office for the third time for the Class of '80. The main goal of the Junior Class was to have the best prom of the school's history. Sponsors for the Prom were A. Craig, and G. Smith. The class was responsible for concessions at the basketball games. Sponsors for concessions were G. McCurdy and B. Flanary. Class officers were W. Backus, pres.; C. Crowe, vice-pres.; J. Hopkins, sec.; and R. Taylor, treas.

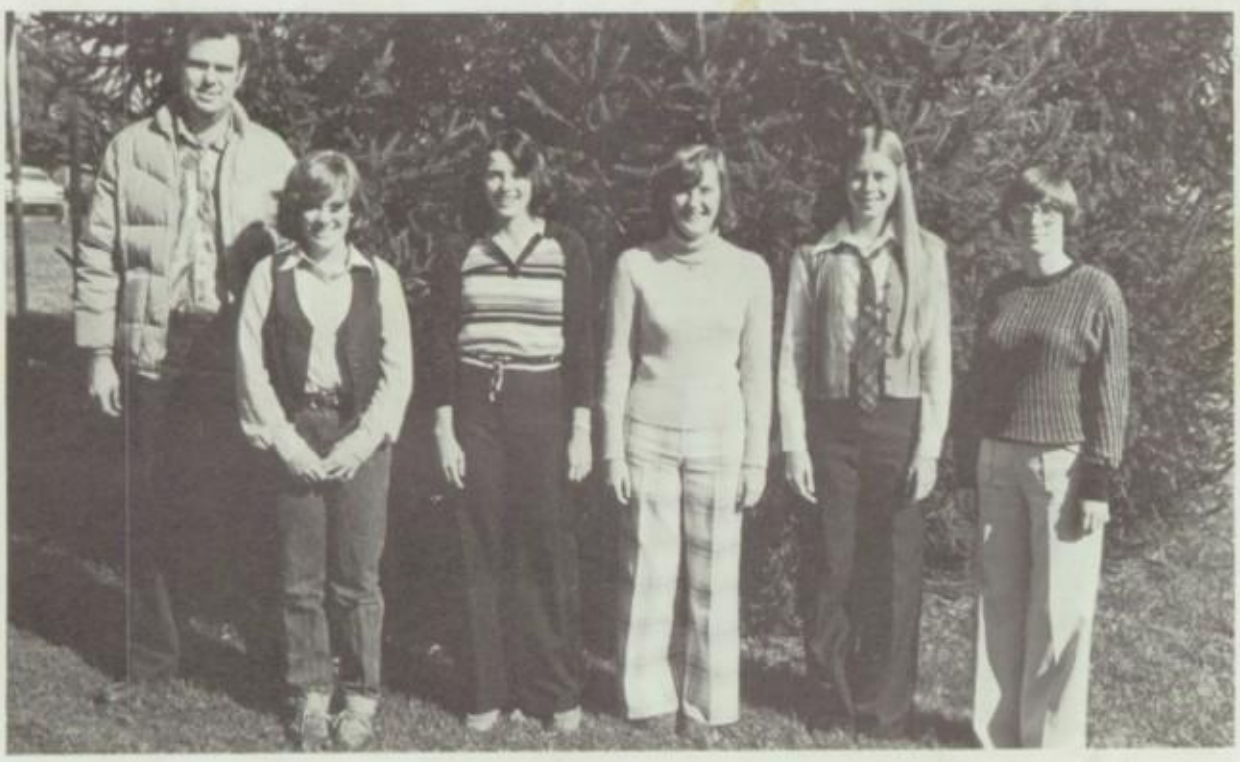
Class of '81, the upperclassmen of underclassmen



The Sophomore Class began their second year of high school with a great deal of spirit. Because the class received enough money through dues, it was not necessary for them to plan money-making projects. Officers of the class were Carrie Campbell, president; Pam Shell, vice-president; Robin Starr, secretary; and Elaine Gresham, treasurer. Basketball Homecoming Queen candidates were Debbie Bush and Sue Miller. Their escorts were Joe Bundy and Eric Stephenson. Sponsors for the Class of '81 were Mrs. Carolyn Beck and Mr. Ernest Morris.

Class of '82 gets a head start in a fresh year

This year SHS had one of its largest Freshman classes ever. The Class of '82 started its year with high hopes. Plans for several activities were made for the year such as an exciting fun-filled swim party and a bake sale. Sponsors for the class were Mr. J. Bowden and Mr. F. Cole. The class officers were president M. Mead, vice-president S. Smith, secretary L. Brewer, and treasurer D. Box. Queen candidates for the Basketball Homecoming were T. Chastain and G. Gordon. The latter was named first runner-up.

Building plans call for elimination of breezeway

A new look is coming to Salem High School. Since Federal legislation required that the building must be made accessible for handicapped students, the Administration and School Board decided to make major renovations of the school plant. They plan to add on new areas as well as improve old ones and to change the location of several classrooms, the art room for example. One change was made on the Board this year: E. Barnard replaced L. Garriott. Other members of the Board of School Trustees were J. Gill, J. Brewer, M. Grigsby, R. Walker, L. Chastain, and D. Luse.

Chili is favorite food in cafeteria this year

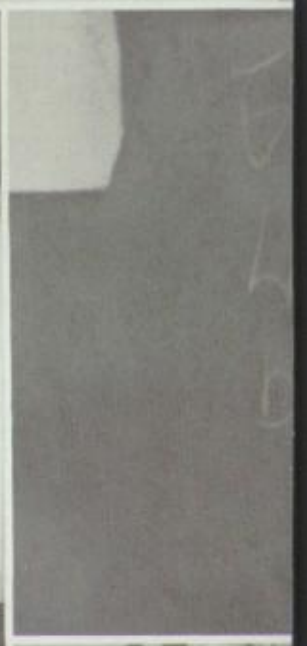
As a result of a survey conducted by Student Council, chili was determined to be the favorite dish by most students. Consequently chili was enjoyed several times throughout the year. Hot meals were served all year long including a variety of foods from tacos to bologna sandwiches. If students were not in the mood for a full meal, they could go through the sandwich line and purchase any combination of fruit, sandwiches, potato chips and cookies. Milk shakes were still popular this year also. The cooks worked extra hard to prepare meals that would be enjoyed.

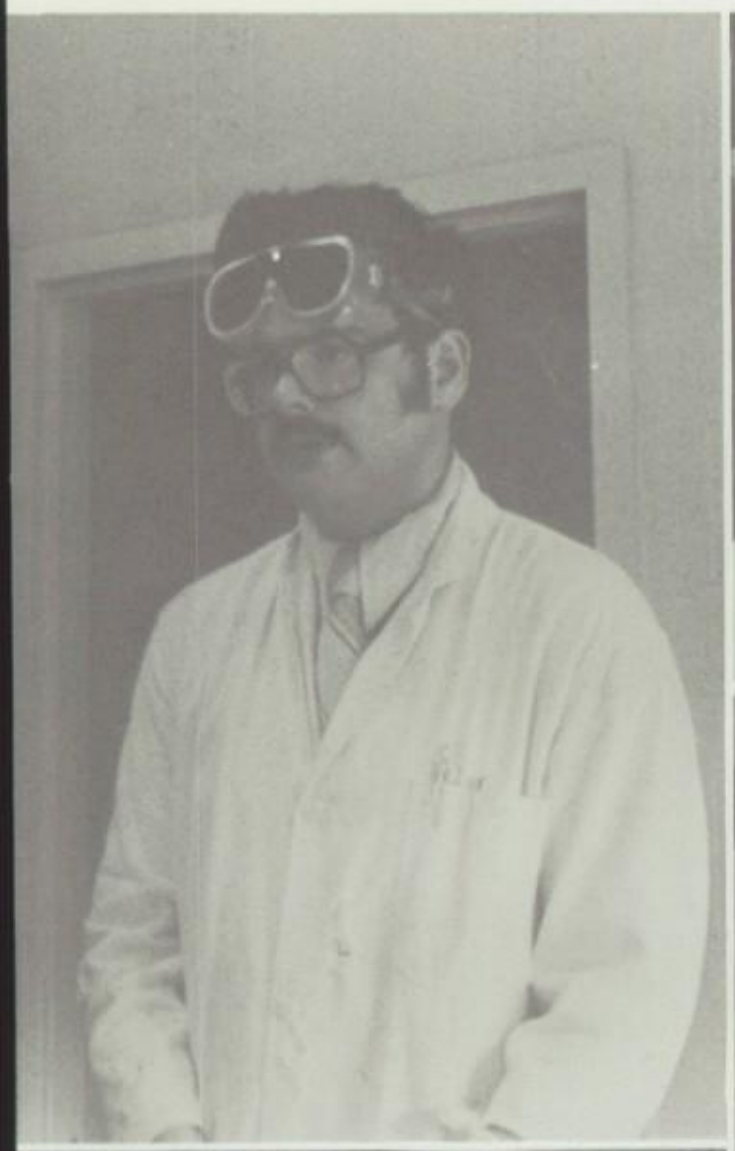
1—Even during Homecoming Week festivities lunch was served as usual. M. Brough picks up her tray on "over-all" day.
2—Awaiting another milkshake customer, H. Goen enjoys watching students having happy conversation with friends over lunch.
3—Cafeteria cooks are Seated: M. Maudlin, P. Pirtle, B. Walton, A. Miller, W. Hamilton. Standing: J. Hughes—cashier, H. Goen, M. Benson—head cook, M. Collins, R. Warren, M. Cook. Not pictured is Z. Smedley.

Custodial workers 'clean-up' on SHS once more

When water overflows, when lights burn out, when stools and chairs break, who fixes them? The answer, of course, is SHS's fine staff of custodial workers. They kept the school looking like new with shiny floors and clean windows. They also performed duties like cleaning erasers and chalkboards after school, keeping the boilers in tip-top condition, and aiding in the set-up of chairs for banquets, honor day, and graduation and several convocations throughout the busy year. And while we were all off for the summer, the janitors were preparing for another year.

1—Custodial workers are C. Goen, V. Bush, C. Nicholson, H. Prater, D. Prater. Not pictured is S. Murrell.
2—"Am I ever thankful for riding lawn mowers," V. Bush is saying under his breath as he mows around the school building.
3—Freshman hall gets a good wash down and mopping by head custodian C. Goen. This is only one of many duties he performs.

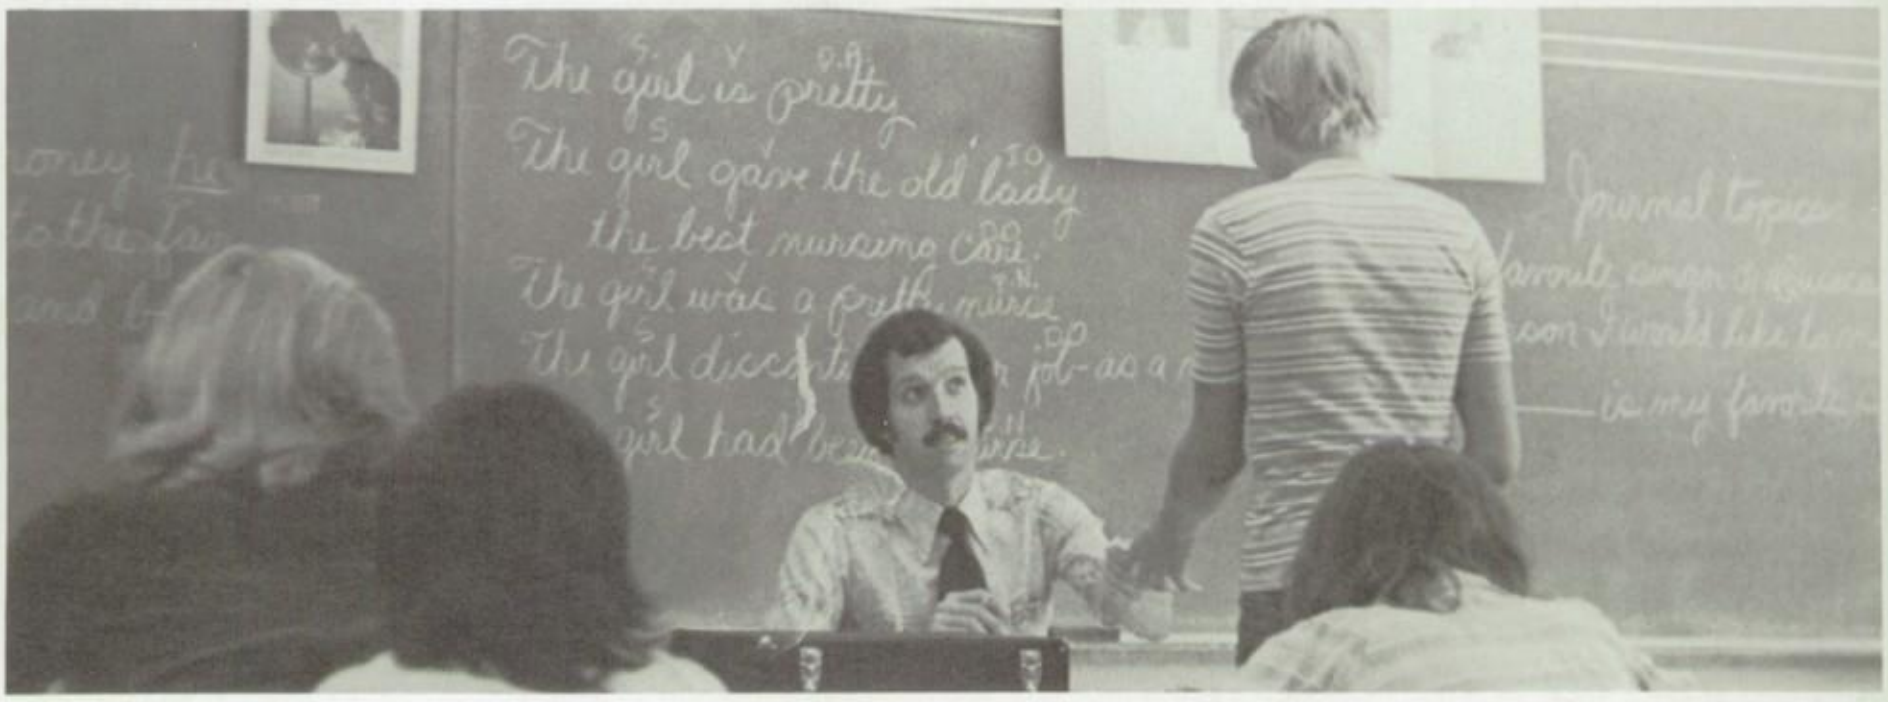


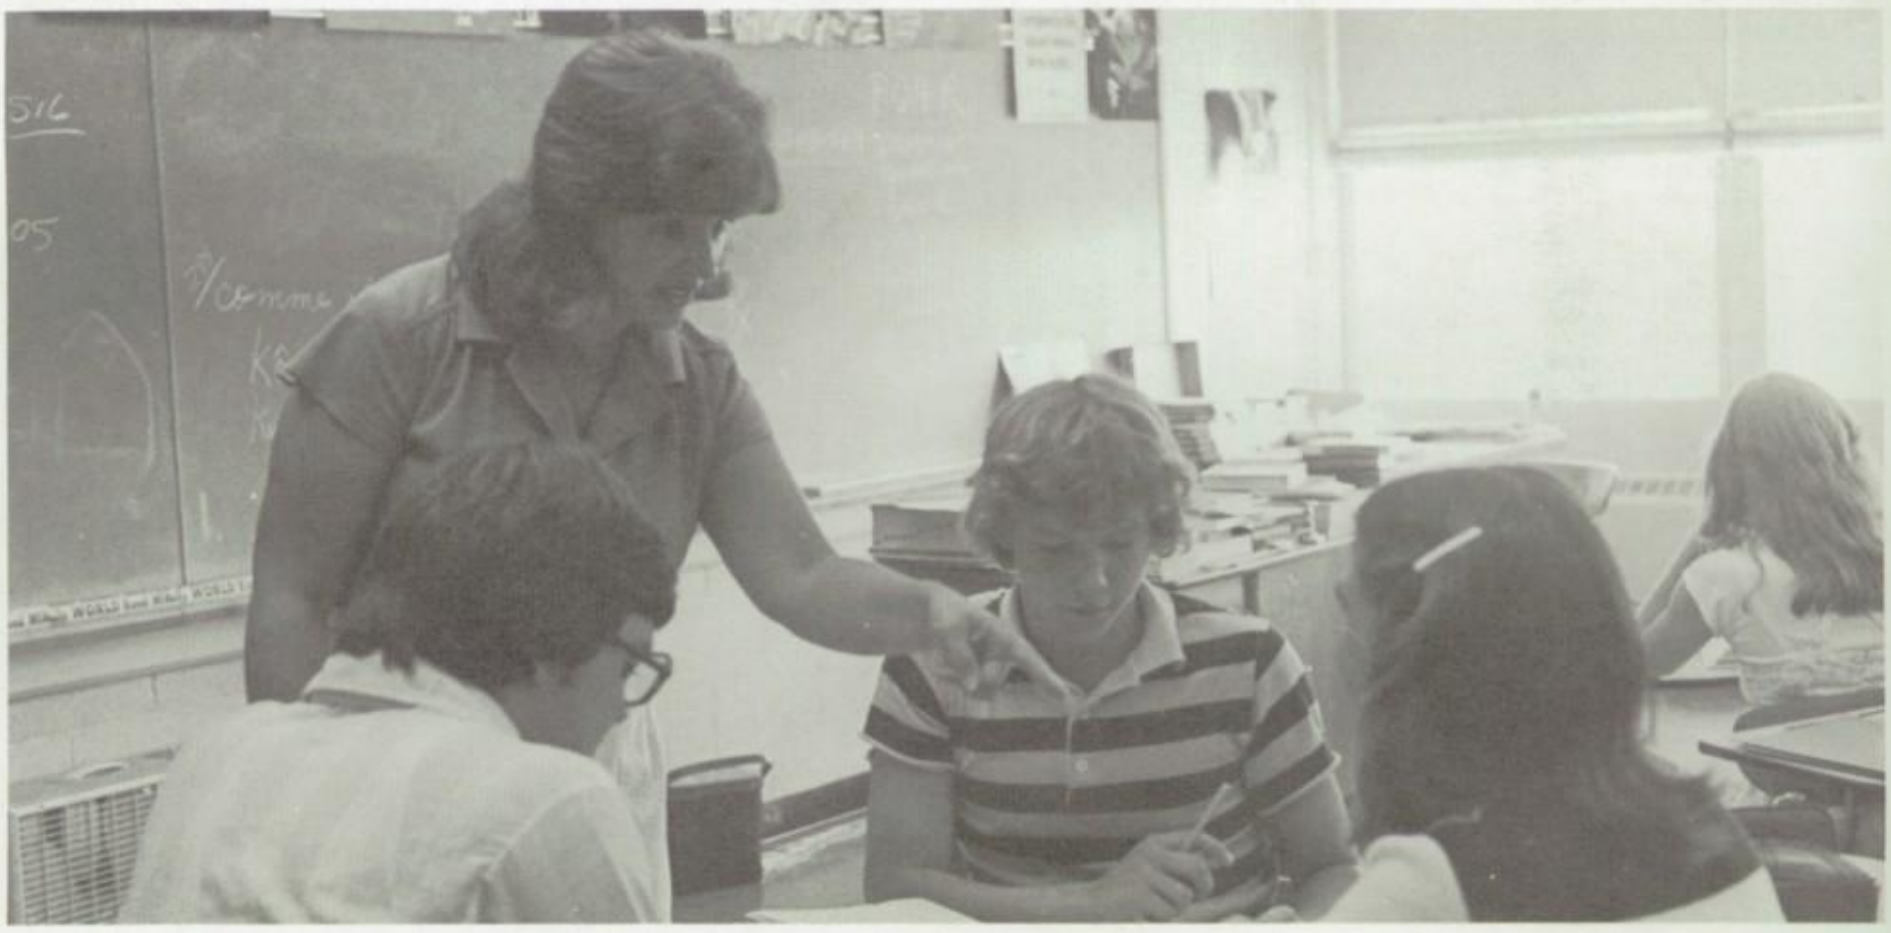


Academics

Phase electives 'phased out' of SHS curriculum

The loss of Phase Electives was felt by the student body. The English Department went "back to basics" and instituted one semester of grammar and one of literature. The English faculty included Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Apple, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Gili, Miss Reeves, Mrs. Smith, and Mr. Ritz. As an interesting addition to the year's activities, poet Brian O'Neill in conjunction with the "Artists in Schools" program, worked with SHS students, and assisted by the faculty, produced a magazine, "Spillway", which showed off the literary talents of many students.

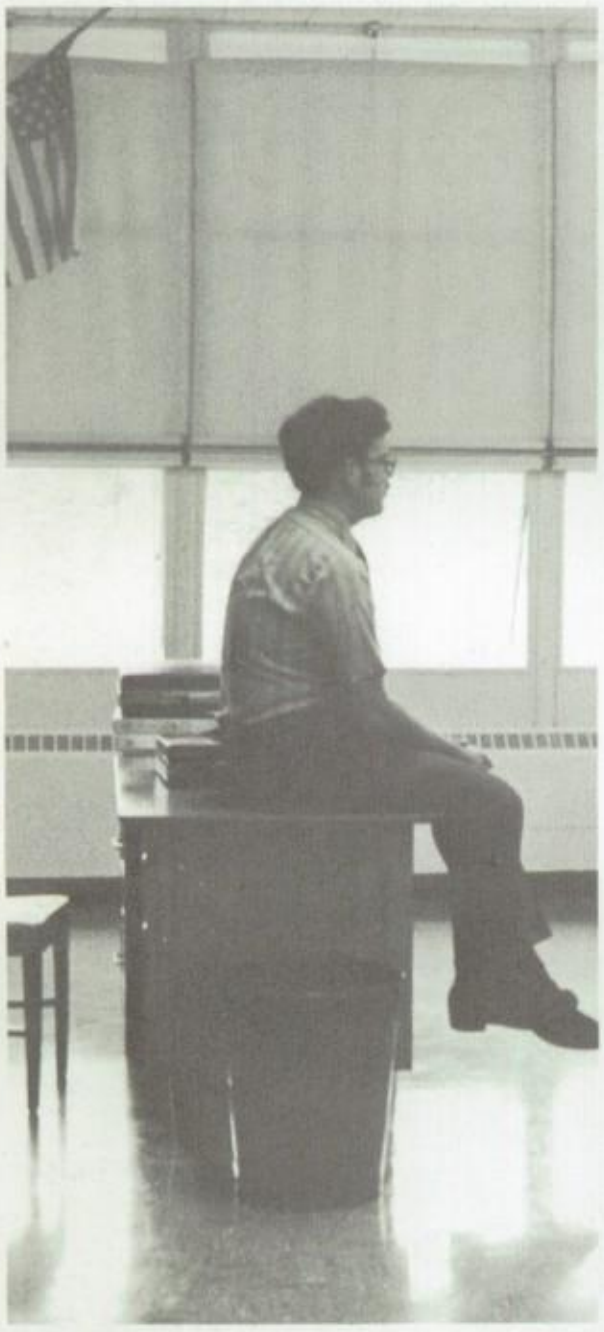


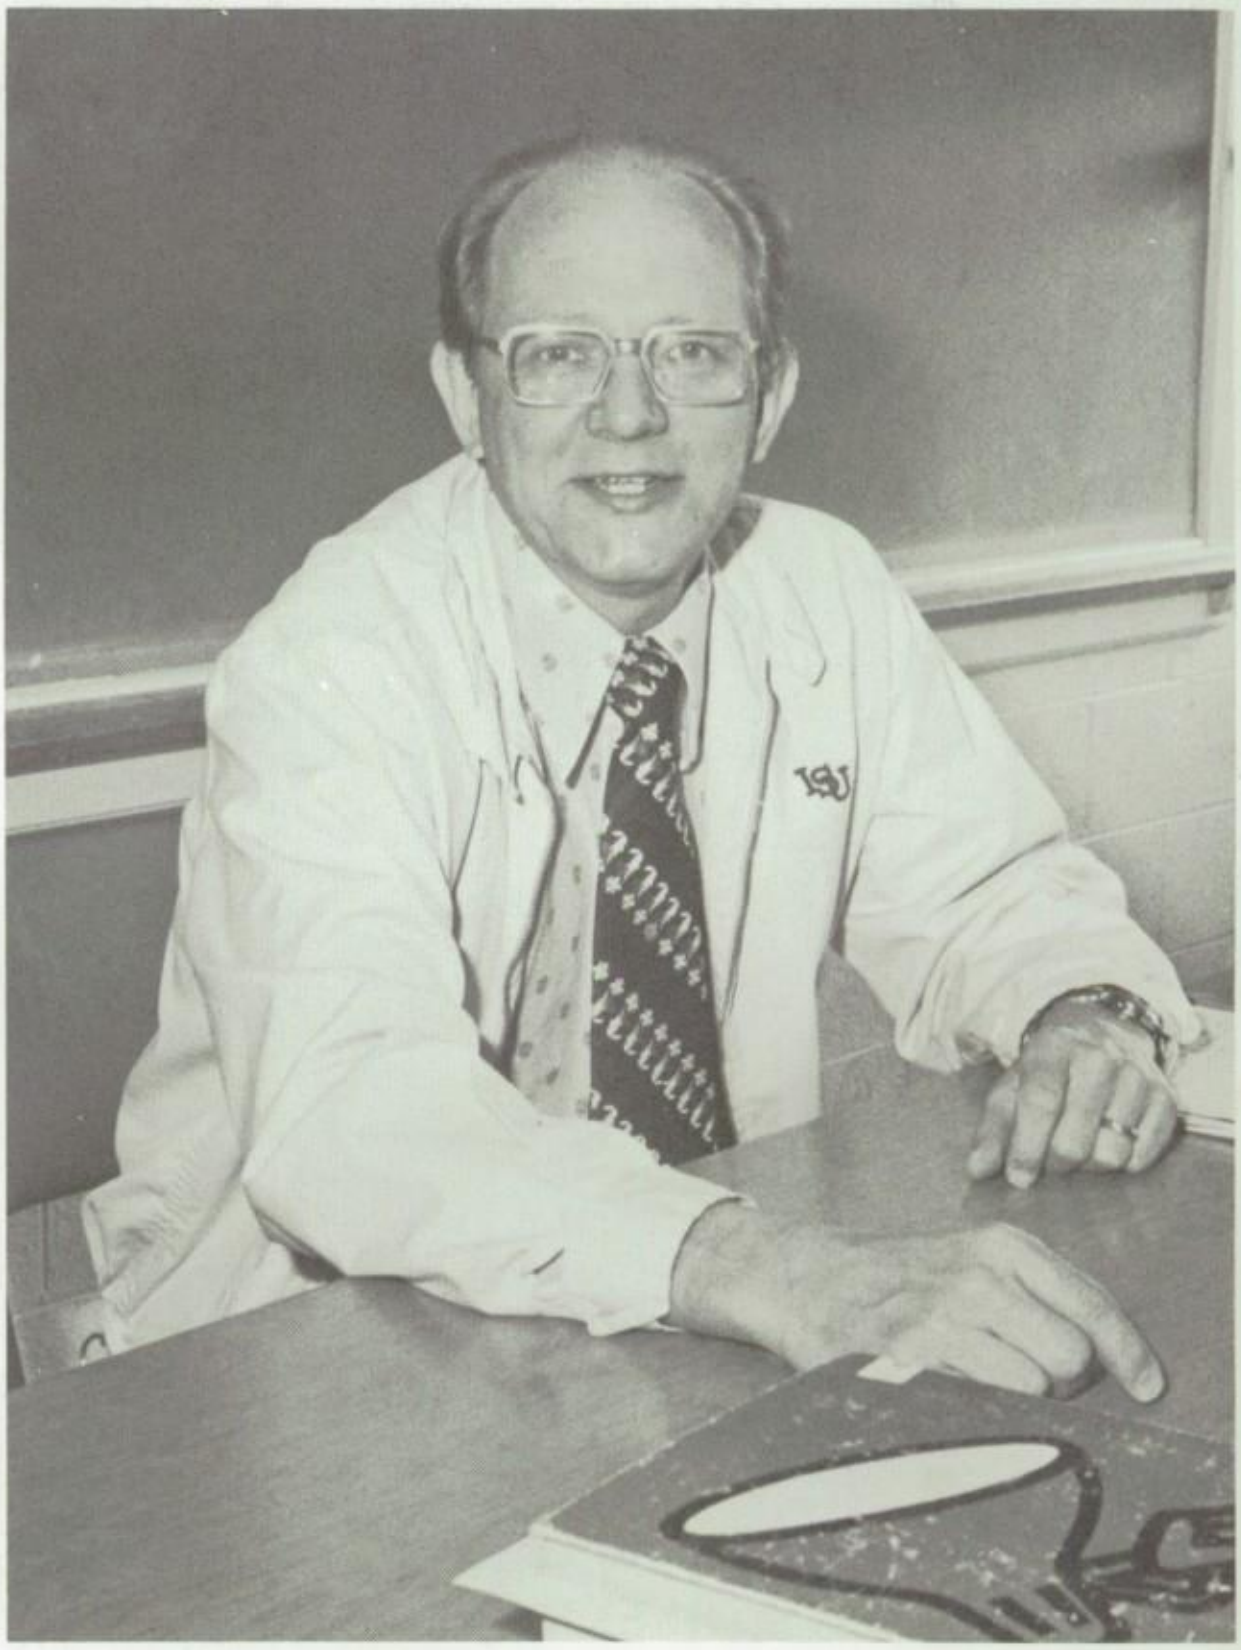


1—Mirrors never lie—the speech class gives D. Terrell their full attention while she informs and entertains them.
2—"No, that word is not a direct object, but a predicate nominative," explains Mr. Ritz to M. Nichols in junior English.
3—"Let Troy do his own work," admonishes Mrs. Apple as B. Gilbert laughs at C. Crow's indignity at the command.
4—Not only a poet, but an excellent musician a; well, B. O'Neill demonstrates how rhythm is found in music and poetry.
5—Members of the speech class entertain the student body with songs, choral readings, and skits as they present the Christmas convo.

Math "computes" students' many problems

Once more math proved to be a struggle for most SHS students. They sweated through a year of postulates, hyperboles, real roots, proofs, equations, and graphs to fulfill the requirements for Algebra I and II, geometry, general math, senior math, and trigonometry. The math faculty members consisted of Mr. Flanary, Mr. Jones, Mr. Boeckmann, and Mr. Scifres. Their main goal this year was to establish the basic fundamentals of math and to provide a broad background when the prospective math student enters the much tougher college ranks or the business world.



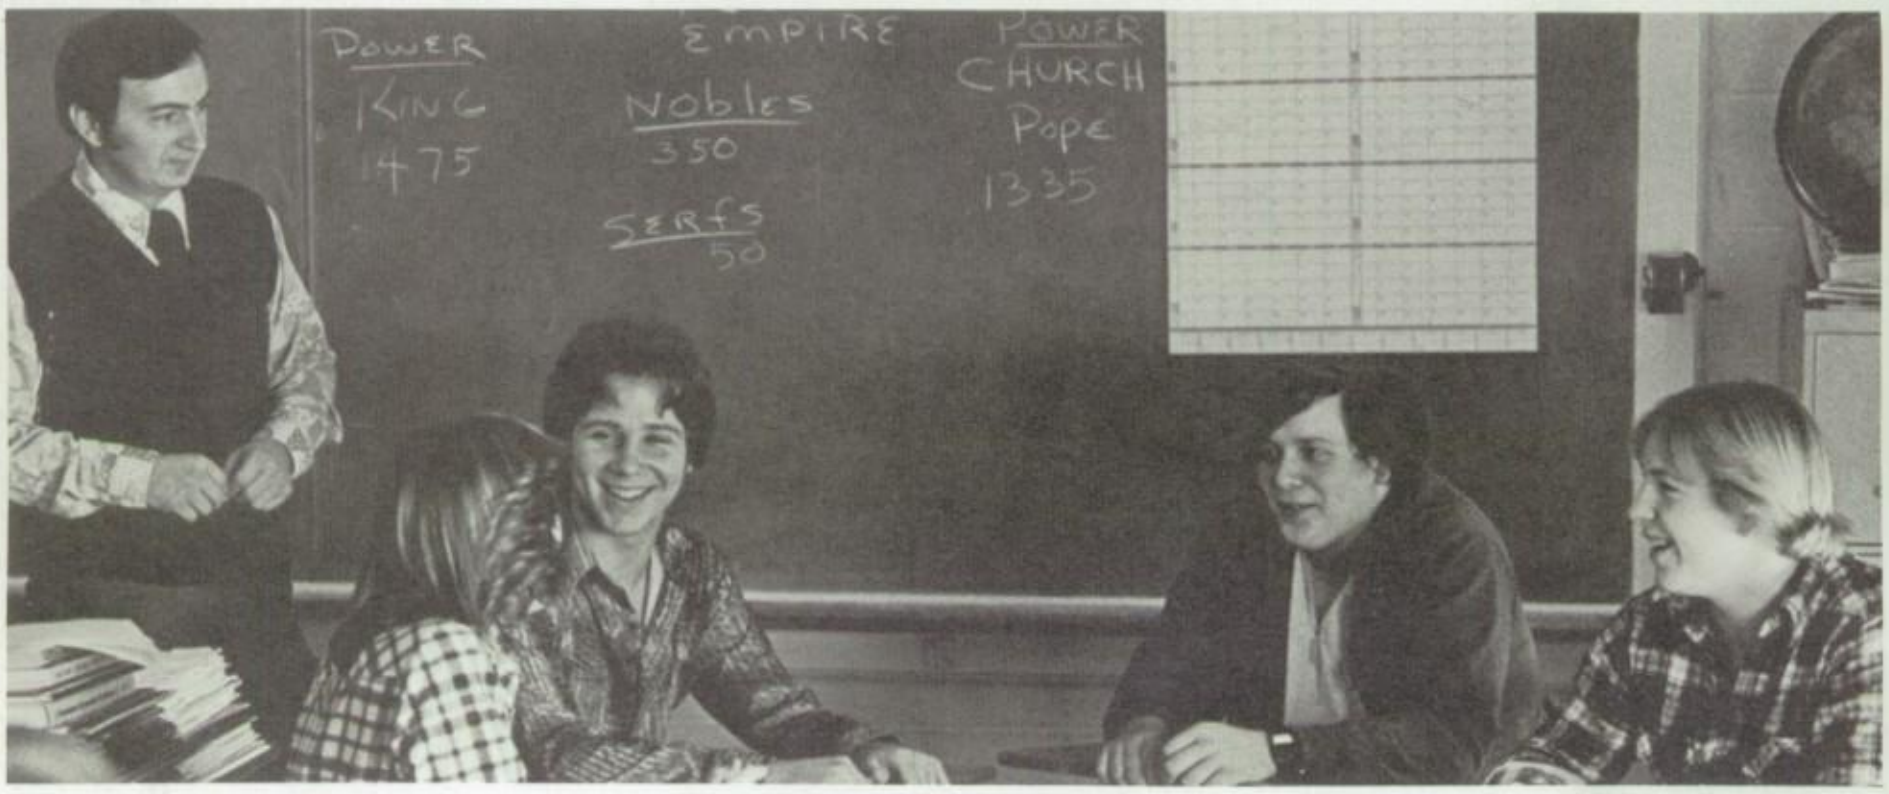


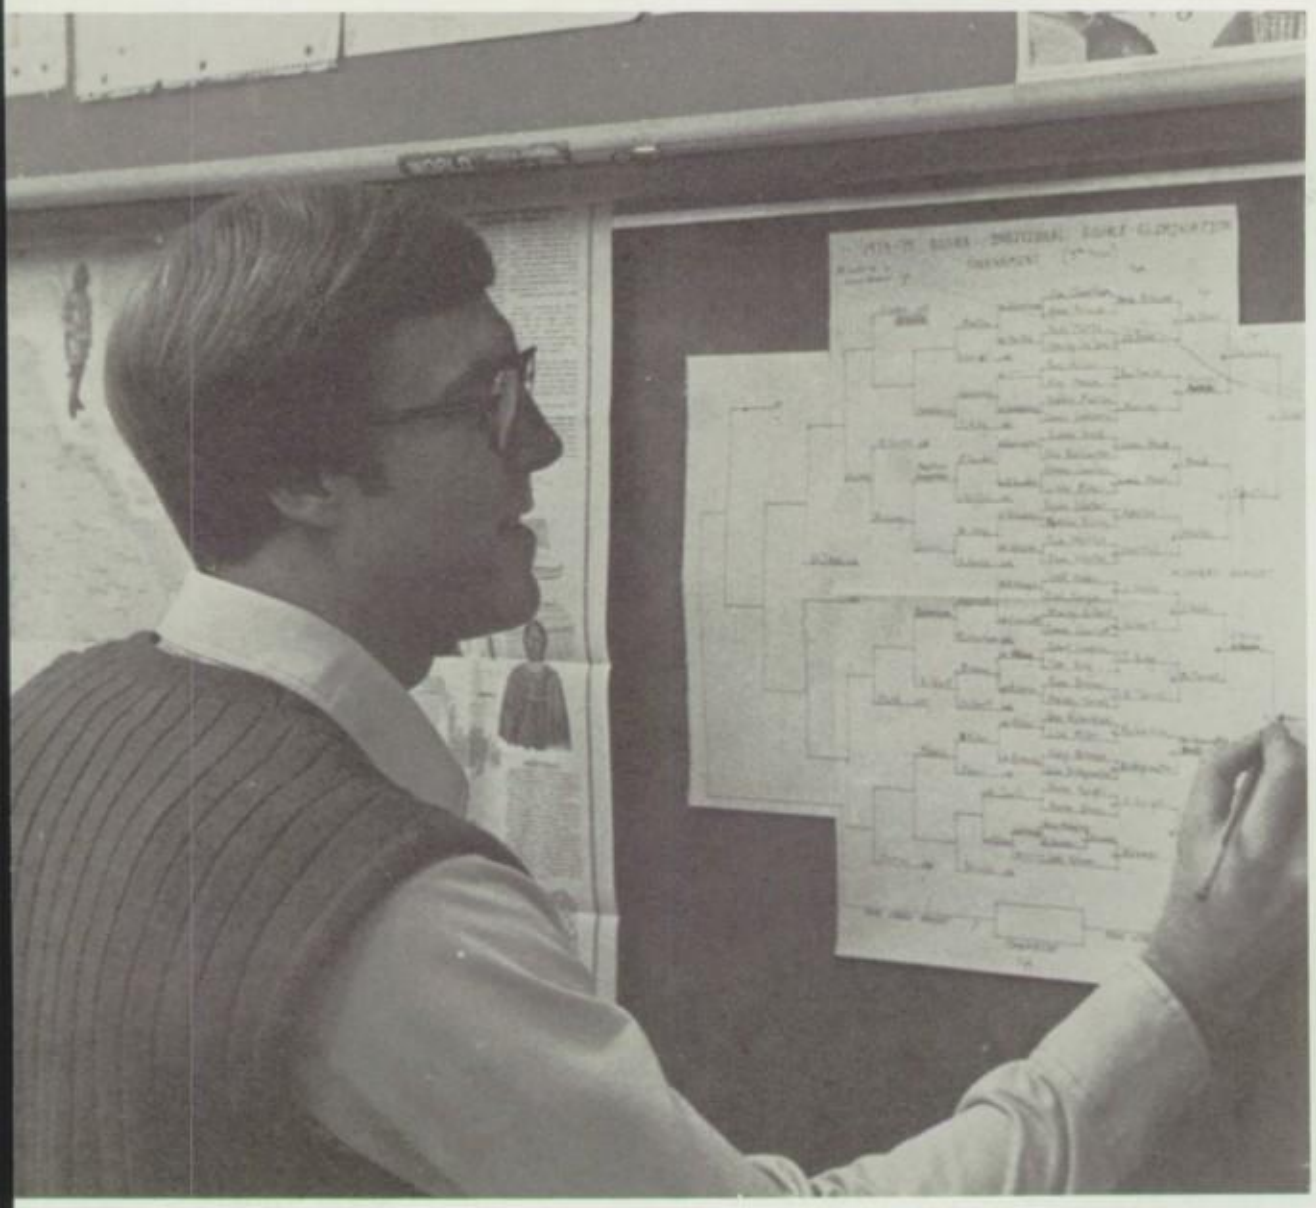
1—Algebra II instructor P. Scifres glances over a SPORTS ILLUSTRATED magazine during his lunch hour and only free period.
2—Informally answering students' questions can be an effective method of teaching as Algebra I teacher J. Jones exemplifies.
3—Senior math and geometry teacher G. Boeckmann smiles for a cameraman in one of his few spare minutes in a busy schedule.

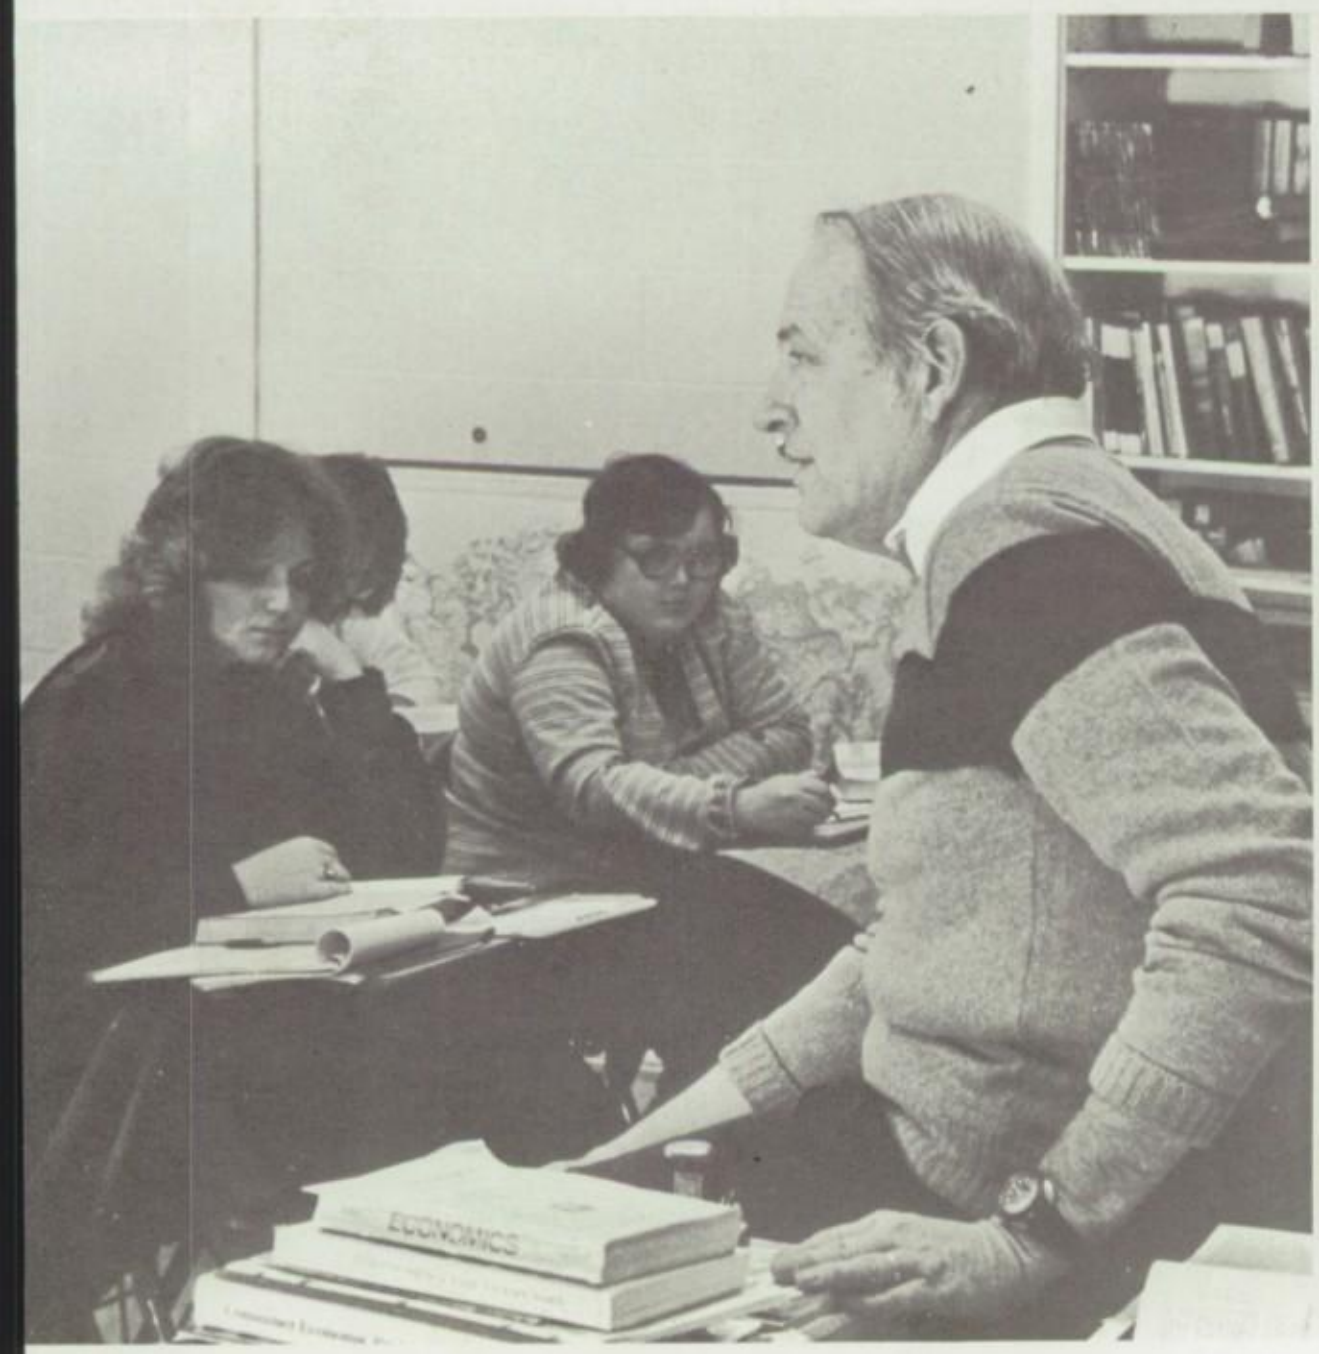
1—General math teacher B. Flanary smiles at one of the jokes made about a word problem in the workbook.
2—Algebra I student W. Steward listens intently to an explanation about a difficult equation she could not solve.

Social studies classes review our changing times

The Social Studies Department consisted of sociology, civics, U. S. history, economoics, and world history. Its purpose was to inform students about their country and increase their understanding of government. News groups, simulation games, map work, and current events were some of the extra activities that involved students in the learning process. After using texts for five years, new books will be adopted next year. Selecting books for adoption was a task completed by department members this year.



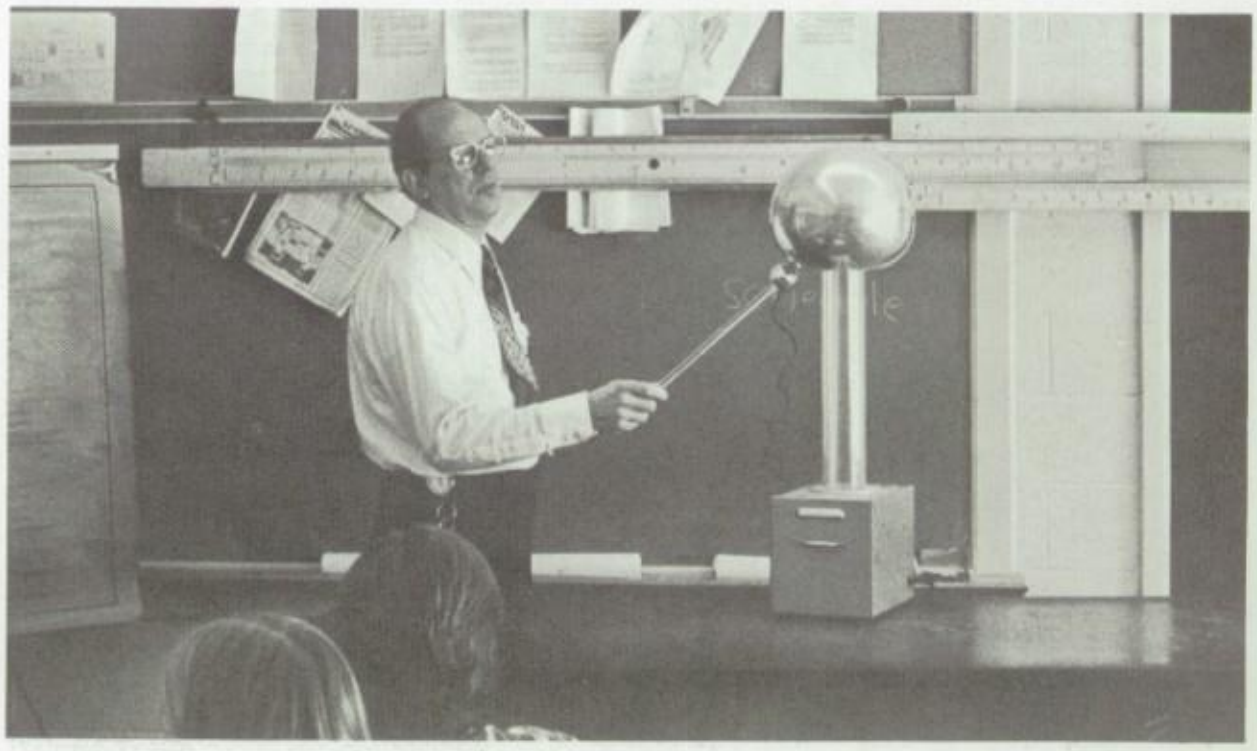


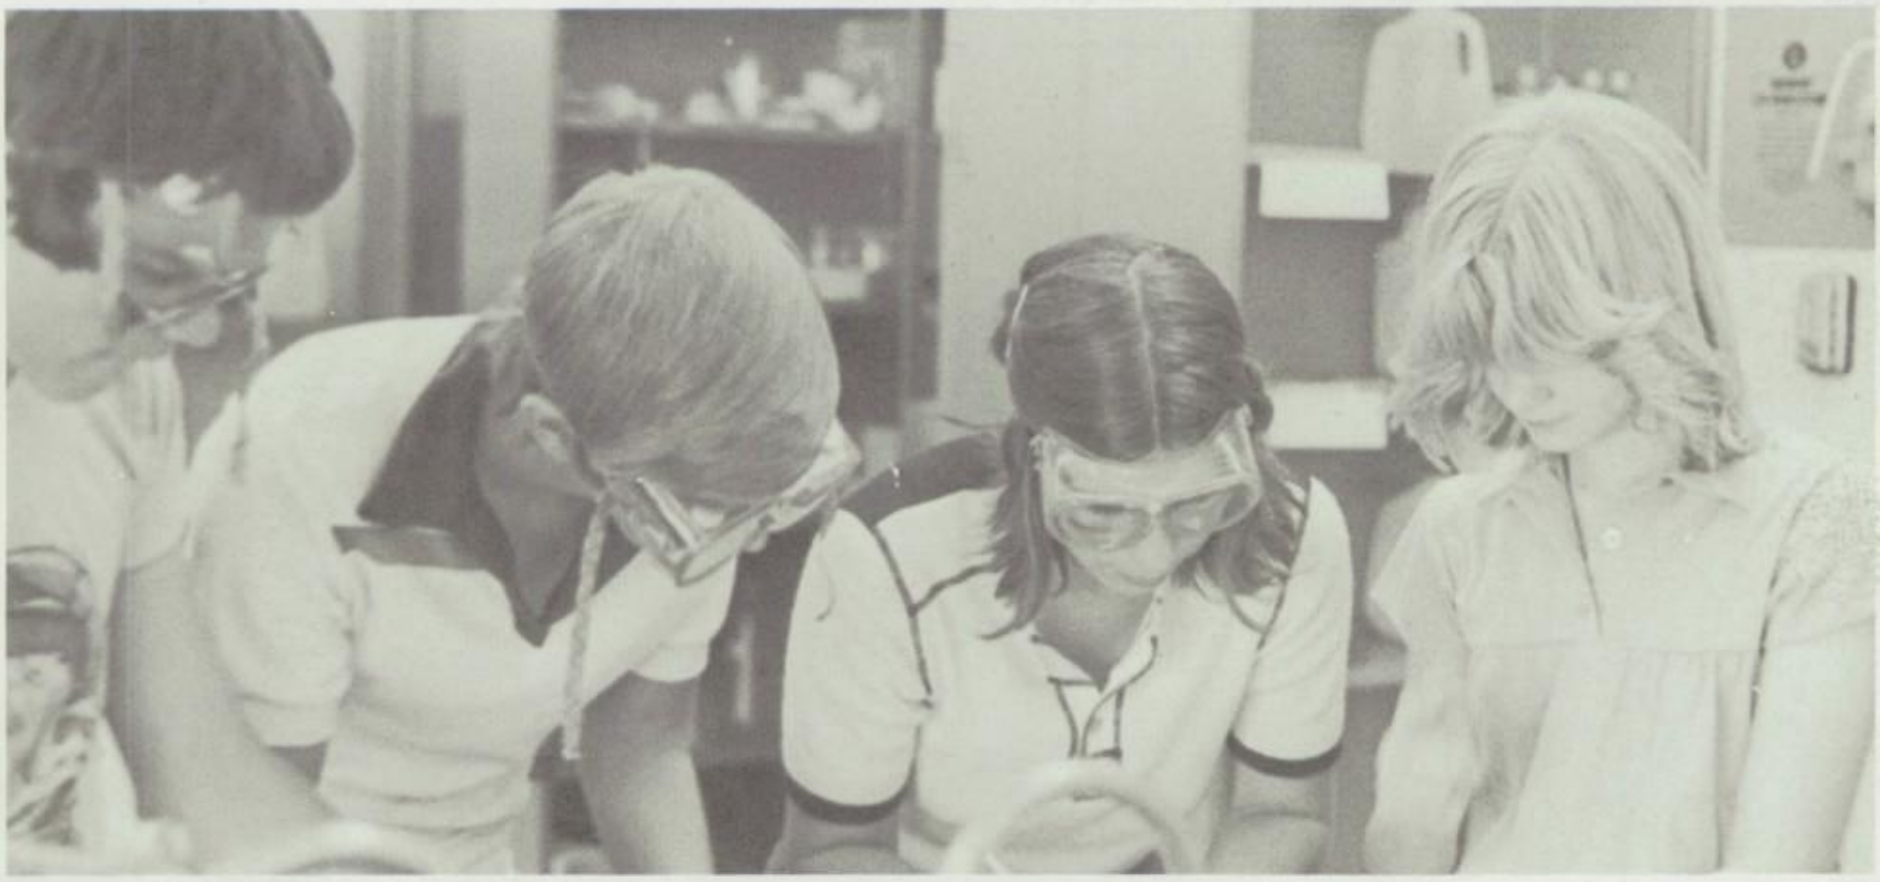


1—Searching for Sao Paulo, S. Morris, K. Armand, and C. Paris locate the hometown of our Exchange Student from Brazil.
2—World history class groups leaders of church and governments to study the Feudal Empire of Western Europe.
3—U. S. History classes study current events of today by reading and cutting articles of interest from newspapers.
4—Students of F. Cole's civics class listen attentively and take notes as he lectures on voting rights of Americans.
5—U. S. History teacher J. Bowden updates the individual competition test chart to finalize the results of a test.
6—Sociology instructor G. Smith takes time to check over his notes before the class discussion begins.

Science combines biology, chemistry and physics

Salem High's Science Department was full of studies, experiments, and labs. Students in Biology I and II were busy learning the structure of various organisms while chemistry students were advancing their scientific knowledge and physics students were taught about the interactions between energy and motion. While some people just took the classes to fill requirements for graduation, other students took them to advance their knowledge in their interest area. Perhaps these latter students may become the scientific leaders of our country or world.

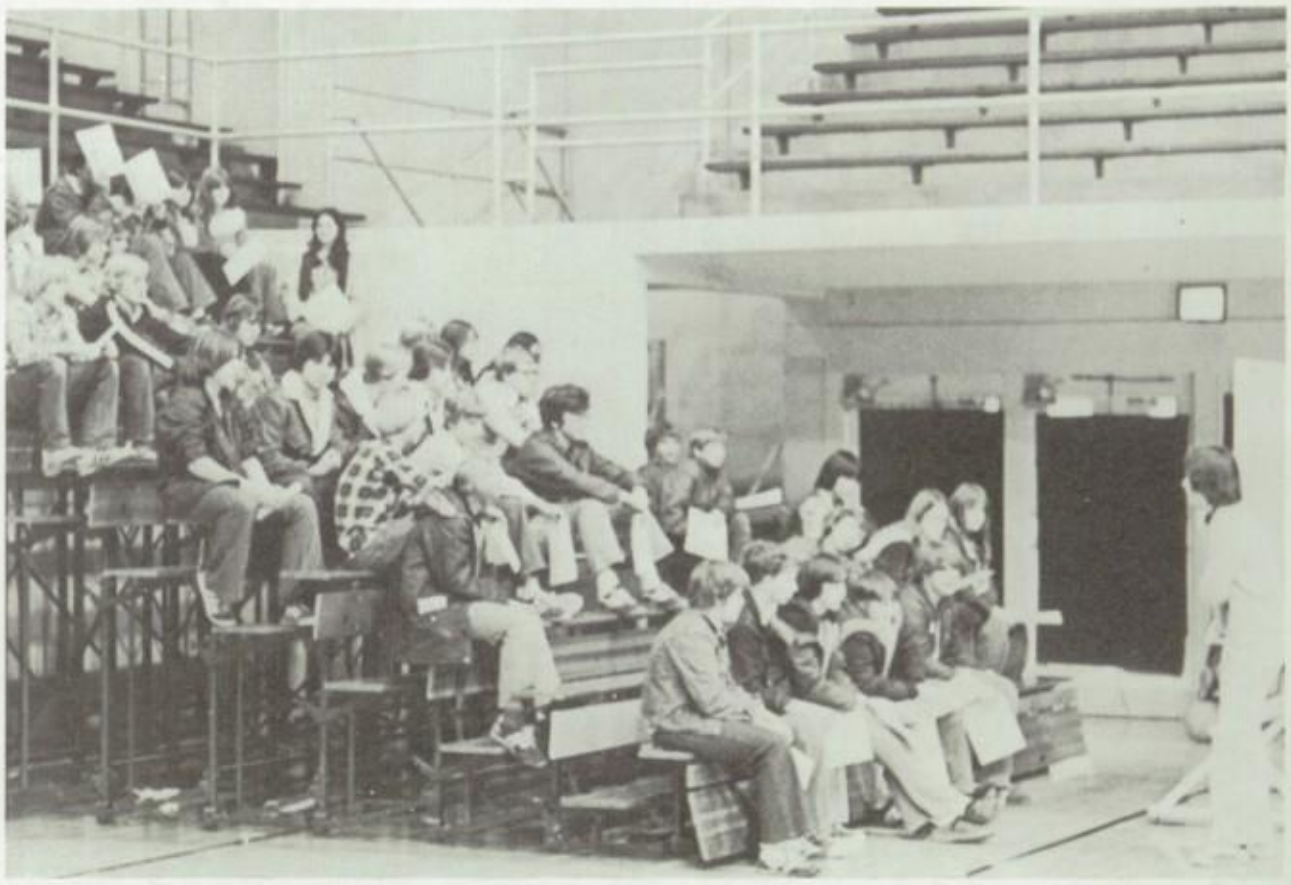


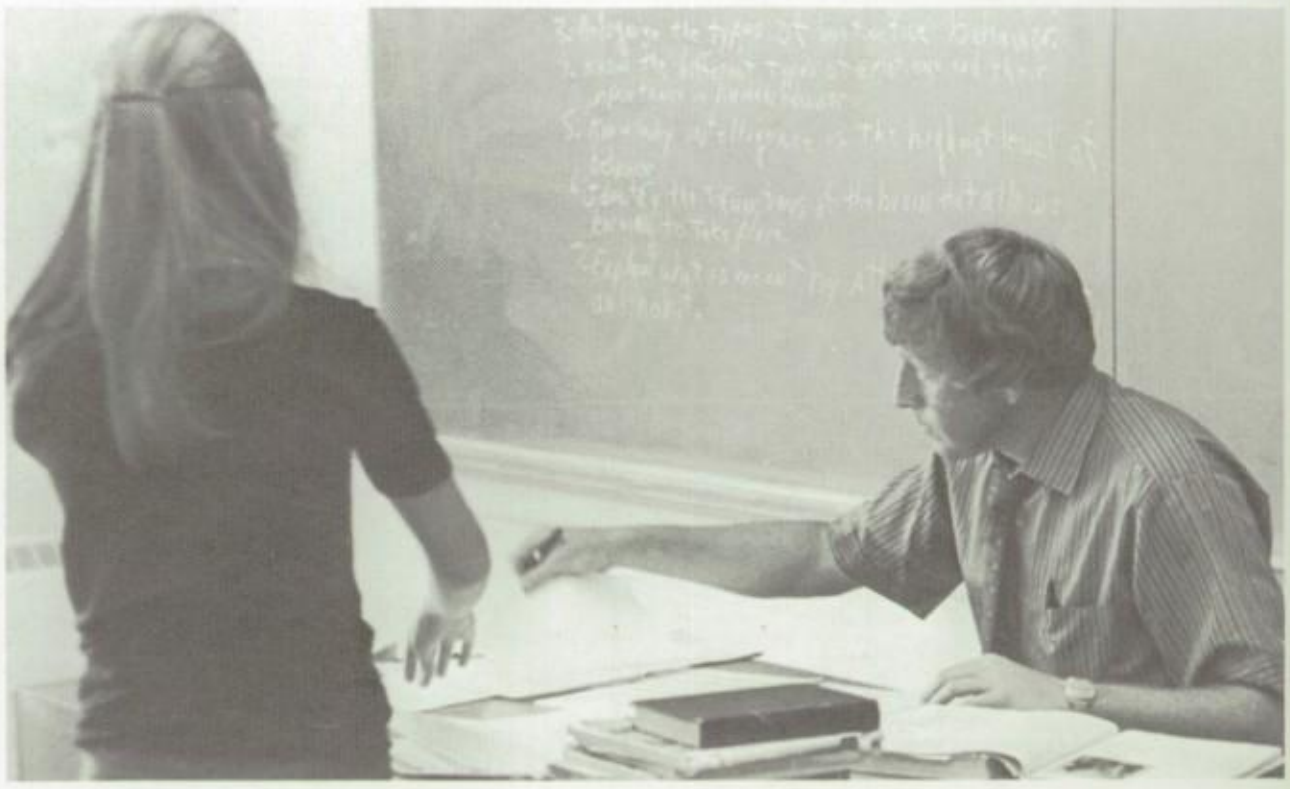


1—In an experiment in physics class, Mr. Boeckmann demonstrates the use of a Vandergraff generator to his students.
2—Trying to get an experiment completed before the end of class, A. Box and A. Briscoe write down the results of their testing.
3—Watching snakes in the biology room is always an interesting occupation even for the teacher, Mr. McCurdy.
4—Working together on a lab project in chemistry room are Melody Terrell, Connie Crowe, Chris Adamson, and Mark Wallace.
5—Teaching the chemistry class about the many types of reactions in science, Mr. Jones writes a definition on the board.

SHS students learn about health and keeping fit

Students who knew very little about their health now know how important it is to make good decisions about smoking, drinking, using drugs, and other health issues after completing the course taught by Miss Claycombe and Mr. Dunn. Miss Claycombe is also the gym teacher for the girls and Mr. Jolly keeps the boys in shape. Active games such as basketball, handball, volleyball, shuffleboard and other competitive sports are played in gym class. Mr. Jolly and Miss Claycombe emphasize teamwork, good sportsmanship, and fitness.





1—Before beginning to play the game of soccer, Miss Claycombe explains the rules of the game to her class.
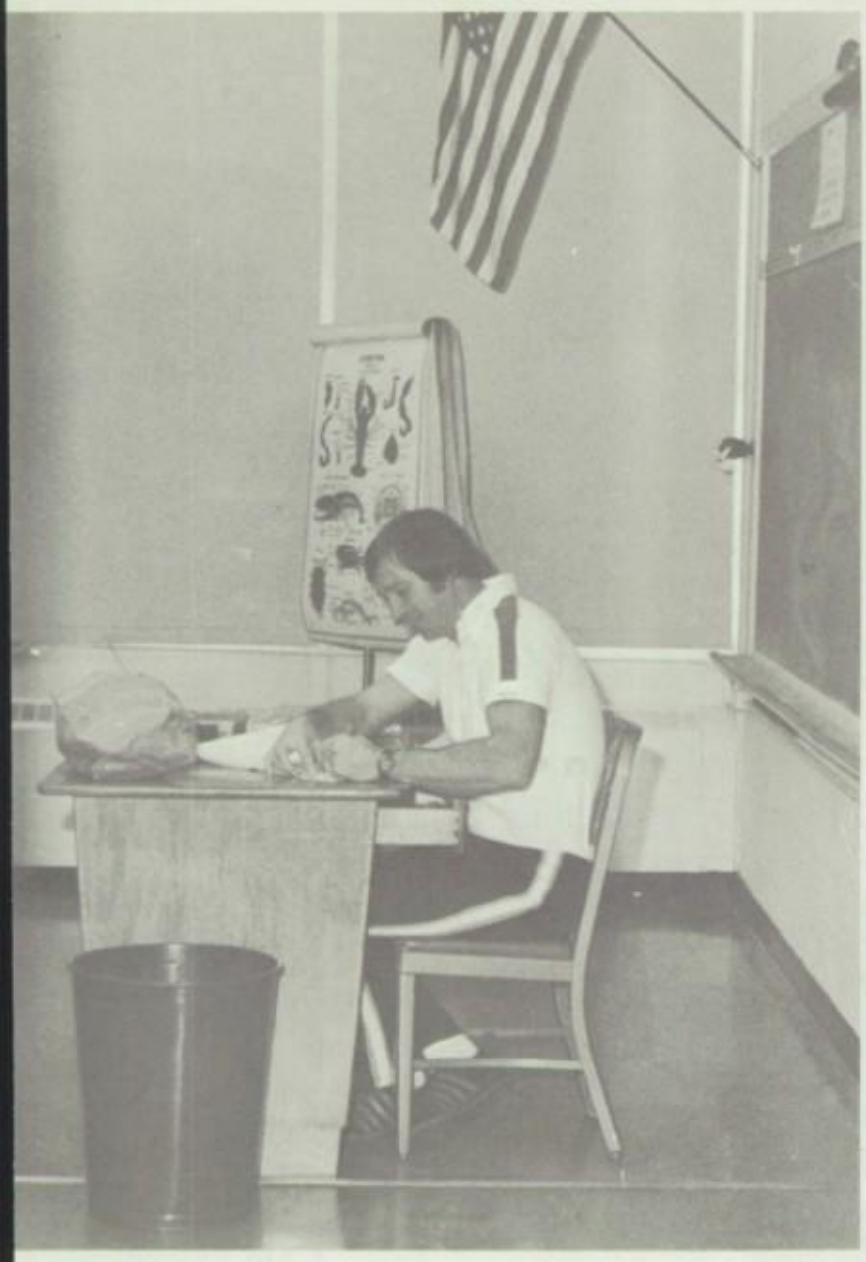
3—Freshman S. Luse goes in with the hockey puck to score one more point for her team, leading them to victory.
4—Health teacher Mr. Bill Dunn has written an assignment on the board for his class. Here he accepts a student's paper.



1—Preparing his lesson plans, Mr. Paul Jolly teaches one class of biology as well as three periods of boys PE.
2—Sophomore D. Wells participates in a hockey game. He is trying to get control of the puck to score.
3—Gym teacher Mr. Jolly gives J. Smith a few pointers on the rules for a football game. A play is being planned.
4—Freshman E. Wheeler takes the ball in to score another point for his team with a little help from K. Simler.

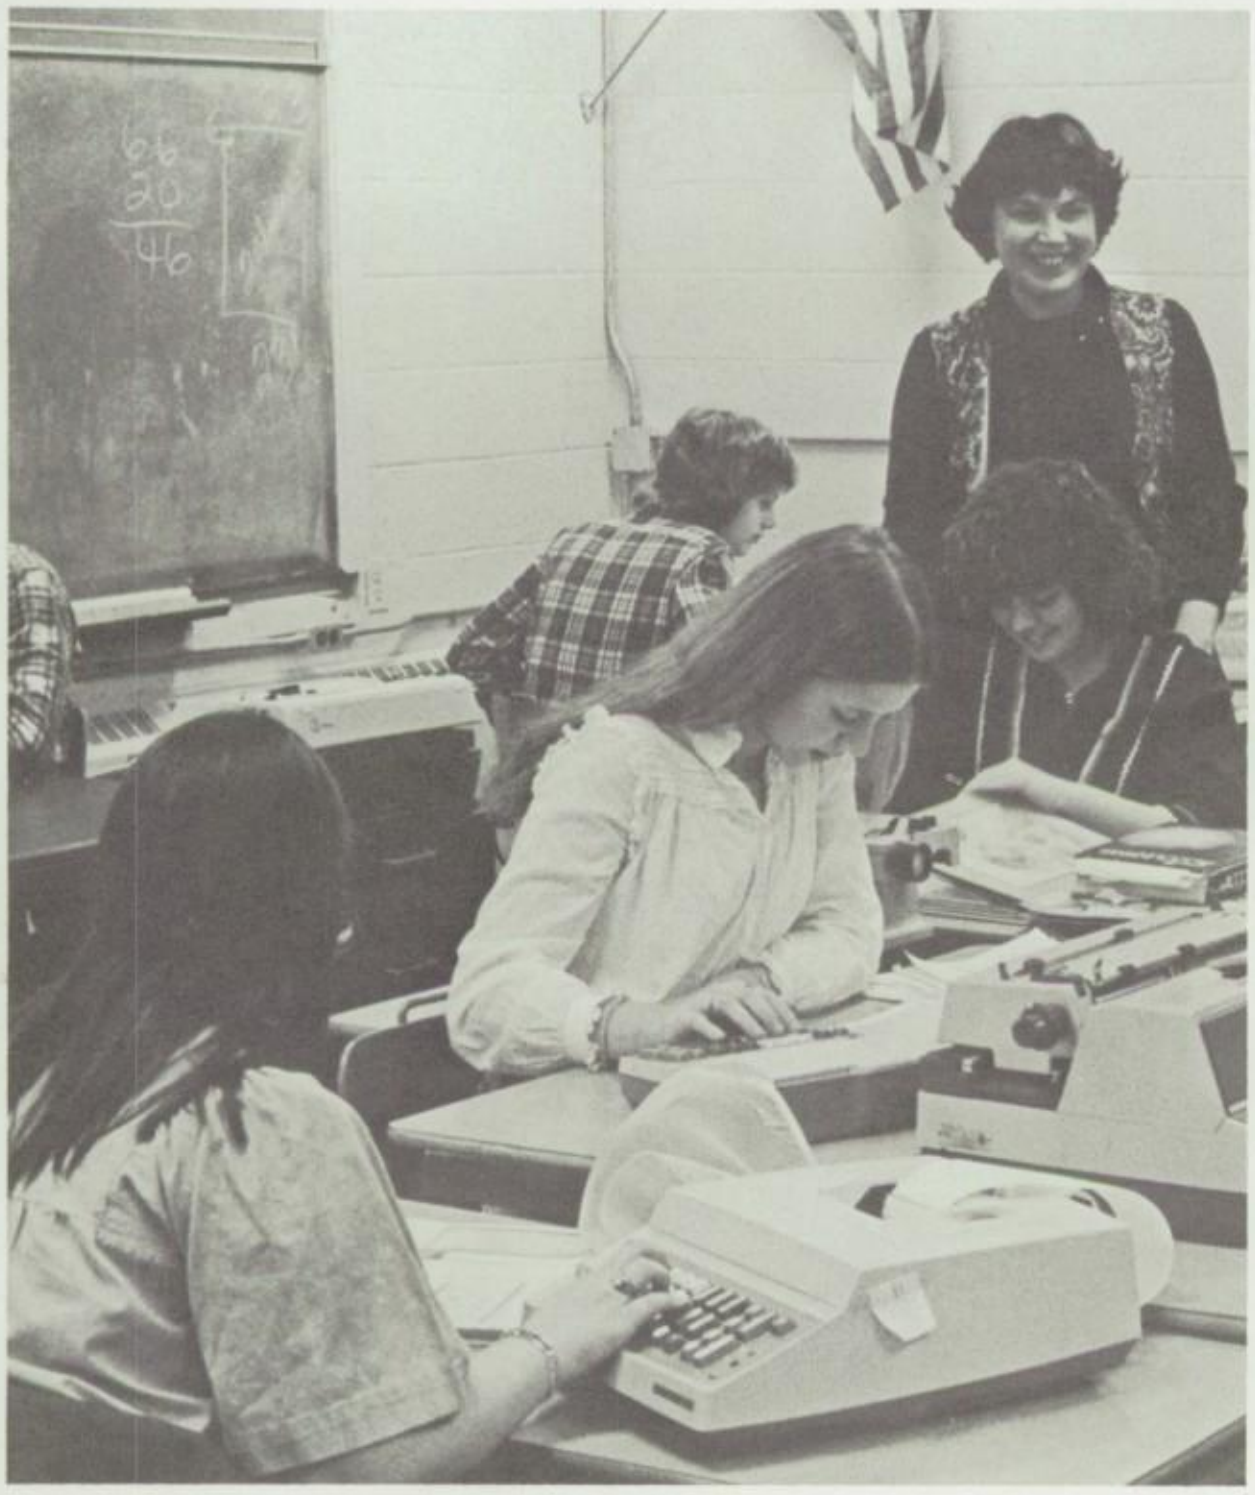
Four teachers share the responsibilities of the Business Department. Their teaching areas include accounting, shorthand, basic business, Business Office Education (a vocational course), office machines, and office procedures. All of these courses provide students with skills and techniques which will be useful to them whether they go directly into the world of business or enter a business college. Enrollment has decreased somewhat the past two years because more students are taking an introductory typing course in the middle school.

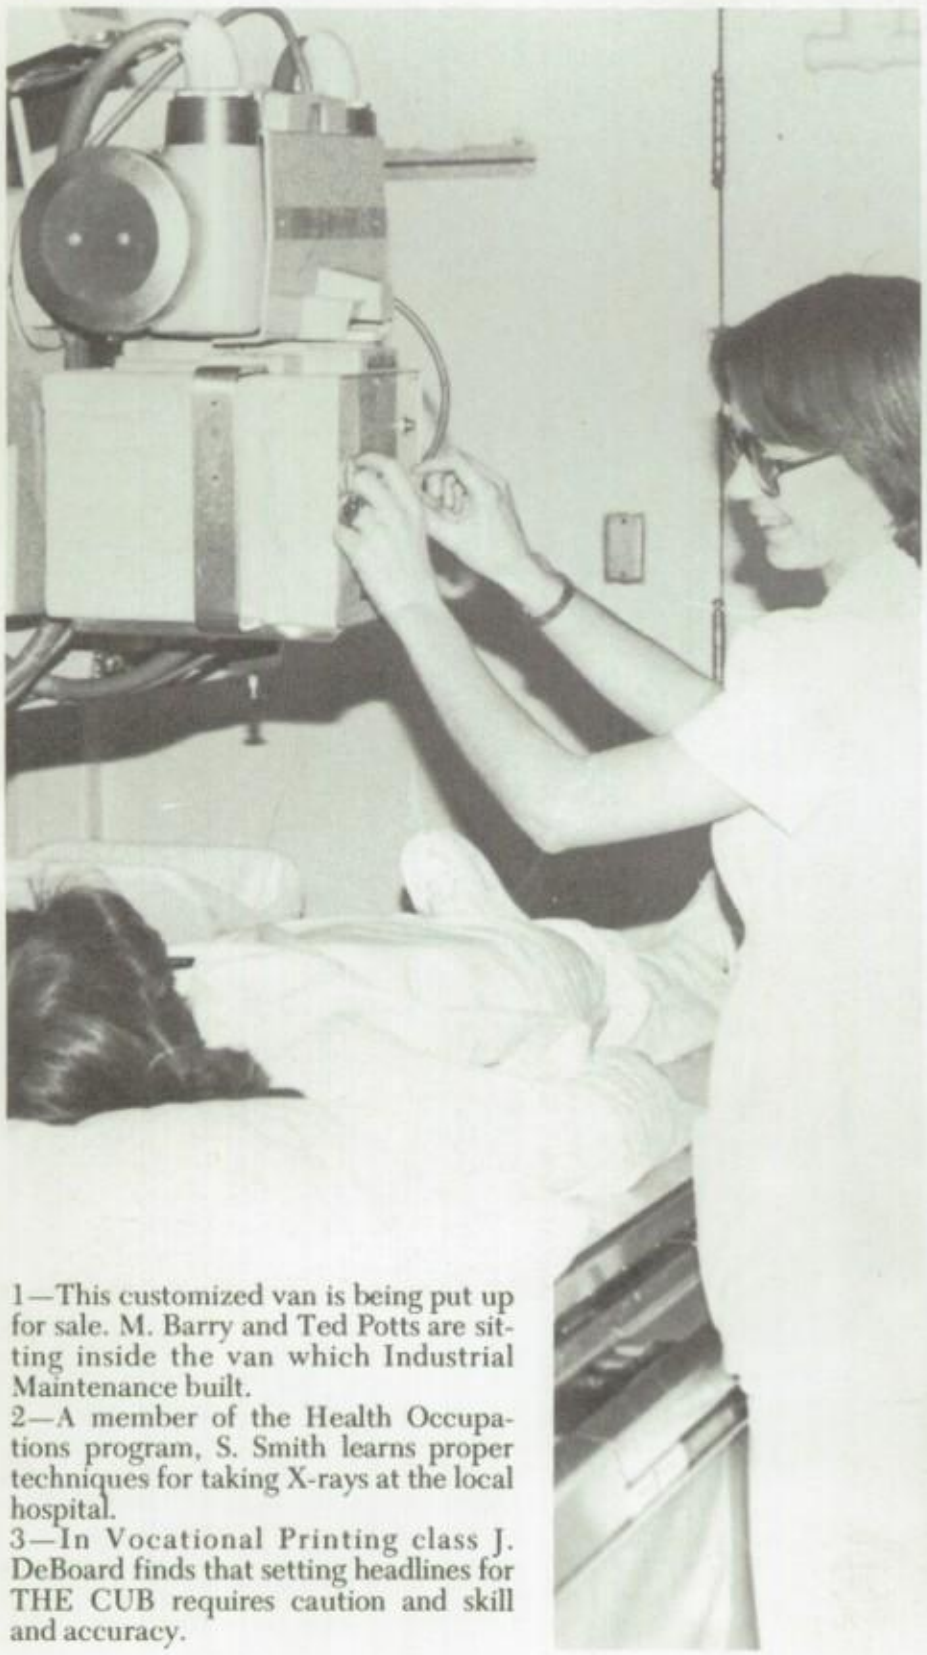
1—Under the supervision of Mrs. Scifres, BOE students have a chance to find out what it is like to be employed in an office.
2—As her class waits patiently Mrs. Verble discusses the results of a test before returning the papers to her students.
3—Six sections of basic business are taught by Mr. Richards and Mrs. Verble. Here students await the showing of a film.
4—Encountering difficulty in figuring the amount of discount he would get, a student receives assistance from his teacher.
5—Speed and accuracy are important skills which must be developed by good typists. Speed tests are "part of the game."

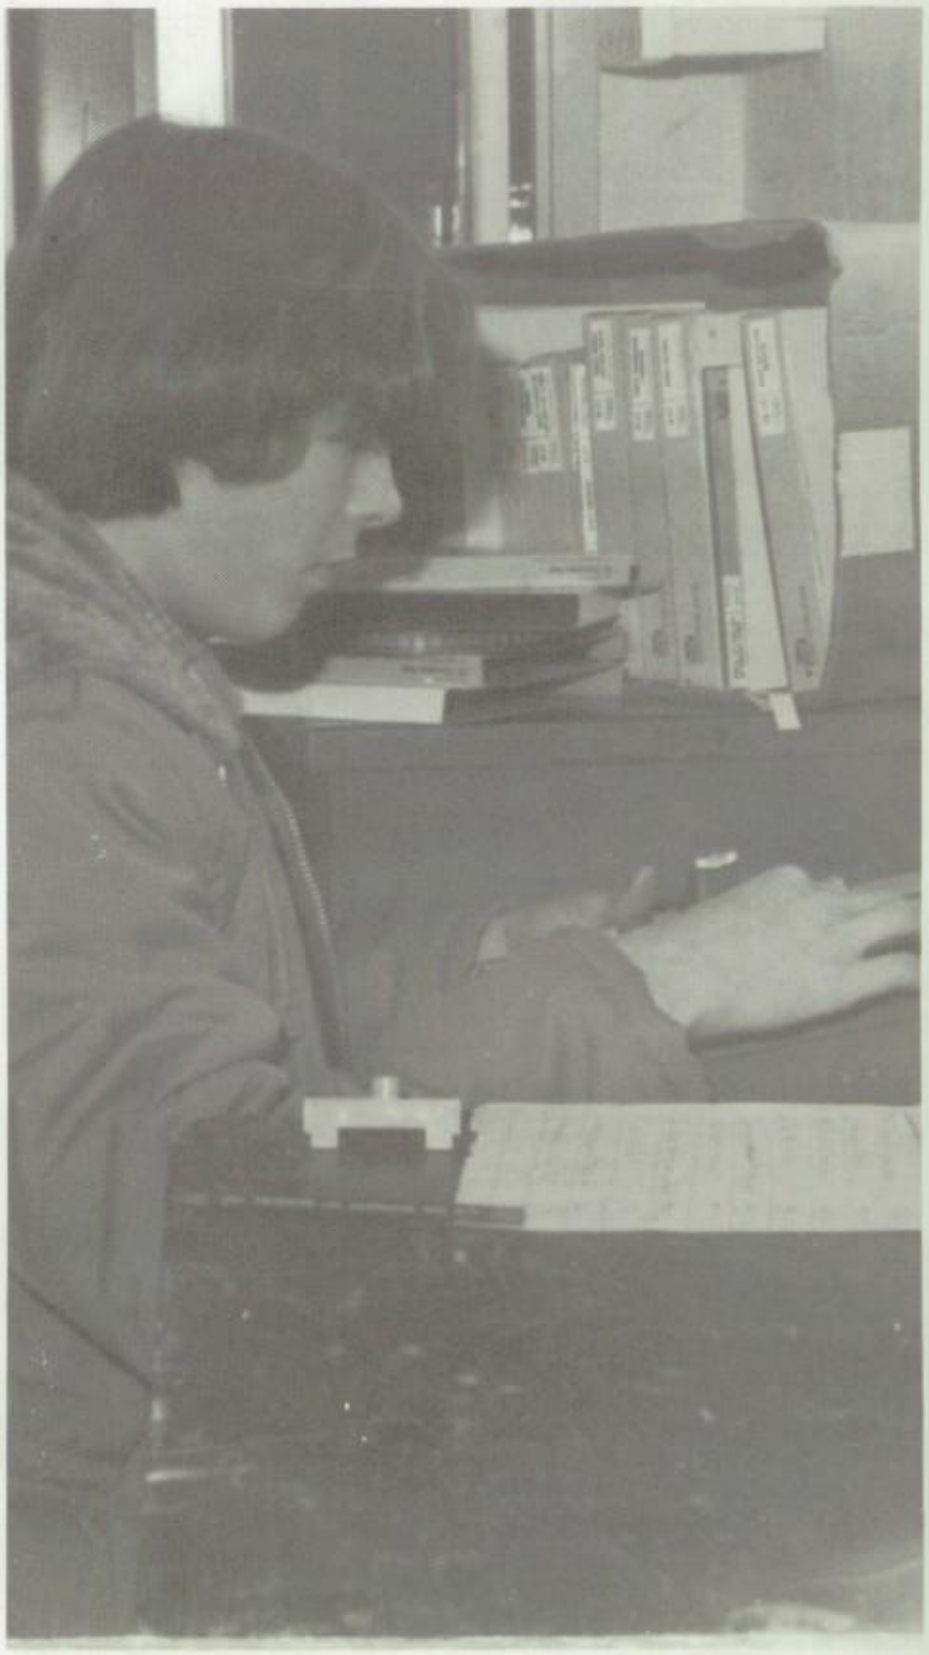


1—Typing presents problems to students. Mrs. Barnett provides M. Lyles the information and encouragement that she needs.
2—In office machines class T. Huckleberry reads proof as B. Gilbert and S. Bedwell learn how to operate the duplicator.
3—Mrs. Scifres observes as her students check and re-check their calculations to make certain their balances are correct.
4—"Adjusting and setting margins isn't my favorite pastime," remarks S. Jones as she makes sure her tabs are set.

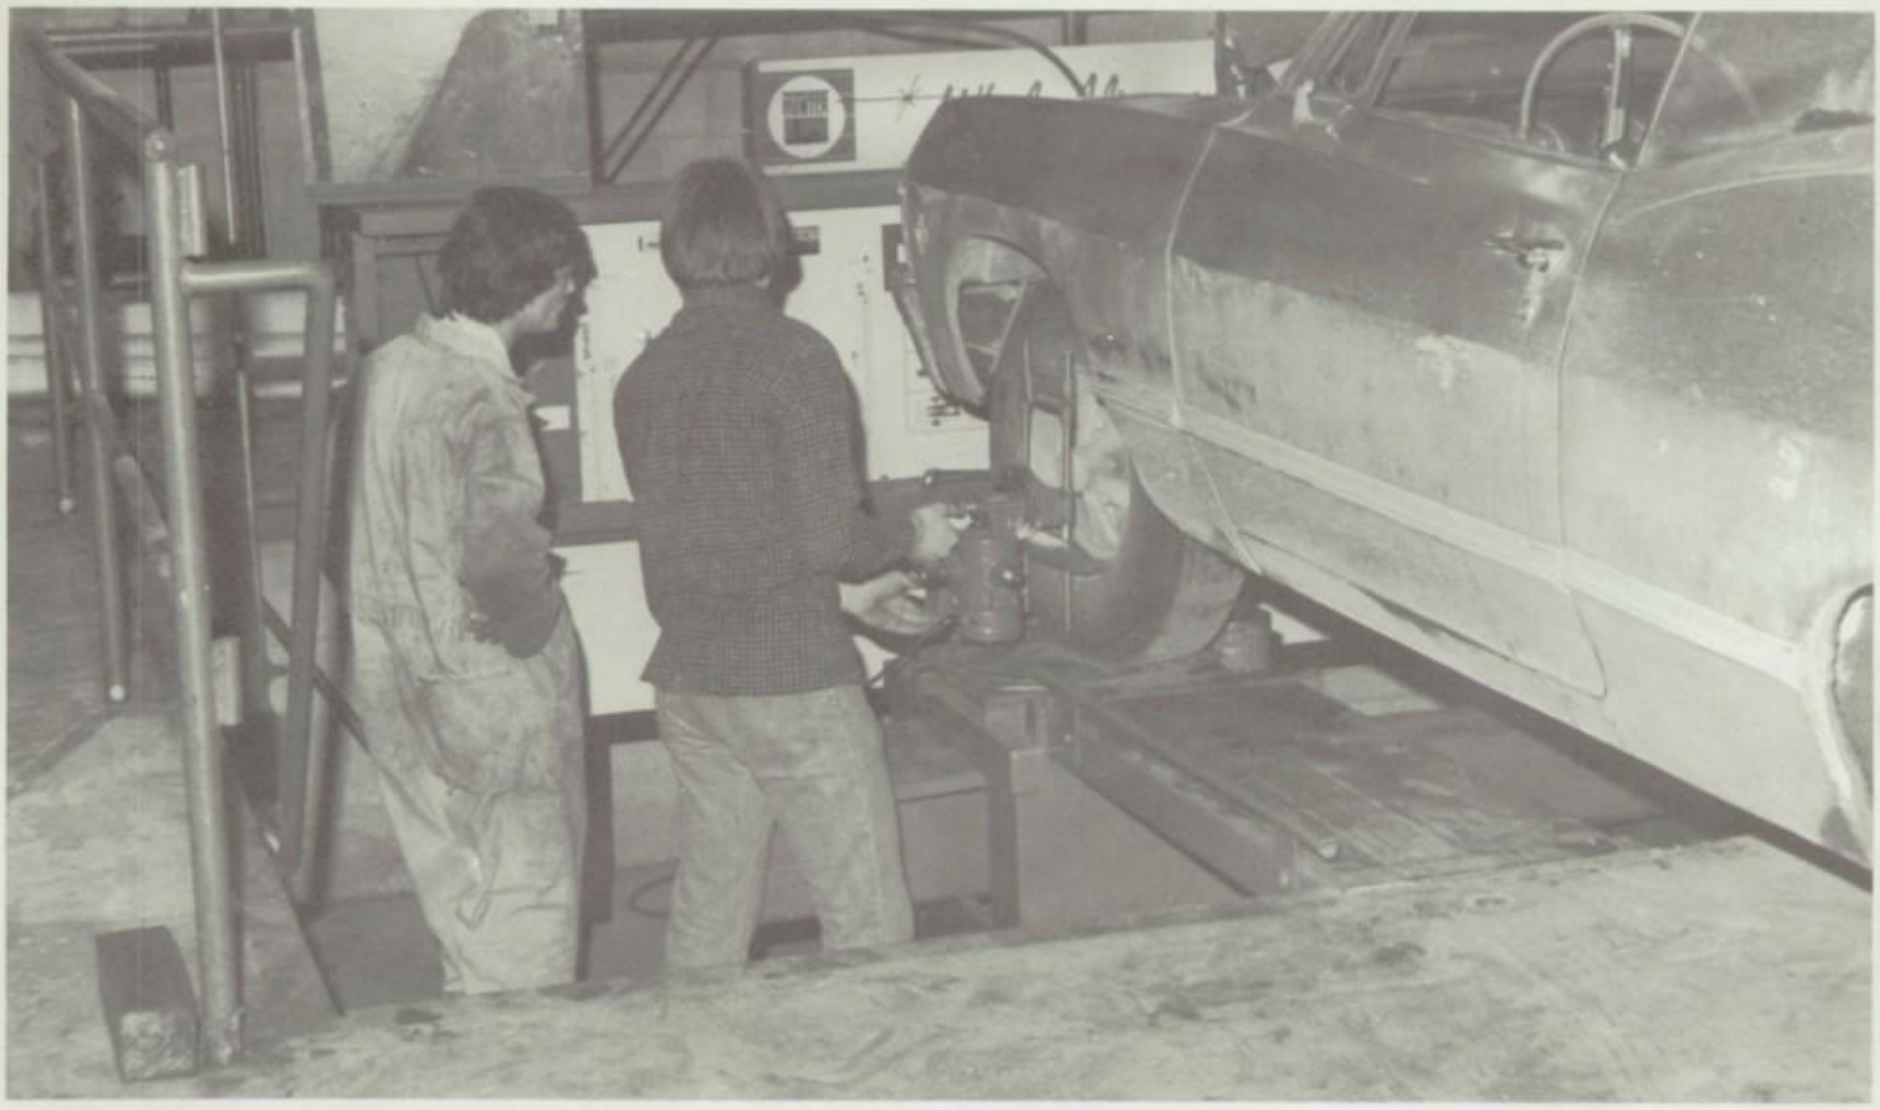
Helping while you learn is vocational education

BOE, Health Occupations, Industrial Maintenance, and Auto Mechanics are the areas of Vocational Education. It gives students a back-drop of experience for working in the community. BOE sends students into various offices in town to see what the working world is like. Health occupations send students to the hospital, nursing home, and blood banks. Industrial Maintenance helps the school by making improvements such as laying a sidewalk and customizing a van. Auto Mechanics gives students experience in car care, which will be useful to them throughout their lives.





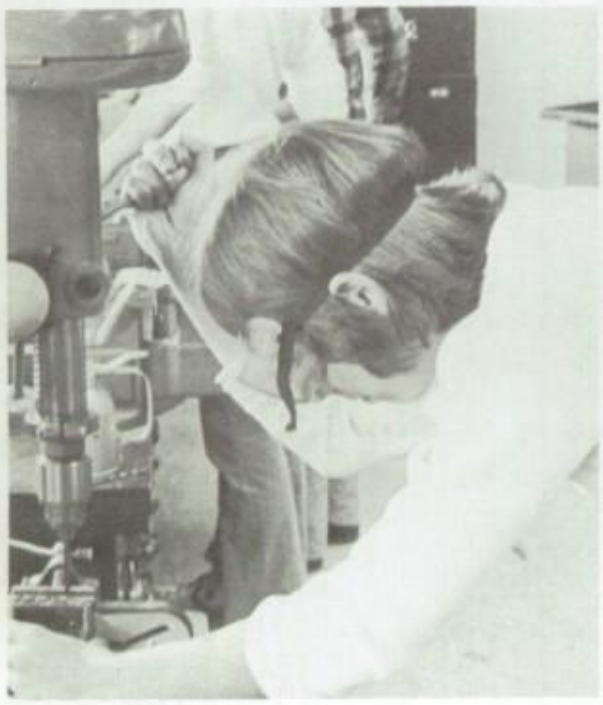
1—This customized van is being put up for sale. M. Barry and Ted Potts are sitting inside the van which Industrial Maintenance built.
2—A member of the Health Occupations program, S. Smith learns proper techniques for taking X-rays at the local hospital.
3—In Vocational Printing class J. DeBoard finds that setting headlines for THE CUB requires caution and skill and accuracy.

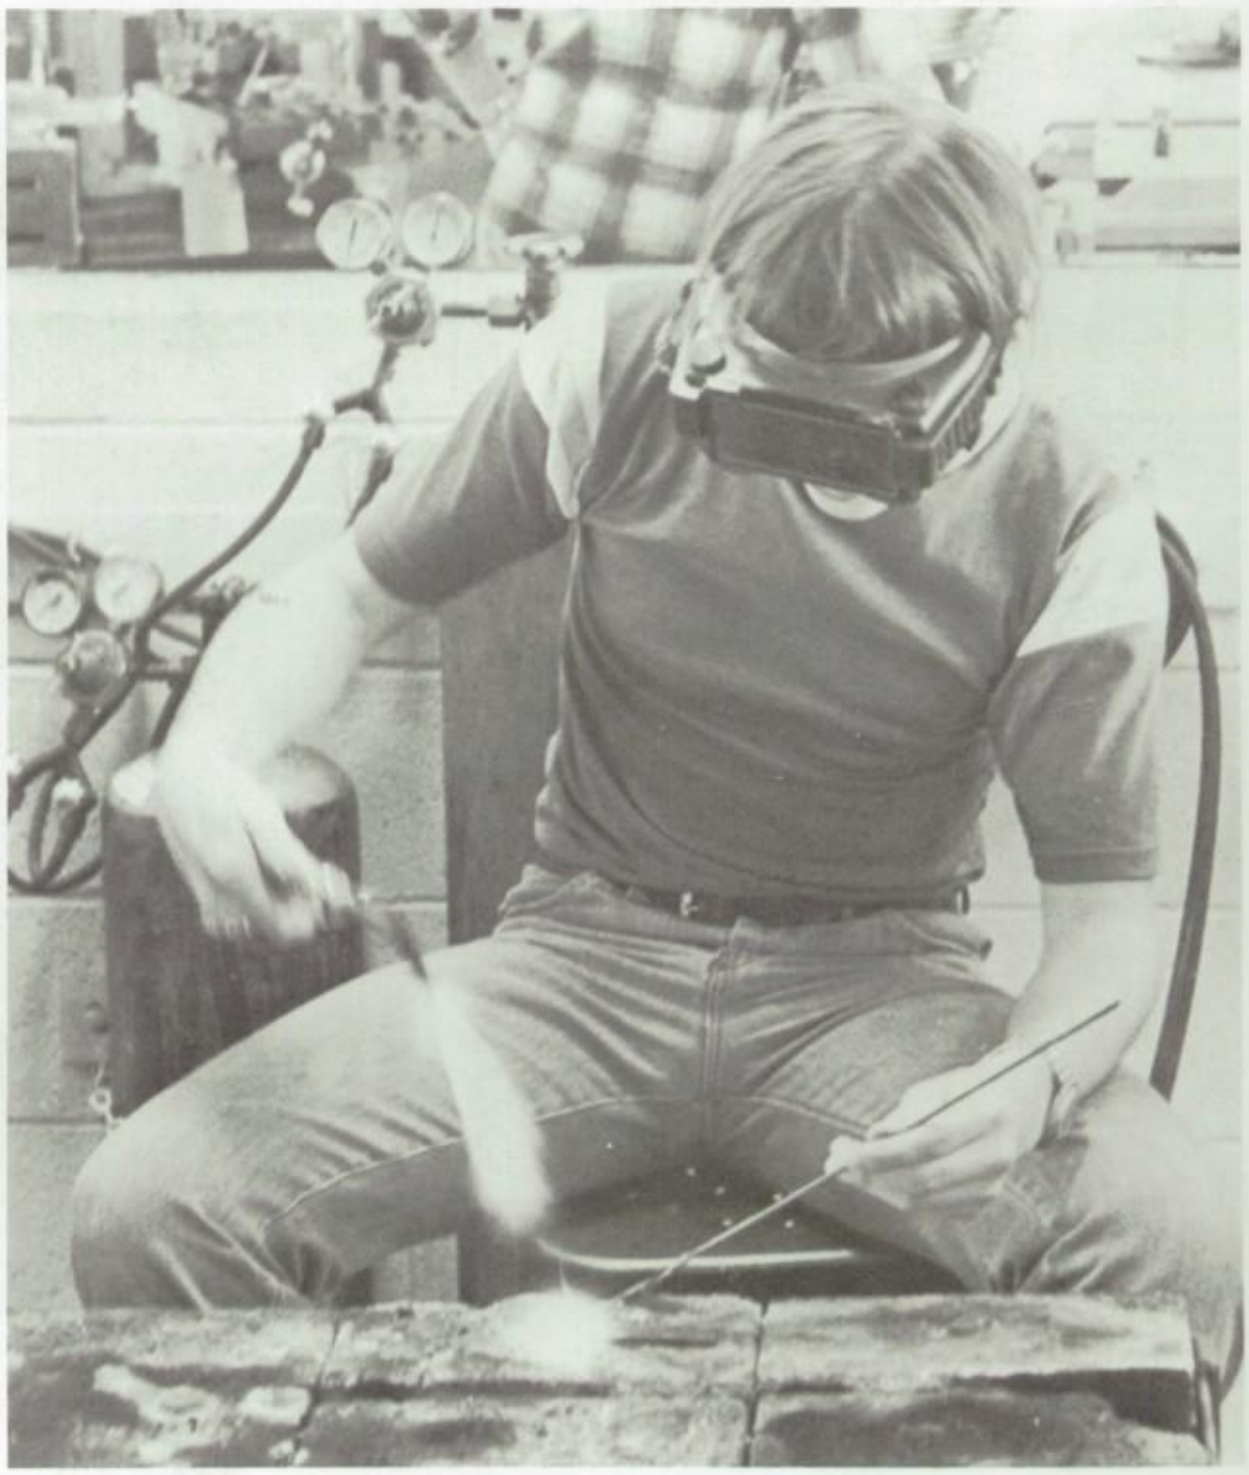


1—In Auto Mechanics students are permitted to work on their own cars. Here D. Payne and M. Campbell work on the former's car.
2—T. Nichols and B. Gasser cut grooves in a board to make it fit into another piece of wood for their Industrial Maintenance project.
3—Accountant D. Bundy and Mrs. Scifres pose with R. Holler in the hospital administration office. She is a BOE trainee.

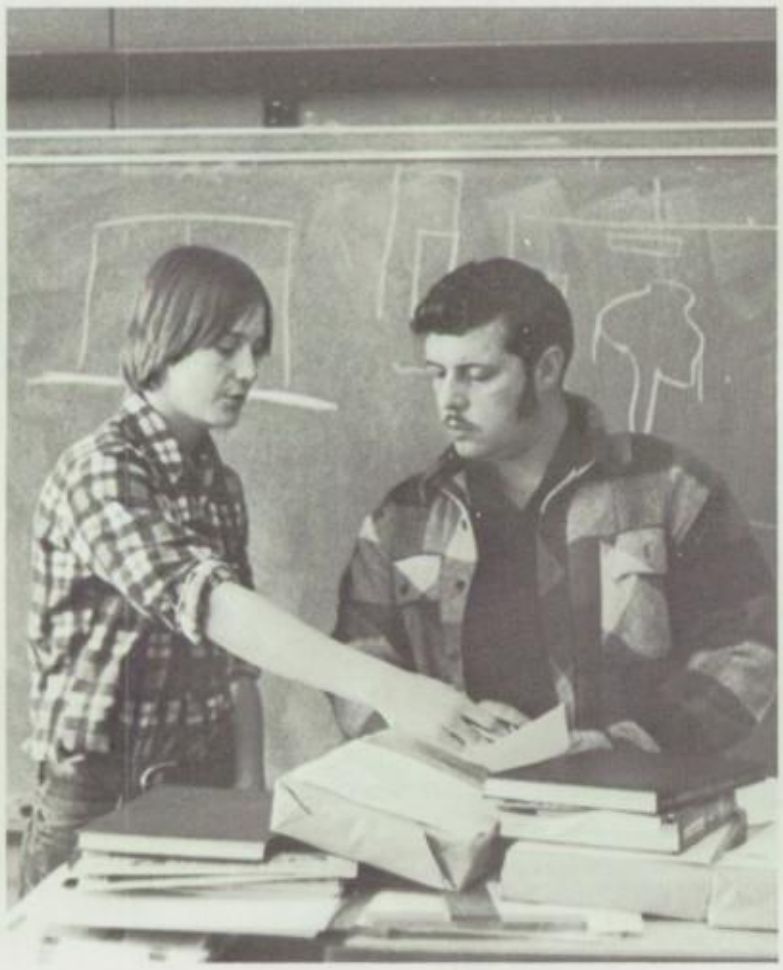
Young men putting ideas to work for future usage

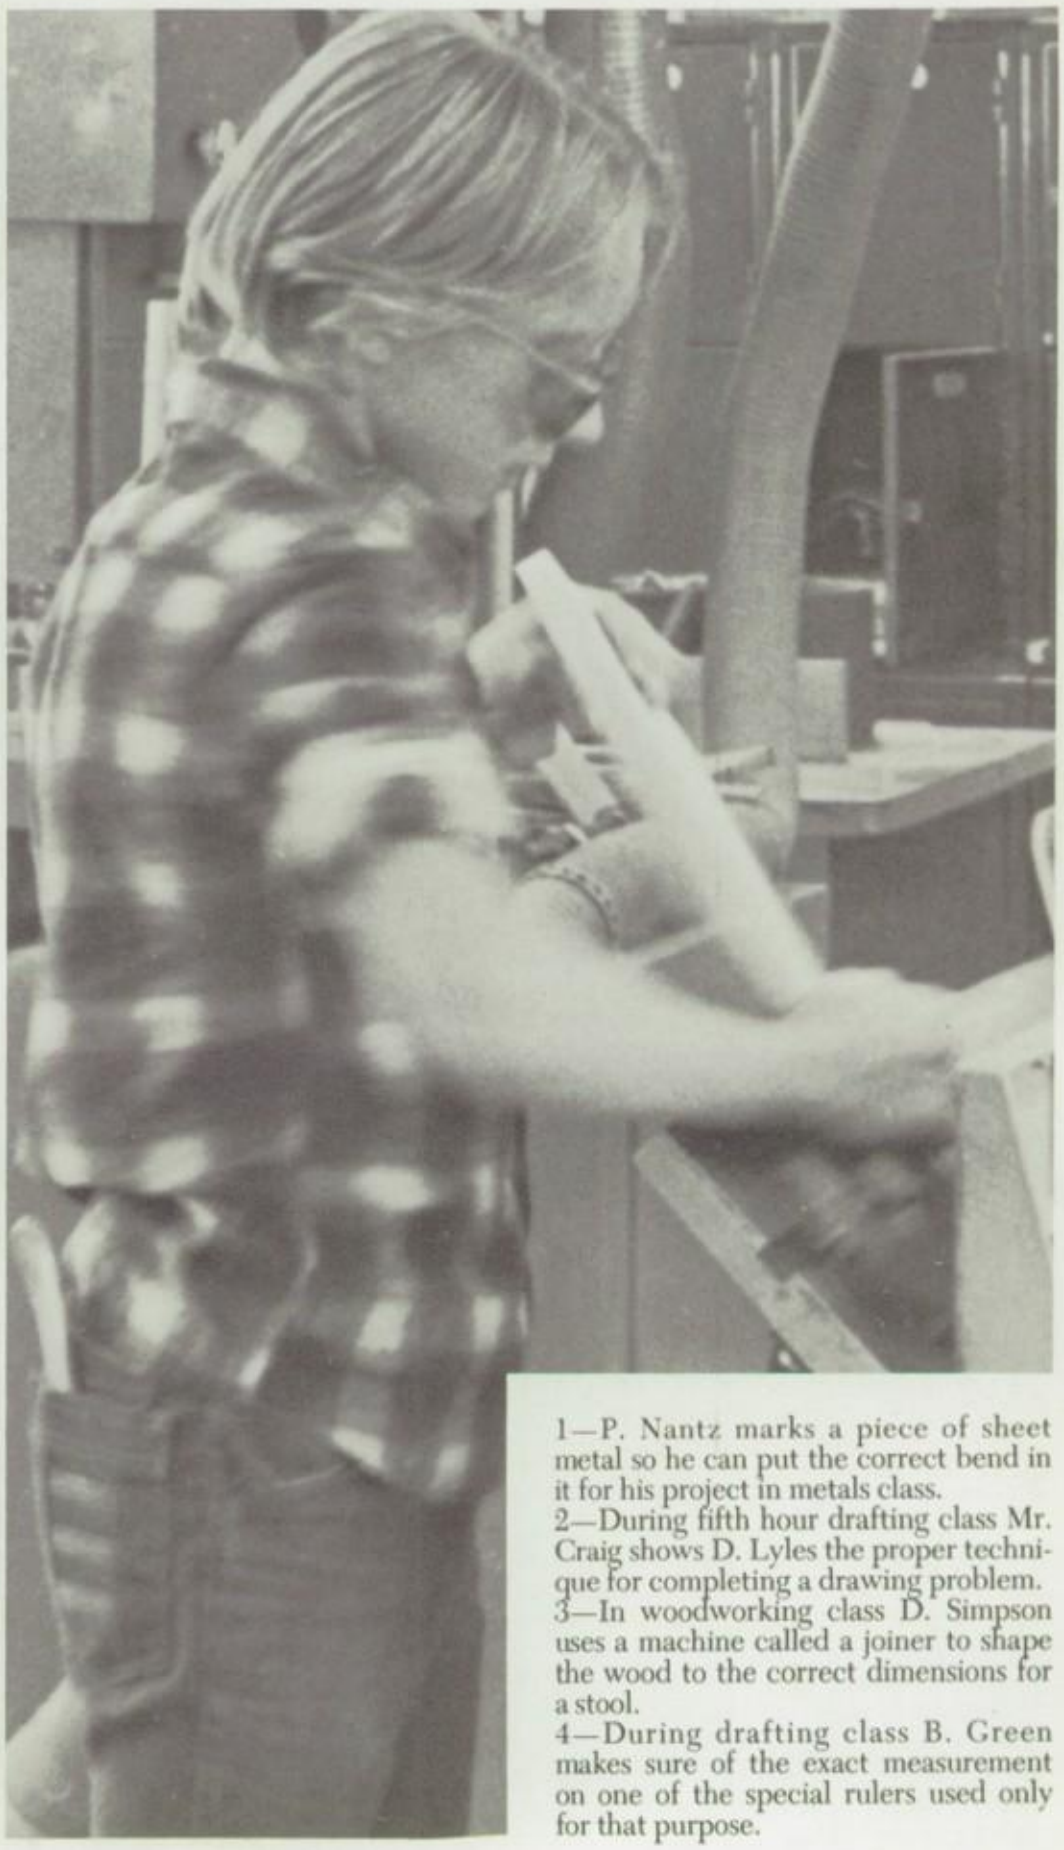
Students in Industrial Arts learn the basic operations in a classroom situation with the teachers explaining the basic skills needed to use the machines properly. After completing a test on the machines, students choose from a variety of projects. They work on their projects for the entire semester and then they are graded on the quality of their finished product. Students are supervised in the areas of woodworking, metals, welding and electricity by seasoned professionals, including Mr. Craig, Mr. Elliott, and Mr. Morris.





1—For future use in the business world, welding is taught in shop. Here G. Wilcutt is learning to weld for the first time.
2—D. Cummings uses the high speed drill press to make sure that the hole is drilled in the exact place for his project.
3—To insure strength, B. Price puts a pop rivet in the table lamp which he is making in Industrial Arts class.





1—P. Nantz marks a piece of sheet metal so he can put the correct bend in it for his project in metals class.
2—During fifth hour drafting class Mr. Craig shows D. Lyles the proper technique for completing a drawing problem.
3—In woodworking class D. Simpson uses a machine called a joiner to shape the wood to the correct dimensions for a stool.
4—During drafting class B. Green makes sure of the exact measurement on one of the special rulers used only for that purpose.

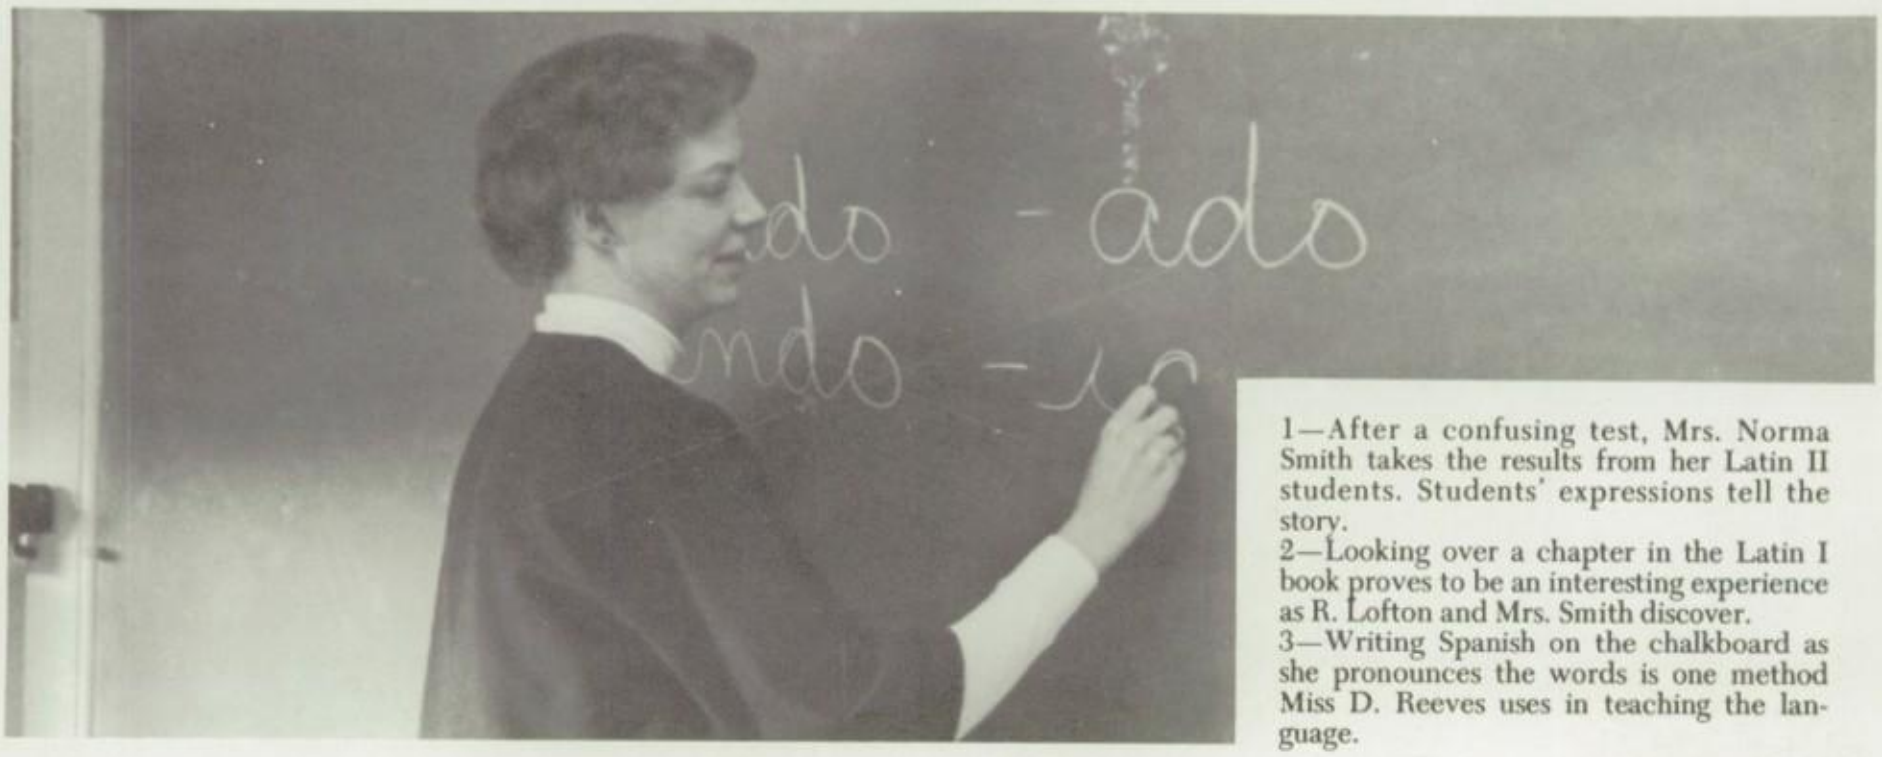
Drivers education 'wheels' its way down sideroads

Drivers Ed was a new class offered in Salem High School this year. Prior to this year, it had been a summer course. It has become an important class, teaching students good driving habits under all weather and road conditions. Mr. James Ralston, the instructor, felt that driving every day, rain or shine, was a great advantage. This comprehensive course helps prepare students for every situation. The driving simulators, set up in Room 227, were a real asset to the course. The car used this year was a 1979 Chevrolet Impala.

1—The driving simulators were a new part of SHS equipment. A classy computer-like terminal controls everything.
2—Having to change a flat tire during the winter can be a fun experience when there are enough hands to do the job.
3—As L. Stout and M. Bush try out the new driving simulators, Mr. Ralston checks gauges to see that things are going right.

Languages 'invite' students to broaden horizons

The Foreign Language Department at Salem High School consists of Latin and Spanish. Studying these languages helps students understand other cultures and life styles and assists them with the structure of English as well. Teaching foreign languages this year were Miss Reeves and Mrs. Smith. Students used films, books, group discussions and their teachers' personal experiences to help them understand their studies more fully. Many students take these courses to prepare themselves for the college classroom and experiences they will have later in their lives.



1—After a confusing test, Mrs. Norma Smith takes the results from her Latin II students. Students' expressions tell the story.
2—Looking over a chapter in the Latin I book proves to be an interesting experience as R. Lofton and Mrs. Smith discover.
3—Writing Spanish on the chalkboard as she pronounces the words is one method Miss D. Reeves uses in teaching the language.

Home Ec Department sews up plans for the future

The Home Economics Department was once again under the supervision of Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Spradley. This vocational involved meal planning, health, family living, grooming, basic and advanced sewing and cooking. Home Ec has taken on a new look with its studies in understanding ourselves, interpersonal relations, practical experiences in management and learning to be a more intelligent consumer. Each year more and more male students are enrolled in this program to help them prepare for their future responsibilites.

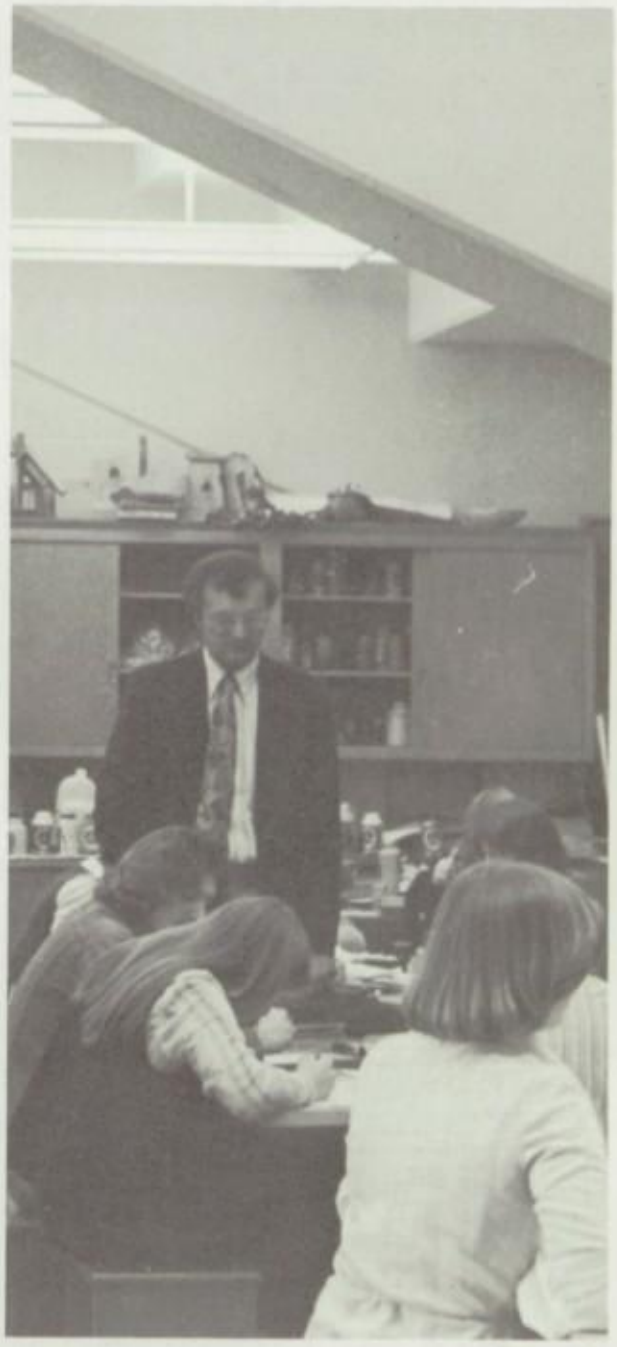
1—Students of the advanced sewing class learn to tell the difference between a single-kint and a double-knit fabric.
2—A Farm Bureau representative demonstrates the method of cutting a pork carcass. The meat was donated to the Home Ec Department.
3—Mrs. Spradley explains to E. Mitchell, B. Gibson, and T. Stephens how designers drape fabrics for patterns.
4—Bookwork also plays an important role in Home Ec as freshman L. Bush realizes; there is more to it than cooking and sewing.

1—During cooking lab junior J. Spaulding and senior S. Bedwell enjoy cheese when used as a dip for chips and celery.
2—Using a steady hand, P. Hubbard carefully measures milk for a cookie recipe as V. Edmondson looks on intently.
3—Mrs. Gordon flours the rolling pin as she demonstrates the proper way to roll out dough for making apple dumplings.

Art became an expression of creations and ideas

Art students at SHS received individual experience in many different areas of art. Beginning students were re-acquainted with the color wheel and learned the basics of mixing colors. Second-year students worked with the printing machine. Third and fourth year students learned the placement of different parts of the face and body and did pencil and chalk portraits from pictures of friends and famous people. Mr. Richard Trueblood, art teacher, in addition to his many other projects, heirloomed bricks from the old junior high building for alumni.

1—Sophomore J. Sandlin patiently ties square knots into her macrame wall hanging—a project of second-year students.
2—Mr. Trueblood took on the responsibility of finishing bricks from the old high school for people who wanted them.
3—With no interruptions and in full concentration, senior R. Renaker hopes to make this drawing one of his best.



1—The making of ceramics and pottery was a project taken on by students from all classes in the Art Department.
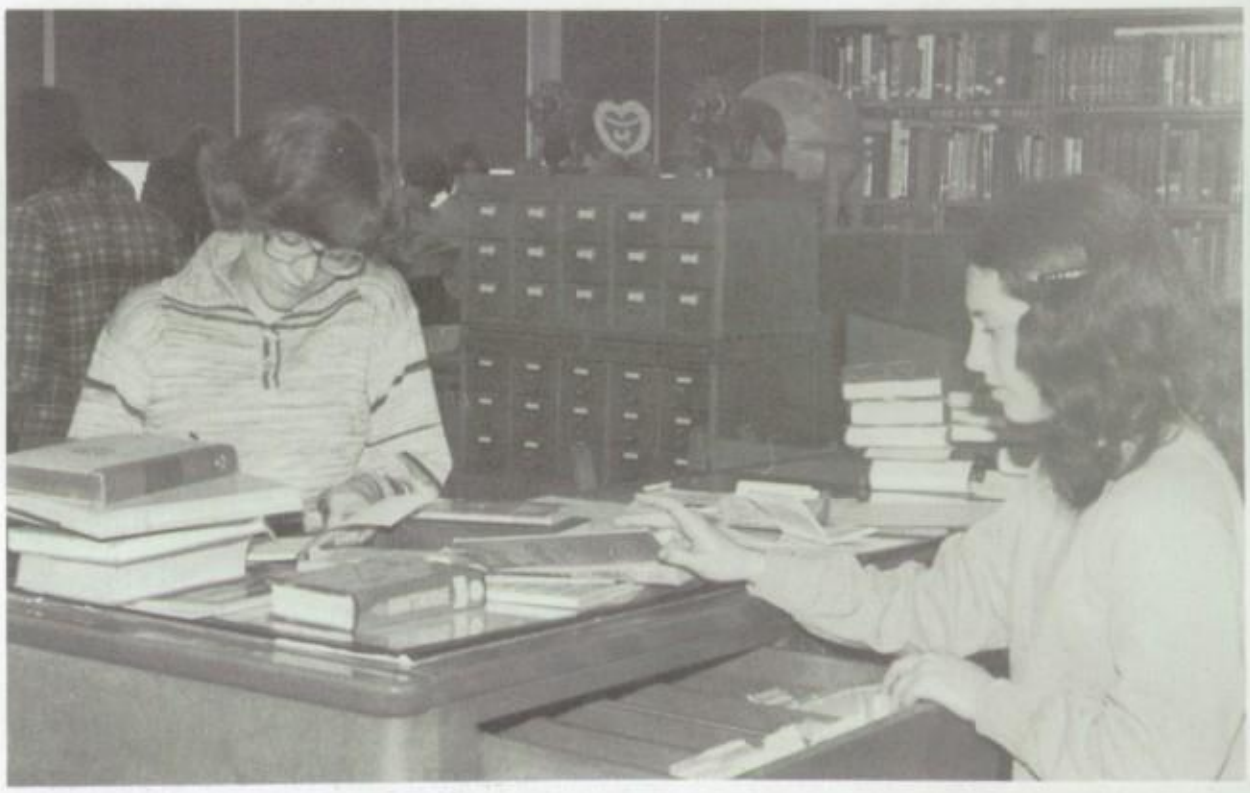
3—Seeing Mr. Scifres browsing through the art room at different times is a familiar sight to most art students.
4—In her second year of art, sophomore M. Kuntz carefully rolls her dry point etching through the press.

Library helps to sharpen minds and dull pencils

One of the most important rooms in Salem High School is the library. With its wide assortment of resource materials, the library gives students a chance to find information on many, many subjects. One project the library took part in again this year was the R.I.F. program. Students were given four books during the year. Mrs. Carolyn Beck feels that picking their own books encouraged students to read more. Another program was the HHALSA, which lets this library have the privilege of borrowing from other school libraries in the area.



1—During one of the R.I.F. give-aways, Salem School Superintendent C. Kinney looks over the selections as M. Abbott picks a book.
2—Using the card catalog, R. West searches for material to help him assemble a "poetry recital on a theme" for Speech Class.
3—While Mrs. Beck makes out a list of overdue books, assistant S. Nolan checks in some books which have been returned.
4—Library assistants are Standing: J. Paris, T. McCauley, S. Shields, T. Sowder, B. Jeffries, Librarian C. Beck. Seated: N. Bowling, S. Nolan, A. Box, C. Martin, B. Dillman.

Dewey decimal system—main goal for audio-visual

The Audio-Visual Department had a "moving" year. Taking complete inventory, putting items under the Dewey Decimal System, and moving to a different room proved to take time and effort by D. Beck and his workers. K. Hattabaugh started the year as an assistant but was replaced by V. Strange when the former moved to Vincennes. The goal of A-V was to put all multi-media items under the Dewey Decimal System so everything would be easier to find. Hopefully the new system will prove beneficial to students and teachers alike.

1—Audio-Visual Director David Beck looks over papers as he orders extra films. (Picture taken in old A-V room.)
2—Student A-V assistants are (seated) K. Nicholson, R. Baker, J. Horner, B. Naugle, M. Abbott, T. Huckleberry. (standing) aide K. Hattabaugh, D. Garriott, R. Taylor, S. Wilder, B. Kinney, L. Simler, P. Renaker.
3—Starting as a replacemeet for K. Hattabaugh is aide Mrs. Veda Strange, who is in charge of student assistants.
4—Learning how to operate projectors and other equipment, Patty Renaker is one of twelve assistants this year.

Hurry! Read about it! Get your copy of 'The Cub'

The 59th Volume of THE SALEM CUB proved to be successful at informing and entertaining SHS students and personnel. Editor Stacey DeJean and her Staff produced 15 issues, including a Club Cub and the Salem Flub—an April Fool's issue. New columns added were "For Your Information," "Dear Flabby," and "The Music Column." The Staff was consistent, coming out with a bi-weekly paper. Advisor B. Anderson contributed her publishing and typesetting know-how. THE CUB attempted to deal with important subjects of interest to residents of the community as well as students.

1—Editor S. DeJean listens carefully as CUB advisor Mrs. Anderson explains how a typographical error may be corrected simply.
2—Senior R. Henderson, advertising manager, measures the space again to make sure that the ad will fit perfectly.
3—S. DeJean and P. Martin work hurriedly on a layout in order to get a page down to the print shop before first hour begins.
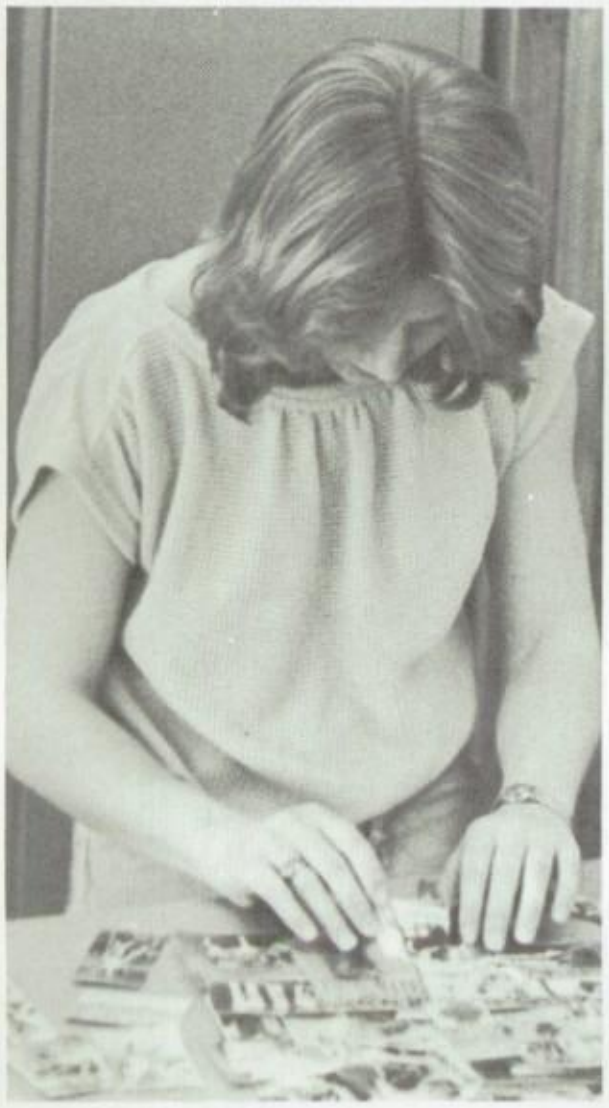
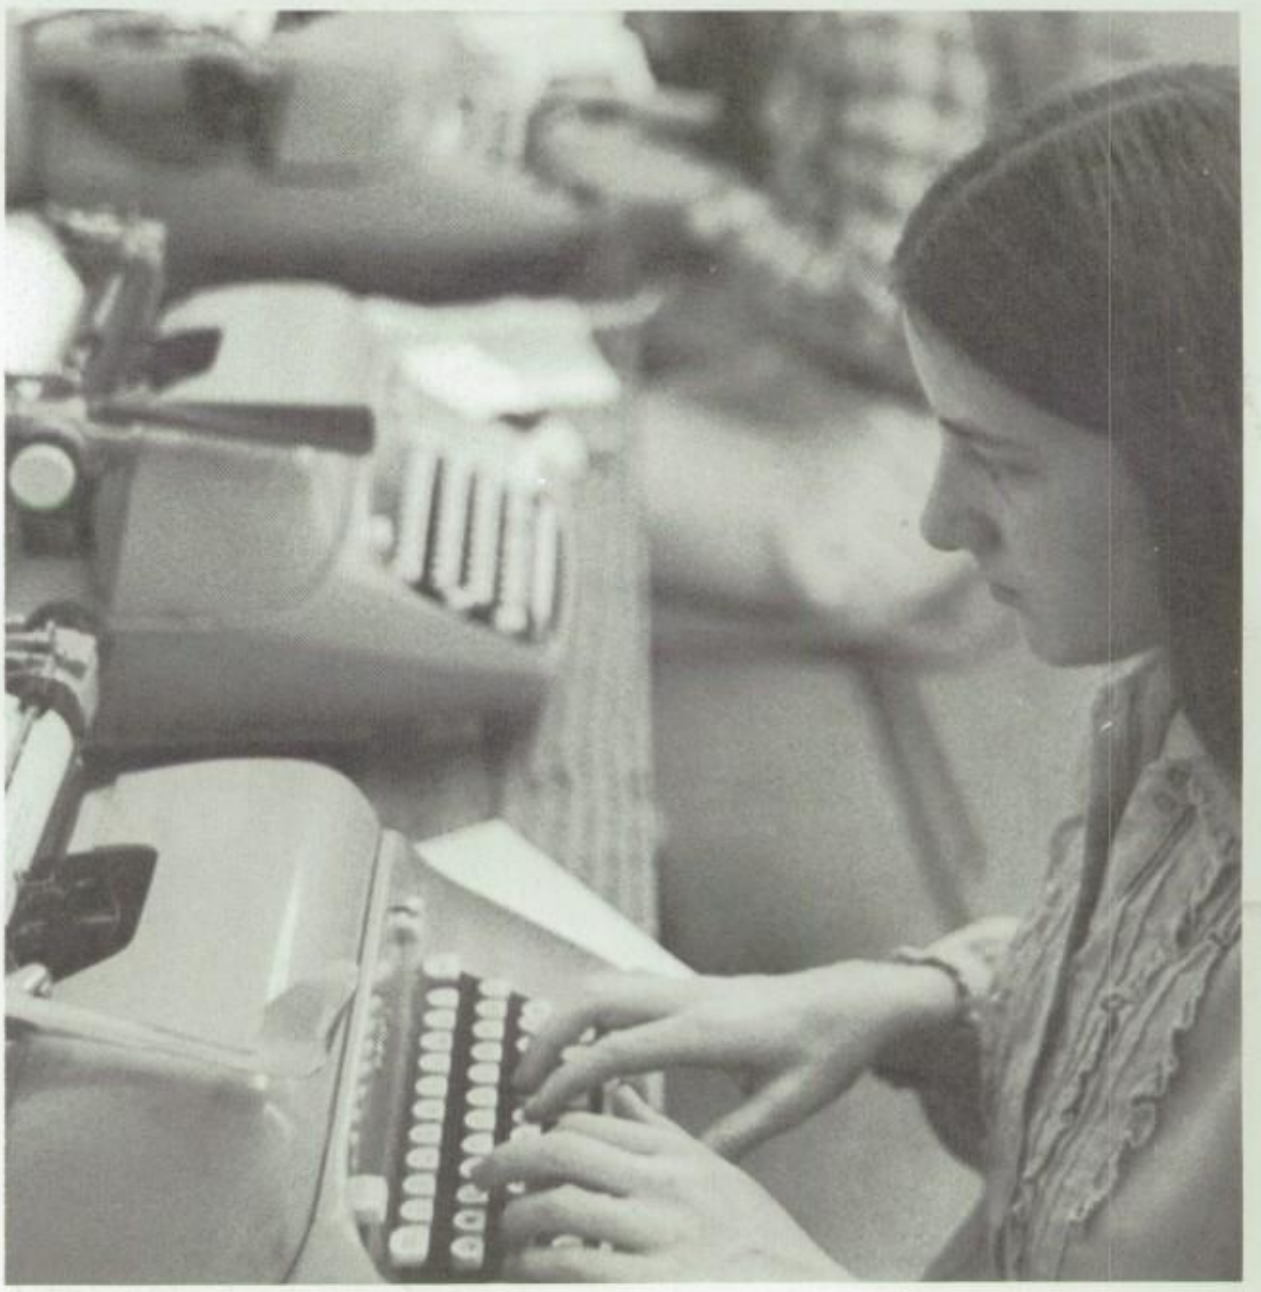
5—Reporter D. Goldsberry interviews M. Skelton about his Chevelle Malibu, the subject of a regular "Under the Hood" column.
6—Mrs. Anderson finds it much more convenient to typeset copy for the paper since the composer had been moved to CUB room.

Remembering the crazy happenings of another year

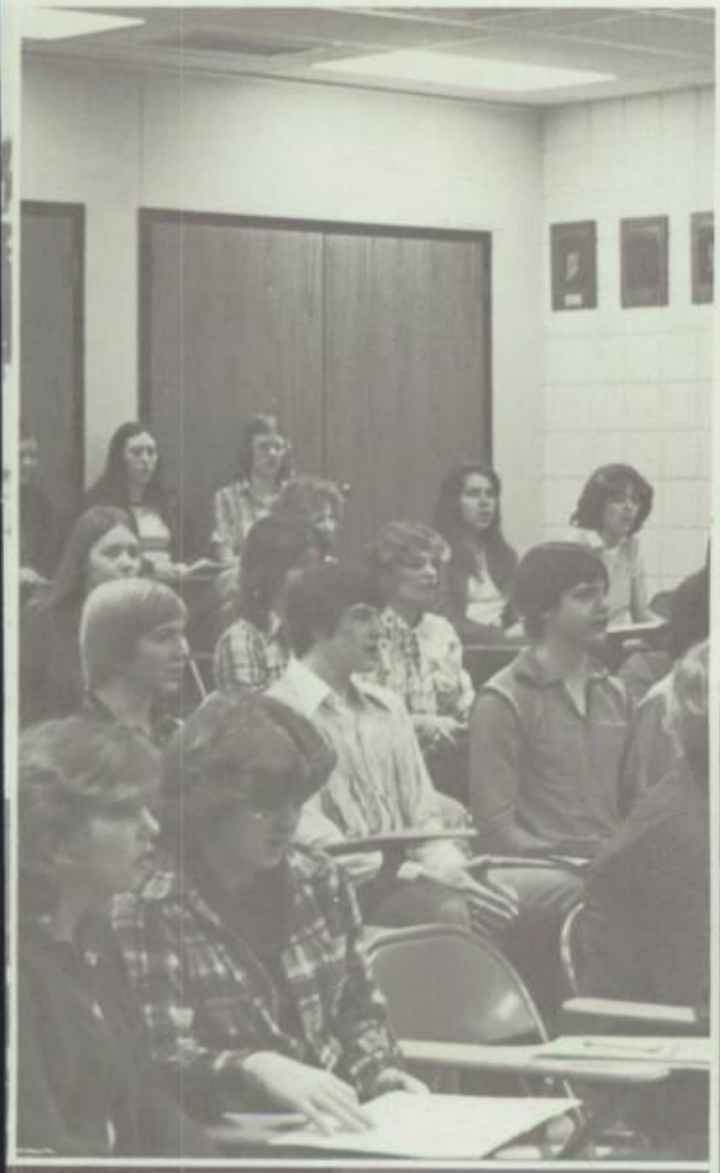
To keep in mind the WILD memories of the past year, one CRAZY book was put together. The yearbook staff combined their thoughts and ideas and went to work. Two of the Staff members visited IU Journalism Institute during the summer where they learned new techniques and ideas that they passed on to other staff members. Capturing unique actions just as they happened were the photographers. The pictures were then cropped and cutlines and copy were written. The finished product proved that everyone at SHS was "Still Crazy After All These Years."





1—Co-editors C. Gasser and J. Trueblood plan 1979 LYON with advisor B. Anderson and publishing representative D. Kennard.
2—Working hard to meet the deadline, D. Buchanan places and replaces pictures which will be used to form the cover collage.
3—Using her imagination and typing skill, C. Lyles prepares copy and cutlines for her assignment: Health and PE pages.

1—While drawing the layout for the English pages, P. Martin looks up in time to give a smile to the yearbook photographer.
2—C. Kemp crops the pictures so that they will fit the designated areas drawn for them on her girls basketball layout.
3—Members of the LYON Staff are Front row: co-editor, C. Gasser, D. Buchanan; C. Cornett; P. Martin; photographers M. Grigsby, K. Petrere, (head), M. Shelton, T. Morgan; R. Baker, T. Huckleberry; B. Naugle. Row 2: J. Lloyd, D. Knight, J. Tash, C. Lyles, T. McKnight, C. Kemp, M. Humphrey, C. Dufford, co-editor J. Trueblood.
4—In writing yearbook copy and cuts, R. Baker found that it is much easier when he lets the typewriter measure the "beats."



Activities

SHS Student Council voices your opinions and ideas

Student Council remained the lawmaking body for Salem High. The Council once again sponsored the Football Homecoming festivities and had a big turnout for the event. Another project was the Donkey Ballgame. A bulletin board was designed to give students an idea of the Council's news and upcoming events. A suggestion box served as a means of communicating with the Council. This year set record-breaking collections for the adopted child program. The student body saw GODSPELL as a result of a suggestion brought before the Council.

1—Juke-box chairman T. Hubbard says, "This one's on me," as he puts new records into the machine.
3—The student body looks on as the Freshman team scores against the Sophomores during the Donkey B-ball game.

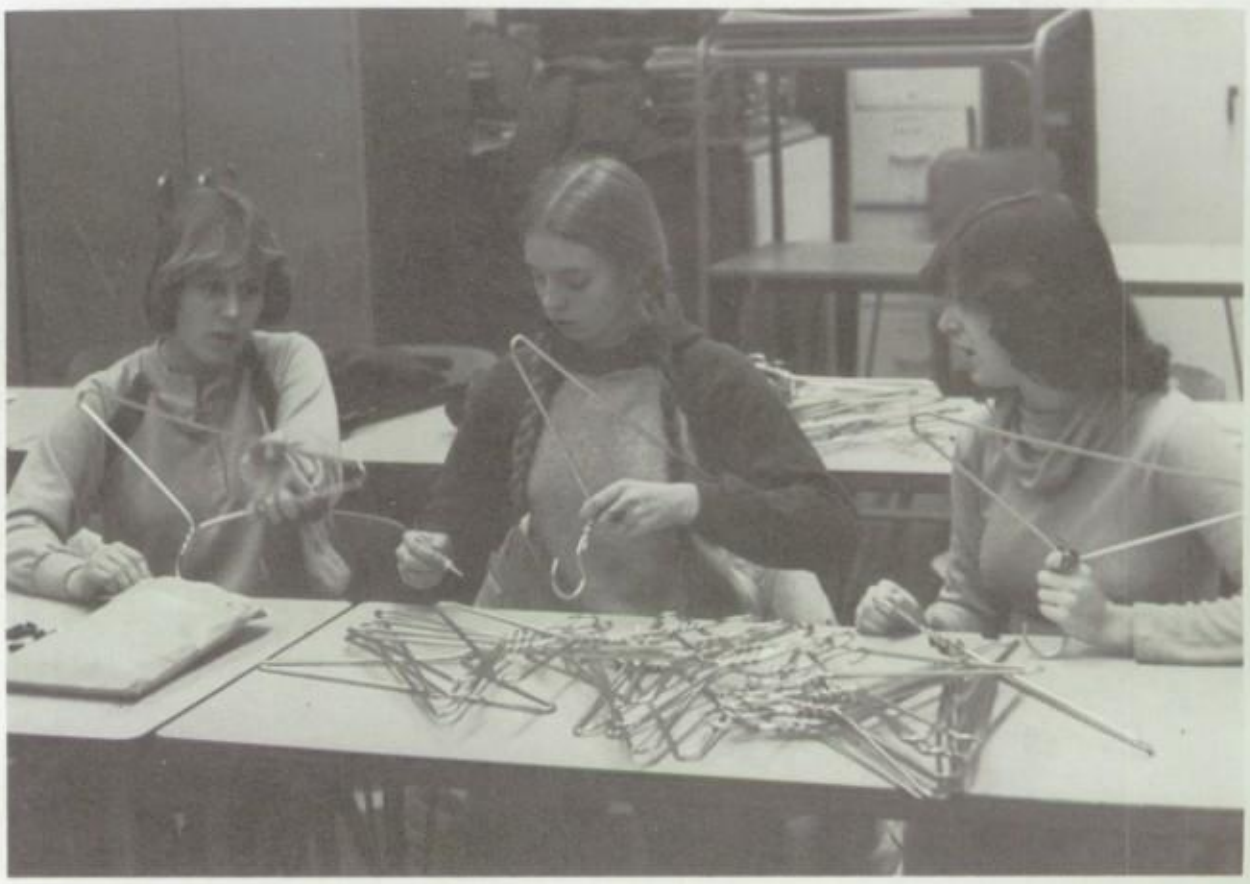
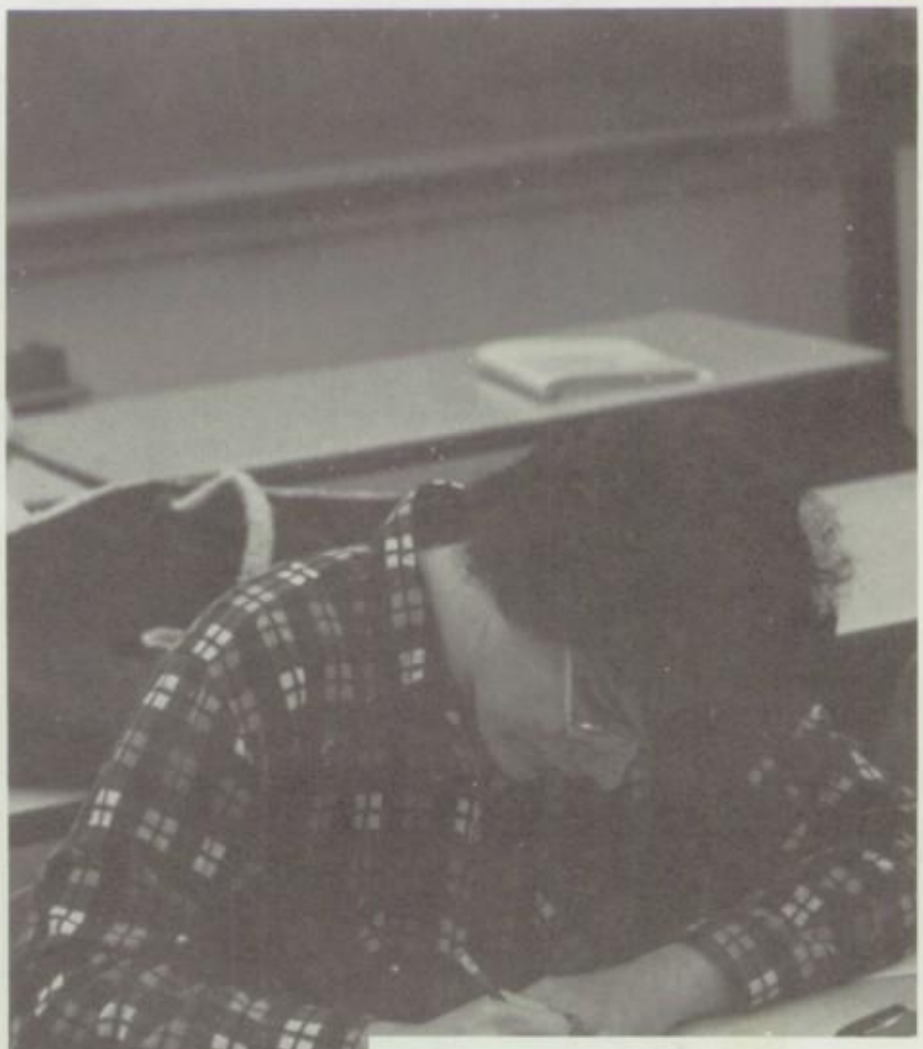
JA has great sales year—something to remember

Junior Achievement is a "learn-by-doing" process that gives students a chance to set up and operate their own business from start to finish. At the beginning of the year achievers sold stock for one dollar and invested the money they earned in raw materials. This year Junior Achievement company JAMM sold trouble lights, Christmas ornaments, sectional hats, and coat hangers. The company's yearly earnings were $2468.92 and their highest sales month was March with sales exceeding $450. Liquidation and the compiling of an annual report marked the end of the JA year.



1—Officers are E. Gresham, sec.; F. Winslow, treas.; D. Stingel, v-p personnel. Back row: R. Stout, production mgr.; K. Chastain, quality control; K. Nicholson, v-p manufacturing; D. Chastain, pres.
2—An ordinary JA meeting? Certainly not. Senior T. Sowder takes time out from the JA meeting to pose for photographer.
3—Getting things organized is a big part of JA. Here president D. Chastain addresses the company on current business problems.
4—Coat hangers are one of several products JA made. D. Stingel, S. Miller, and A. Medlock put final touches on them.



1—At the Salem High Open House members of the J.A. Company J.A.M.M. sold their products to parents and visitors.
2—Before the coat hanger can be sent to the factory for plating, M. Carter makes the final bend on the metal.
3—Advertising is an important part of J.A. operation. Ad Manager R. Henderson plans the next slogan for their drive.

National Honor Society notes service, scholarship, leadership

National Honor Society is an organization formed in Salem High School to honor students for their academic achievement. The purpose of the organization is fourfold: 1. to create enthusiasm for scholarship; 2. to stimulate a desire to render service; 3. to promote leadership; 4. to develop character. All members of the group are chosen by a faculty committee. There were 24 juniors and 24 seniors in this year's society. Mrs. J. Apple was the sponsor and other officers were S. Brewer, pres.; A. Medlock, vice-pres.; and M. L. Stout, sec.-treas.

1—"Here, have some pizza," smiles Mary Lou Stout. Pizza was the main dish served at the annual Honor Society banquet.
2—Looking over the National Honor Society handbook can be interesting and can create some controversy as S. Brewer discovers.

4—Being volunteered for kitchen duty can come as a big surprise as Lisa Walton, Rita Taylor, and Angie Box find out at the NHS banquet.

OEA looks at futures of the business-minded

OEA is open to business majors during their junior and senior years. Officers for this year were Julie Ooley, pres.; Barbara Terrell Morris, vice-pres.; Rhonda Hamilton, sec.; Robin Holler, treas.; Tammy McCauley, hist.; and Mrs. Scifres, sponsor. The club's activities related directly to the BOE and business education programs in the school. The main goal of OEA is excellence in office occupations. The slogan was "Learning Can Be Fun." The club had many activities which included former students and local business people as guest speakers.

1—Members of OEA are Kneeling: R. Taylor, D. Terrell, B. Terrell Morris, M. Schneck. Standing: R. Holler, E. Colglazier, S. Coots, J. Ooley, E. Mitchell, T. McCauley, D. Chastain, R. Hamilton, J. Spaulding, L. Mason, Mrs. Scifres.

FHA strives to build a better America for all

FHA is composed of approximately 100 members. To become a member of the club, a girl must have taken at least one year of home economics or be presently enrolled in it. Their goal is to improve personal, family, and community living. Highlights of the monthly meetings included the initiation, a guest speaker from Watterson College, home interior discussion on wall treatment, silk flower arrangements and a self-examination for cancer. Cookbooks were sold as a money-making project. Sophomore Sally Cheatham was nominated FHA Homecoming Queen candidate.

1—Officers are Mrs. Spradley; B. Treadway, vice-pres.; C. Wheeler, sec.-treas.; M. Terrell, pres.; P. Bills, parli-hist.; Mrs. Gordon. Kneeling: S. Cheatham, 10th grade rep.; S. Bush, Public Information Ch.; C. Martin, 11th grade rep.
2—Watterson College representative Rebecca Shidel discusses career possibilities in merchandising and management.
3—FHA members gather each month to discuss club activities and upcoming events, and to enjoy programs and guest speakers.

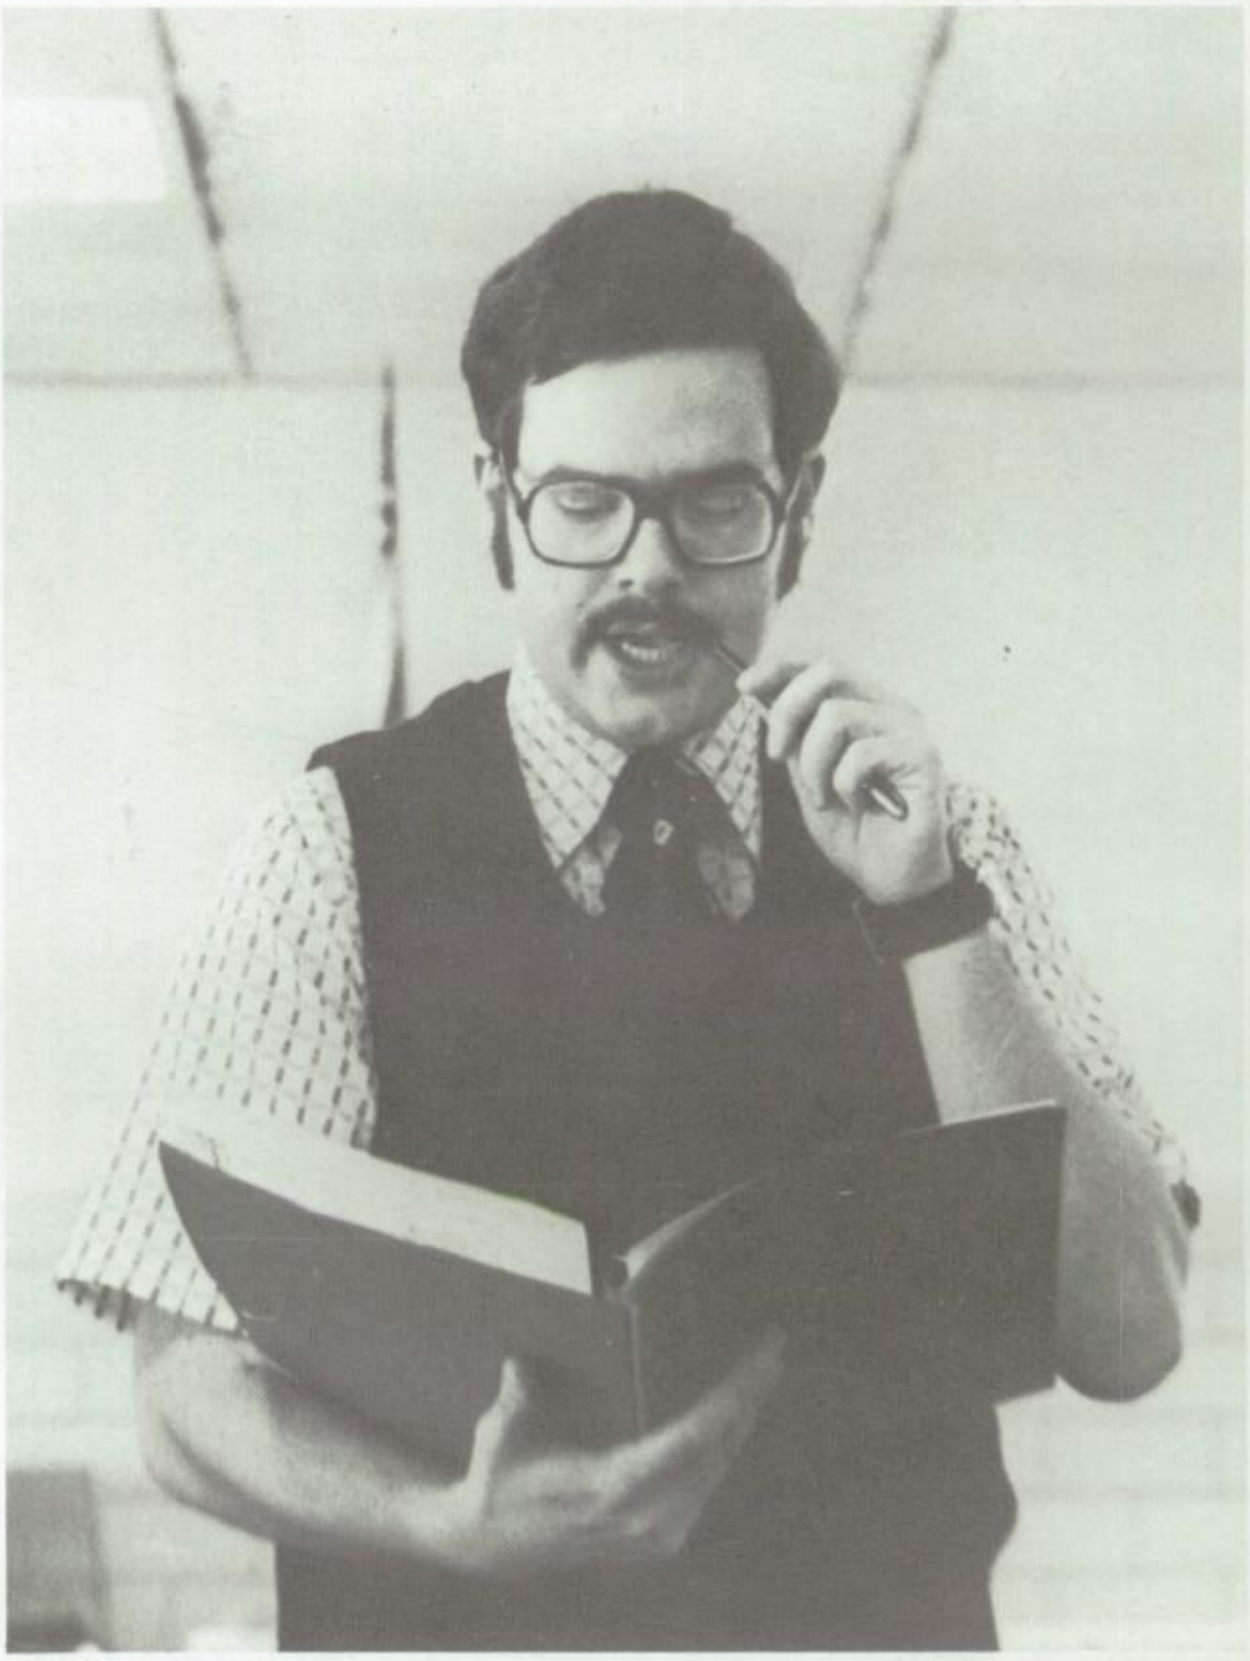
Christmas baskets fulfill Hi-Y 'extend' purpose

Hi-Y is the Young Men's Christian Association in the high school, which provides activities to help the school and community. Members had a chance to see what helping others is like and to build attitudes which will carry on throughout their lives. They collected $400 on the Square to buy Christmas baskets which they made up and delivered to needy families; they parked cars at home basketball games; held a Ping Pong tourney in the spring with J. D. Trueblood winning; and honored their fathers with a banquet. Ted Neil won the E. E. Brooks service award.



1—Hi-Y advisor J. Jones informs members of their financial status and traditional responsibilities at an early meeting.
2—While a club member makes a suggestion for a new project, Hi-Y president B. Chastain listens with thoughtful attention.
3—As program chairman, vice-president M. Holsapple prepares to answer a question regarding a program which has been planned.

1—After the fathers and sons finished eating the Morrison-catered dinner, WHAS personality Paul Rogers talks about sportscasting.
2—Through rain, snow, sleet and hail, Hi-Y members park cars at home b-ball games. S. Brewer motions a driver to a space.

Tri-Hi-Y enjoys interesting speakers during year

Once again Tri-Hi-Y had the largest membership of any club at SHS. The club heard several guest speakers, including Mrs. Mary Hunt, 1978 Woman-of-the-Year, and two representatives from the Southern Indiana Mental Health Center in Jeff. The club had a bake sale, went Christmas caroling, had a successful Daddy-Daughter Date and Mother-Daughter banquet, assisted Student Council with the Cystic Fibrosis Fund Drive and Hi-Y with Christmas baskets. Cathy Hartsook was named Girl-of-the-Year and Linda Bush received the Effie Mae Phillips award at Honor Day.

1—Showing pleasure and surprise, Mrs. Baker goes to the podium to accept the 1979 Woman-of-the-Year award.
2—Showing a favorite children's book, Rev. Sue Looft of the Presbyterian Church, makes a point about parent-child relations.
3—Reading her senior will to her father, J. Tash entertains everyone at the annual Daddy-Daughter Date, a Valentine party.

1—"Let's sing 'Leader of the Pack'," D. Day suggests as W. Hardin, S. Barnett, K. Knight, M. Kuntz, and C. Paris observe Tri-Hi-Y Week.
2—Decorating for the Tri-Hi-Y Daddy-Daughter Date, C. Smith and K. Hartsook arrange a colorful Valentine centerpiece.
3—Minister of the First Christian Church John Hart makes an important point in his speech on marriage during a club meeting.

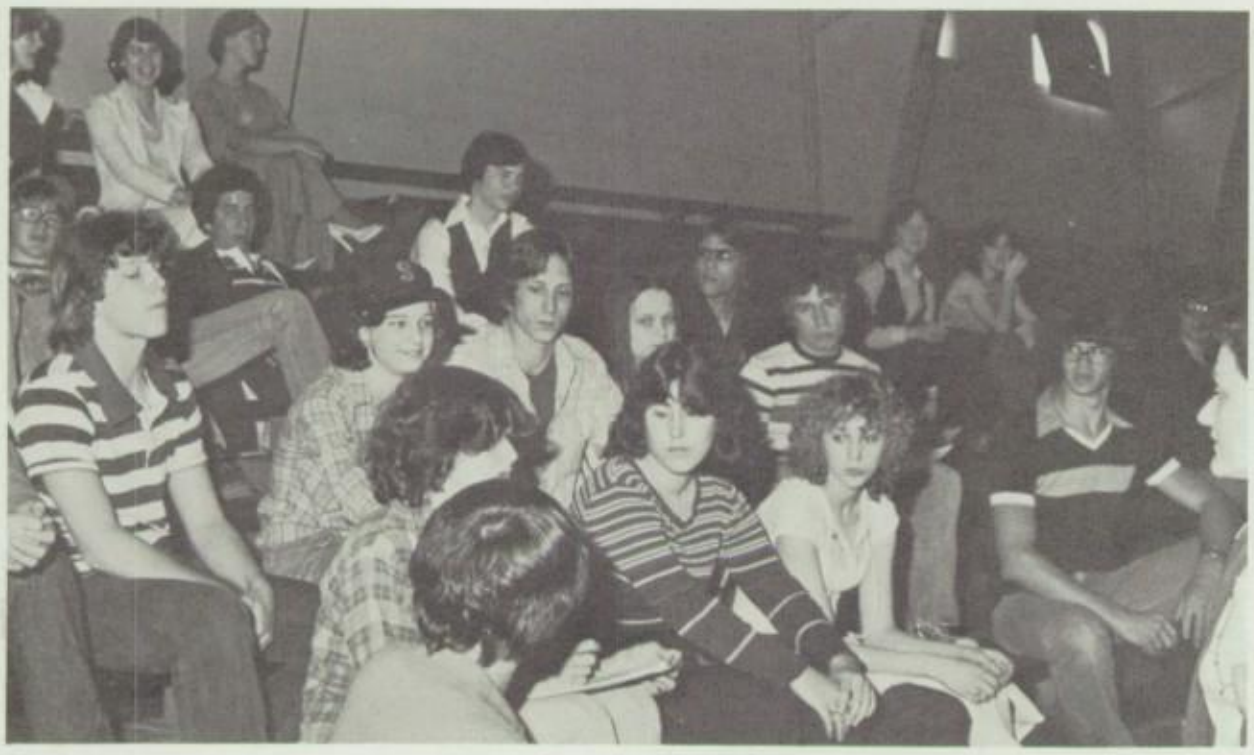
Roman customs are revealed through Latin Club



Latin Club consisted of 57 members who were presently enrolled or had had Latin in the past. First-year members were initiated at the annual Slave Sale and Roman Banquet. A trip to Showcase Cinemas was cancelled due to conflicting schedules. Monthly meetings were held to discuss possible club activities. Officers for the year were S. Baker, president; T. Gordon, vice-president; T. Trueblood, secretary; A. Briscoe, treasurer; J. Smedley, parliamentarian; and P. Cornwell, sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. Norma Smith sponsored the Latin Club again this year.

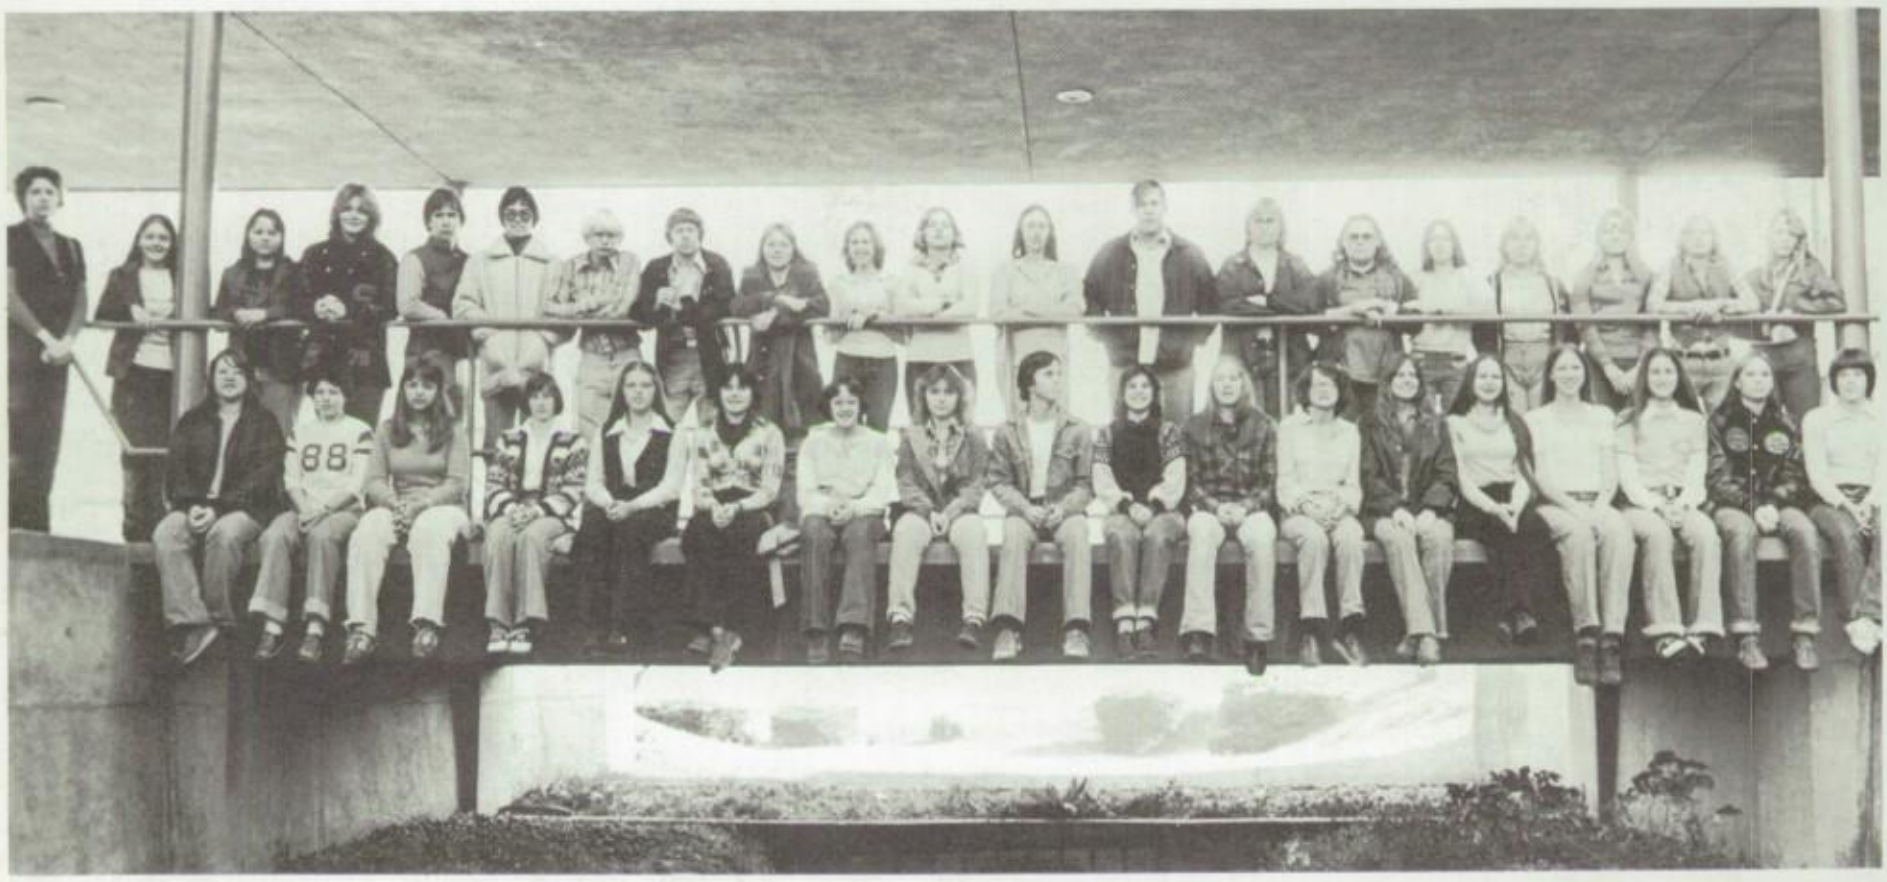
4—Sponsor Mrs. Smith is very pleased with the enrollment of Latin students. "It seems to be increasing," she said.

Spanish Club 'fandangos' through an eventful year

Car washes, trips to the cinemas, parties and regular club meetings made up an exciting year of activities for Spanish Club. Strengthening the language skills and giving a better understanding of Spanish and Spanish-American cultures was the goal of sponsor, Miss Doris Reeves, and the entire cabinet. In her second year of sponsorship, Miss Reeves saw a marked increase in the number of members and participation in all the club's functions. The club's constitution was changed to allow anyone with one year of Spanish to be a member.



1—Officers of Spanish Club are Miss Reeves, spon.; R. Renaker, treas.; P. Martin, vice-pres.; K. Burton, sec.; and S. Martin, pres.

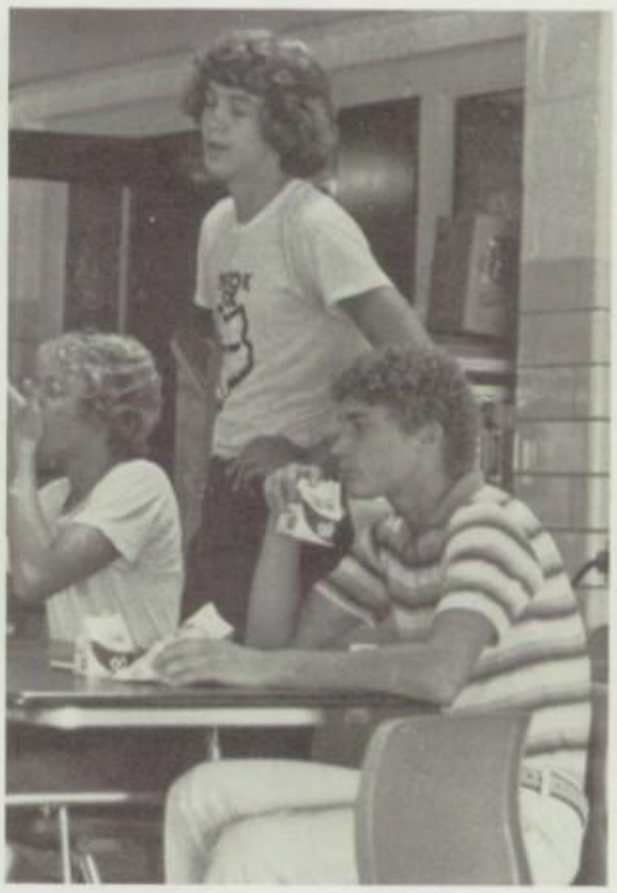
4—Spanish Club sponsor D. Reeves looks exasperated as she explains the rules of a new game to eager students.

Chess club 'checks' the abilities of Salem High

Chess Club gave the chess players of Salem High School a chance to play their game and improve their skill. They had to pay dues of $1.50 this year. The better players competed in intrascholastic competition to see who would go to the Bedford Tournament. The winner of the contest was J. Horner. A committee was formed which prepared an impressive fence poster for Football Homecoming. Mr. J. Jones sponsored Chess Club. Besides meeting each month to play the game, a party was planned for the end of the year.



1—As vice-president S. Bedwell and sponsor J. Jones watch, B. Nester, sec-treas., moves against president K. Nicholson.
2—Waiting to see what D. Martin's strategy for the game will be, S. Baker seems to have his own next move well in mind.
3—Trying to get the attention of the Chess Club members, president K. Nicholson wishes to discuss some future plans.

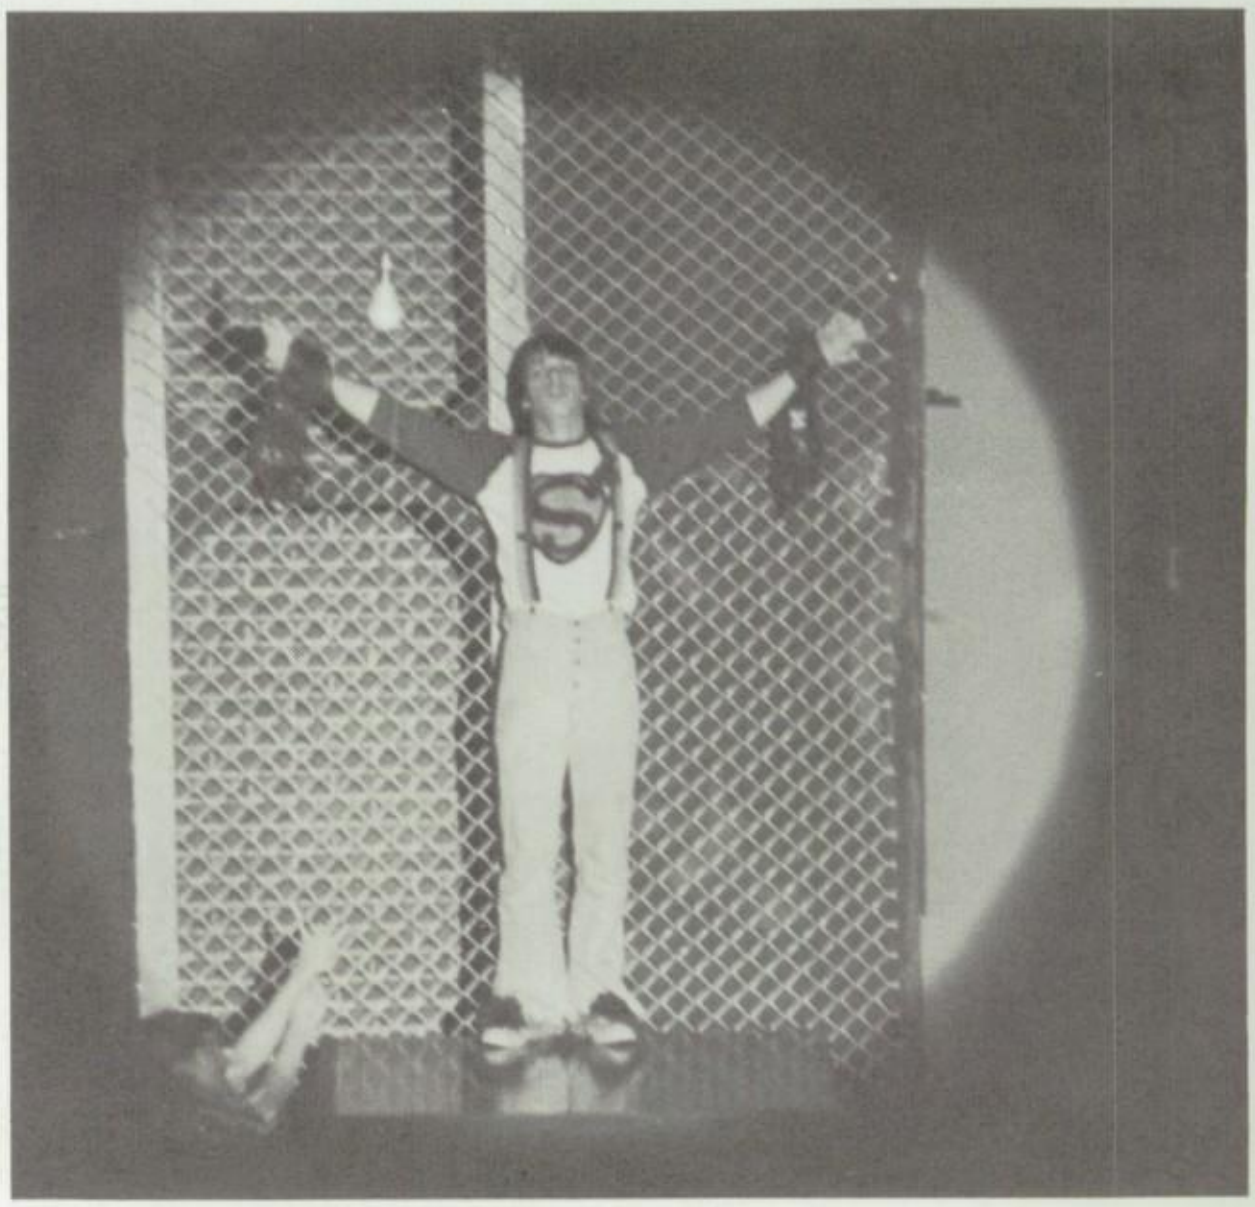
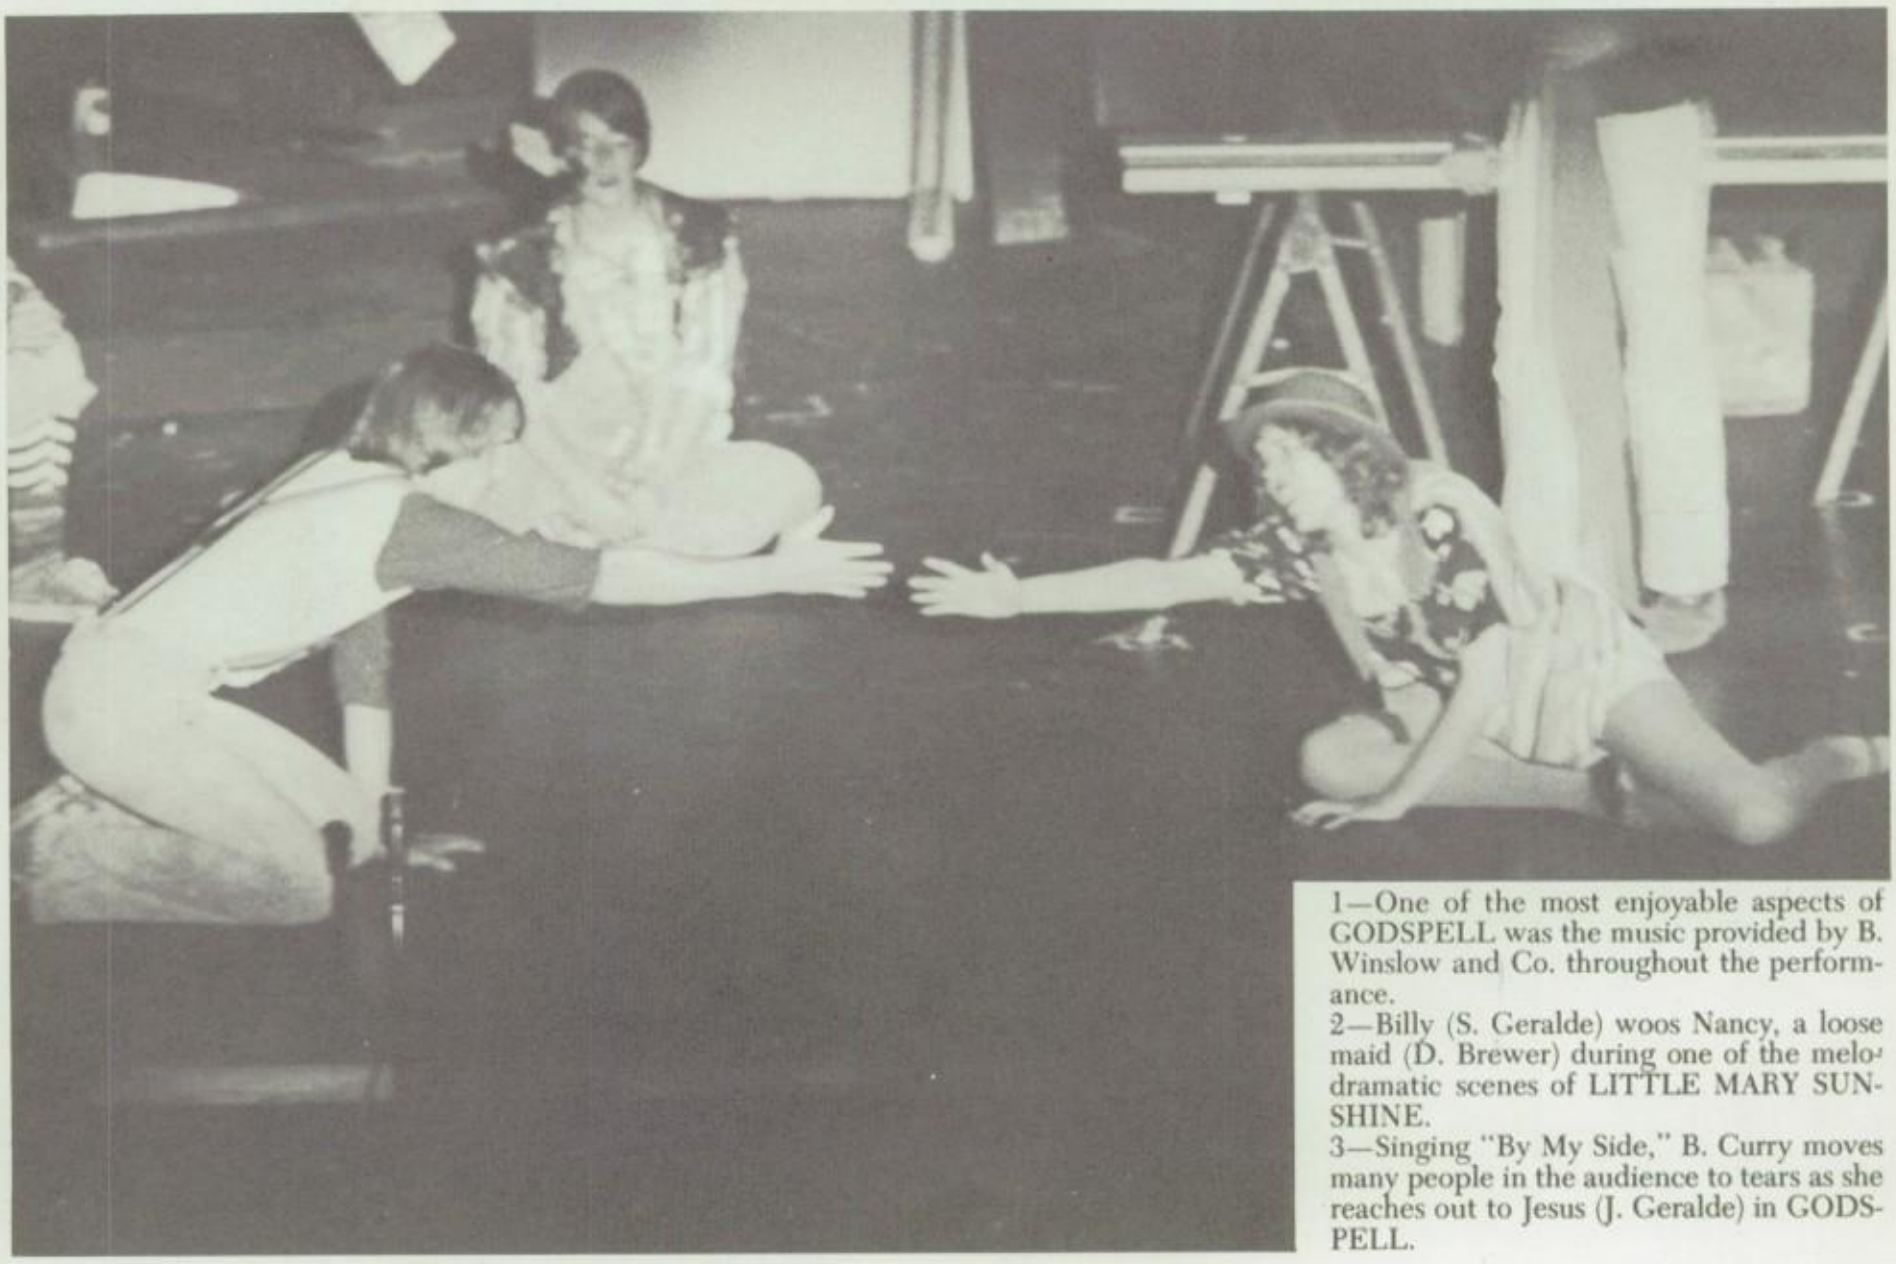
"Command Performance" is motto of dramatics club

Dramatics Club members once again had a successful year. They worked extra hard to make "big time" out of their two annual productions. Director R. Trueblood presented GODSPELL first. The well-known musical was so well received by the public that two command performances were given. The second production, LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE, was played on a beautiful forest set designed and built by Robert Renaker. Outstanding Thespian went to S. DeJean, and M. Wallace and S. Gorman went to an honors workshop at ISU during the summer.



1—Peter Fromelius practices his proposal to Little Mary Sunshine, alias E. Floyd, in the second Dramatics Club production.
2—Working diligently on the "LMS" set is what made it so beautiful. Here J. Boss tapes a tepee together for an Indian scene.
3—During the crucifixion scene, J. Geralde sings a moving rendition of "Long Life God" in the GODSPELL production.



1—One of the most enjoyable aspects of GODSPELL was the music provided by B. Winslow and Co. throughout the performance.
2—Billy (S. Geralde) woos Nancy, a loose maid (D. Brewer) during one of the melodramatic scenes of LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE.
3—Singing "By My Side," B. Curry moves many people in the audience to tears as she reaches out to Jesus (J. Geralde) in GODSPELL.

1—Dramatics members are Front row: M. Graves, K. Bills, B. Fletcher, P. Fromelius, E. Floyd, K. Petrere, B. Curry, R. Renaker, S. Coots, E. Colglazier, F. Boss, J. Geralde, S. DeJean. Row 2: J. SHS Science Club finds first year a building one

Science Club had its beginning this year and many people considered it a successful one. Among the club's activities were a trip to the Louisville Zoo, carrying petitions to "save the seals" and discussions of other ecology problems. At one meeting club members, who were not afraid, viewed Mr. McCurdy's snakes. Science Club had a winning poster at Football Homecoming and presented an interesting booth at Open House. Sponsors of the club were Mr. Jones and Mr. McCurdy. Officers were K. Petrere, pres.; T. Sowder, vice-pres.; and G. Shouse, sec.-treas.

1—Pictured are Science Club sponsors and officers: Mr. McCurdy, K. Petrere, G. Shouse, T. Sowder, and Mr. Jones.

Melodies old and new express music of the times

The SHS Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Baker, presented two major concerts during the year. They also taped Christmas music in conjunction with the Band, which was broadcast over the local radio station during the holiday season. From the Indiana School Music Contest at Madison, they brought home a superior rating. Baker's Dozen made several public appearances as they performed for civic organizations, weddings, banquets, contests, as well as during the formal choir concerts. Dania Adamson and Elana Floyd served as accompanists for Choir.

1—The camera catches several Baker's Dozen members as they sing "White Christmas" by Berlin while they are seated on high stools.
2—Choir students start out each morning right by exercising their voices with routine warm-ups before they begin practicing.
3—The audience enjoyed the pleasing voices of the Choir as they sang joyous songs of the season at the Christmas concert.

1—Choir students listen to different types of music as they study composers' variations on themes and unusual rhythms.
2—Members of Baker's Dozen perform two numbers: "Elijah Rock" and "Movin' On" for the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

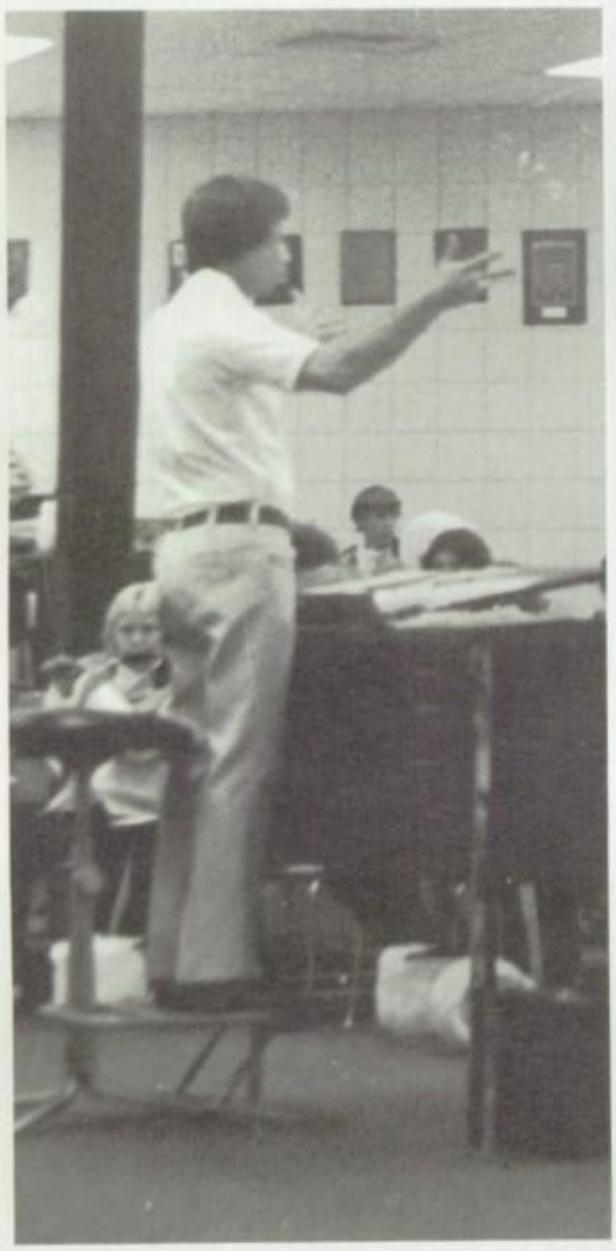
Salem Marching Lions enter 'B' competition

The Salem Marching Lions really started their season with Hemlock Band Camp in London, Ky., where they trained for one week last August. Their fall show really was put together during camp. Because of SHS's increased enrollment, the Marching Lions moved from Class C to Class B competition, where they encountered tougher bands which provided them with a real challenge. The Band competed in five marching contests during the season. They received a Division I rating at District (Huntingburg) and 12th at the State Contest.



1—Three senior "clowns", K. Bills, C. Dufford, and B. Winslow, entertain other Band members in numerous humorous ways.
2—The Salem Band director, Mr. R. St. John, conducts both the marching and concert bands during the school year.
3—Climaxing their first number at the State Finals at Terre Haute, the Lions' brass section produce a powerful ending.
4—Drum major P. Fromelius directs as K. Bills becomes a focal point of the drill design at the Moore High School Contest.

New flags and outfits make up a different look

The Salem Marching Lion Guard started the season with sixteen flags and eight rifles, but three male rifle members were added to the winter guard. The Corps looks changed considerably with the removal of capes, lengthening of skirts, and adding corps-style boots. New equipment was bought for rifles and the new flag design added color and effect to the field and floor shows. The Corps received "Best Auxiliary" trophy at Moore High School, placed third at North Lawrence and received a Division I rating and Sweepstakes for the second consecutive year.

Cheerblock helps boost Lion teams onward

Cheerblock had a roaring season this year during football and basketball. A number of the students joined the club in order to boost the school spirit. Whether the team was winning or losing, Cheerblock kept backing them all the way to the last second of the fourth quarter. In order to keep the members under control and their spirit up, president T. Doyle showed the group some of the new yells the cheerleaders brought back from camp while the sponsors, J. Claycombe and G. Boeckmann kept the "prez" under control.

Sports

Cheerleaders are fired-up and ready for victory

The Varsity and JV Cheerleaders led a spirited year as they yelled for both boys and girls basketball and for the football teams. The three squads filled the school with spirit during pep sessions and especially during football and basketball homecoming weeks. Not only do they promote enthusiasm in the fans, but also build spirit in the teams and coaches, decorate lockers, buy candy and decorate for sports banquets. Both Varsity and JV attended Vincennes University and received outstanding awards. The cheerleader sponsor was Mrs. Jackie Arnold.

Over the hillside and another mile to the finish

"Young but experienced team, although we had only one senior," Coach Warriner said about the Boys Cross Country team this year. With an overall record of 84-34 and 13-4 in the dual and triangular meets, this was the eighth consecutive winning season for the boys. Salem placed third in the Conference, seventh in the Sectional and won the County meet for the eighth straight year. Roger Bundy, Dennis Martin, and Rick West made All-Conference. Roger was also a Regional finalist and was named third team All State for A Division Schools.

1—Striving and pushing hard to make every second count, R. Bundy places with a good time and a ribbon.
2—Putting all he has into it, E. Baird runs with determination in hopes of placing with a good time.
3—Showing that running ability pays off in the end, R. West comes out ahead of his opponents in an away meet.
4—Roarin' and ready to win, the boys set a goal of victory as they get psyched up before a meet.

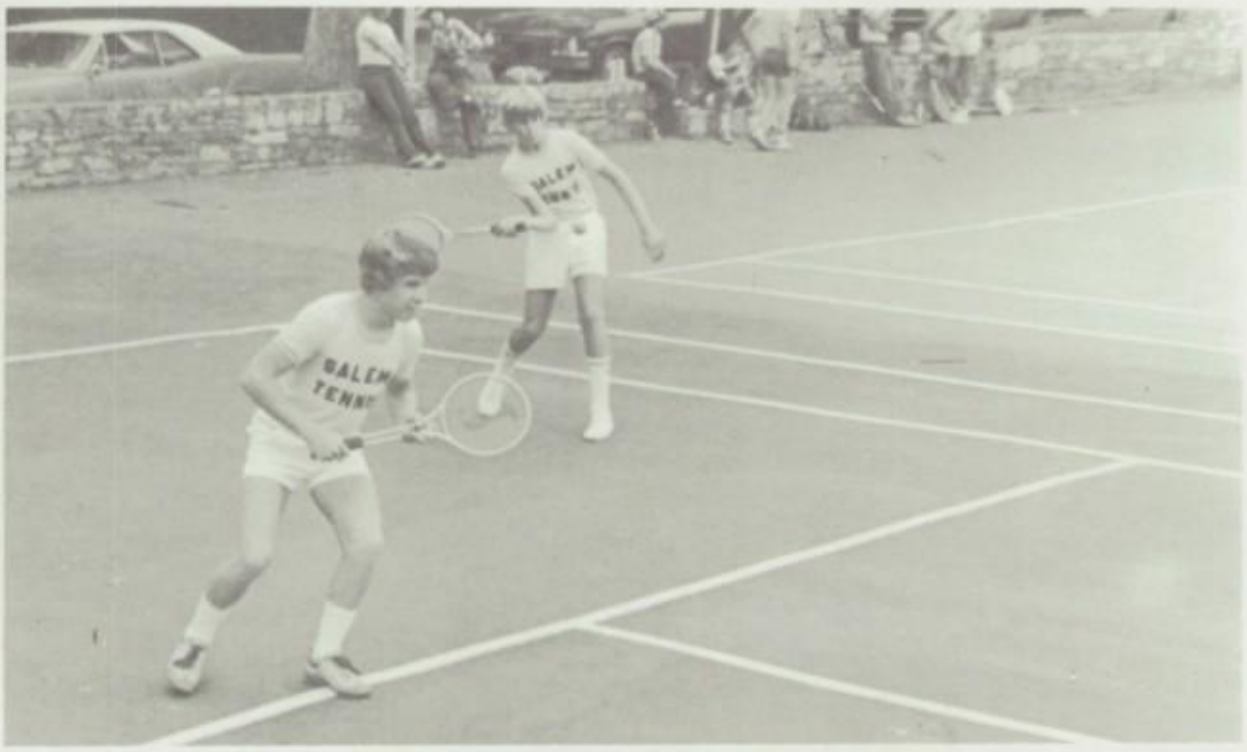
2—With a lot of hard work and effort, T. Gordon keeps on going even when the going gets rough.
3—Trying his best for himself and his teammates, D. Martin thinks only of crossing the finish line in good time.
4—From start to finish, T. Fultz proves that drive and determination are the best ingredients for victory.

Girls cross country set pace for a winning season

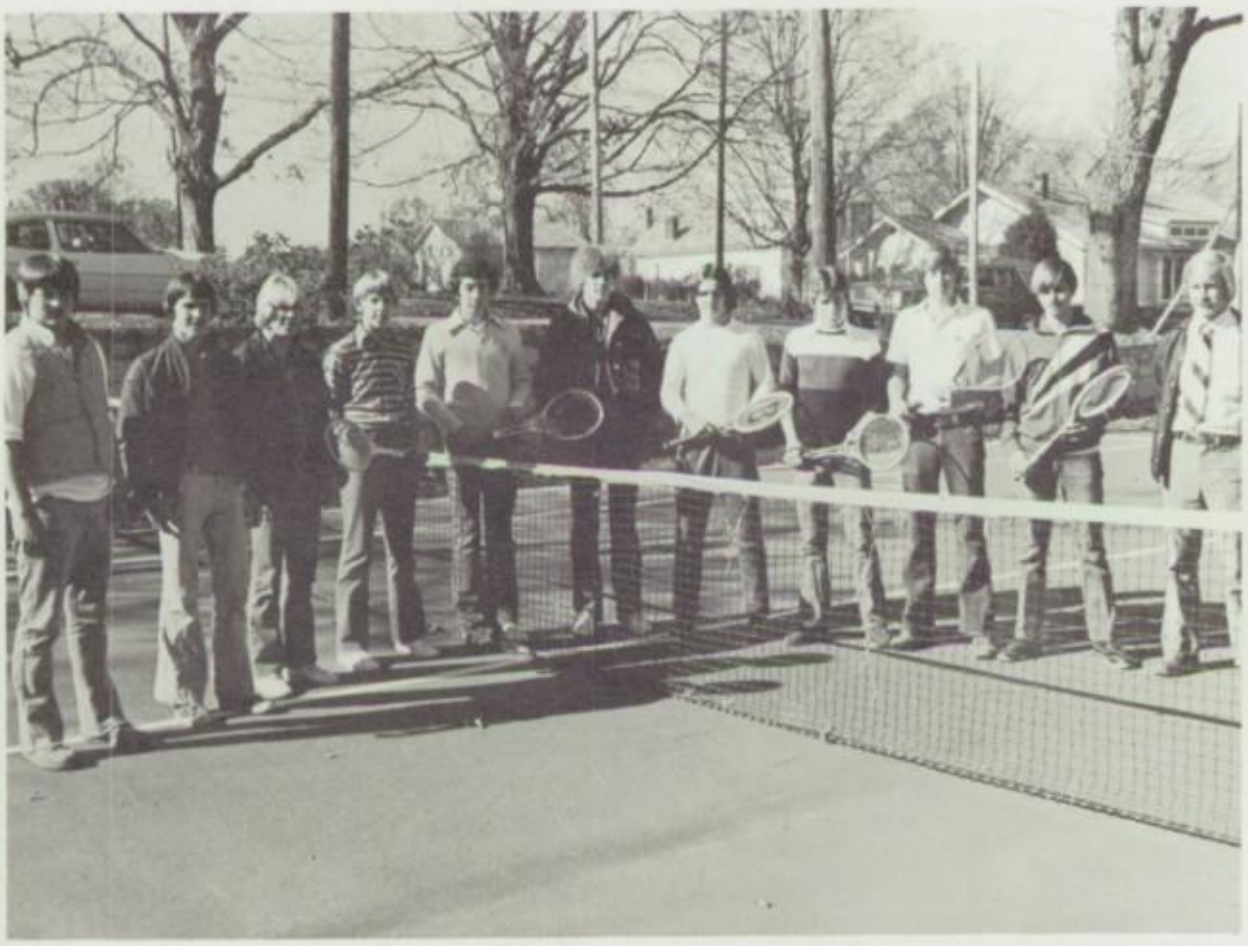
Under the coaching of Mr. John Fultz and assistant coach Mrs. Janie Armand, the Girls Cross Country team had a victorious season and set a school record of 25 wins. The team came in second in the Providence, fourth in the Floyd Central, and third in the Jeffersonville invitationals. Their overall record this year was 25-8. The team consisted of nine runners. The most valuable member was Melanie Graves. Coach Fultz felt that if there had been a state meet this year that Salem would have placed in the top five.

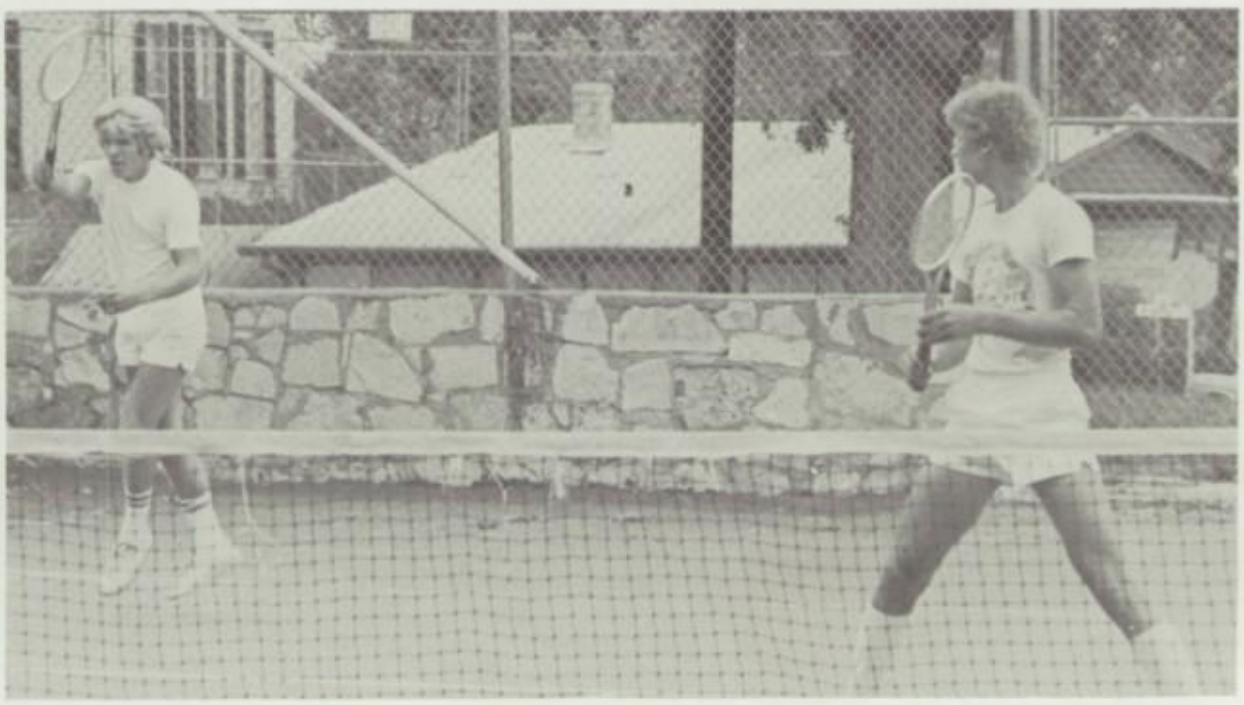
1—With drive and determination, M. Graves with a first in mind pushes to stay out in front of her opponents.
2—Front row: G. Gordon, R. Lofton, K. Armand, A. West, S. Hasty. Row 2: Coach Fultz, mgr. S. Jones, mgr. C. Gray, L. Mason, D. Chastain, M. Graves, M. Stout, Ass't. Coach Armand.
3—Using good strategy, R. Lofton and A. West both run as a barrier to the opponent in order to come out ahead.
4—Concentration and hard work help G. Gordon as she strives for position in a meet.
5—Wishing it were over, L. Mason runs even faster to fulfill her wish with a ribbon.

Salem tennis team double-faults a winning season



The Salem High School Tennis Team suffered a disappointing season this year. One of the major factors was the return of only one letterman, Steve Bedwell. Salem's record was three and twelve. Salem finished a frustrating seventh out of ten teams in the Conference. In the Sectional, Salem lost the opener to a strong North Harrison tennis team. With several players returning next year, more experience, hard work, determination, and the desire to win, Salem's netters should be a much improved team in the coming 1979 tennis season.





1—Concentrating, sophomore K. Fleenor tries to return the serve of his opponent. His partner this year was senior G. Souder.
2—Members of the 1978 Tennis Team are D. Fultz, P. Briscoe, J. Bundy, K. Fleenor, D. Richardson, S. Bedwell, D. Wells, G. Souder, C. Adamson, M. Merrill. The coach is R. Bastin.
3—Watching anxiously as his partner J. Bundy returns a serve, senior S. Bedwell is this years Most Valuable Player.
4—With great determination D. Richardson focuses on the ball as he prepares to serve the ball to his opponent.

Varsity volleyball girls set for a winning season

Although the girls got off to a good start for their 1978 season, the lack of experience showed in the end to give reason for their record of 6-11. Under the coaching of Linda Dalton, this year's varsity squad consisted of four seniors, one junior, and three sophomores. The team had thirteen away games and four home games which were played at the Middle School. Both the JV and Varsity teams traveled to Muncie to observe the Japanese and USA Olympic teams. Cindy Kemp was named MVP of the 1978 Volleyball Team.

JV Volleyball balances season with equal wins

Without much experience the JV team managed to balance out their season for a hard-earned 6-6 record. JV games consisted of four home games and eight away. Practices and home games for both JV and Varsity were held at the Middle School. Buses to all away games were driven by George Fletcher, who also refereed the home games. Junior Varsity Coach Susan Apple commented that she thought the team did well in the end after the flaws were worked out. "I think we're in for a good season next year," said Coach Apple.

1—Junior Varsity team members are K. Hobson, mgr.; E. Mitchell; D. Bush; S. Spencer; B. Kinney; S. Miller; J. Snider; S. Bush, and Coach S. Apple.

3—Impatiently awaiting the upcoming serve from the opposing Silver Creek team are JV team members S. Miller and D. Bush.
4—Sophomore B. Kinney carefully bumps the ball in complete control to the front line setter, sophomore S. Miller.

Lions accept new ideas and concepts of the game

The Lions were headed this year by new coach Jim Ralston and his assistant Dan Mullins. The School Board appropriated enough money to furnish the field with new metal halite lights to replace the old incandescent type. The Lions started their season with a victory over county-rival West Washington with five overtimes. A few games later they met Clarksville at home and played their best game of the season, but lost 27-6. The Lions then won two of the three remaining games to conclude their season with a 5-5 record.

1—In the final minutes of play, All-Conference player D. Barnard is in pursuit of the Springs Valley quarterback.
2—B. Motsinger uses a good sense of timing to make the tackle on Brown County's tight end for little yardage.
3—One of the many things appreciated by the players was brightening up the locker room. The coaches did the collage.
4.—M. Humphrey, C. Dufford, and B. Chastain scramble for a Brownstown Brave fumble during the Homecoming game.
5—In Springs Valley territory, T. Huffman hands off to fullback P. Shouse to put the Lions into scoring position.

Junior Varsity Lions sweep for a winning season

The Salem JV Football team had a sensational year, losing only one game against Brownstown. J. Holstine led the Junior Lions in all categories on defense with 32 solo attacks, 13 assists, 5 fumble recoveries and 3 caused fumbles. Leading rusher was D. Grigsby who carried the ball 83 times for 350 yards, which gave him an average of 4.2 yards per carry. Receptions were led by K. Baird with 13 catches. "We had a few outstanding players, but it took a team effort to have a season this good," commented the coaches.

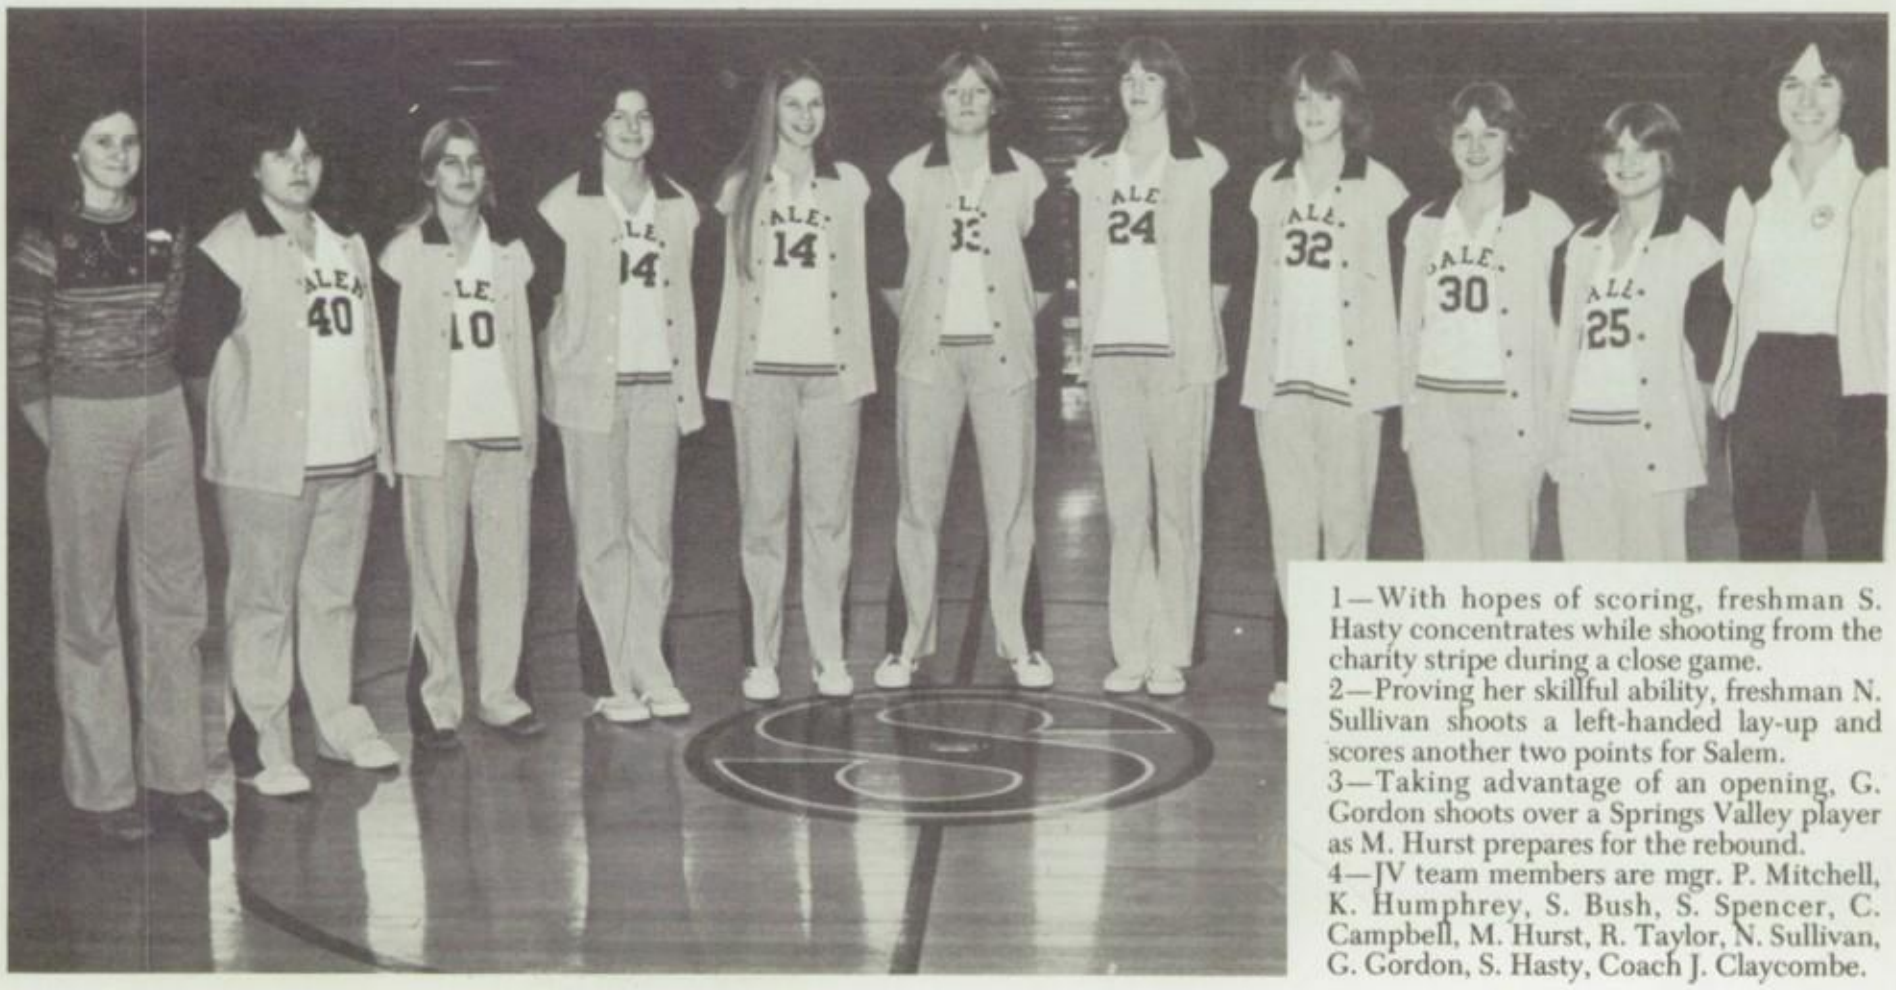
JV girls hammer the hardwood for an even season

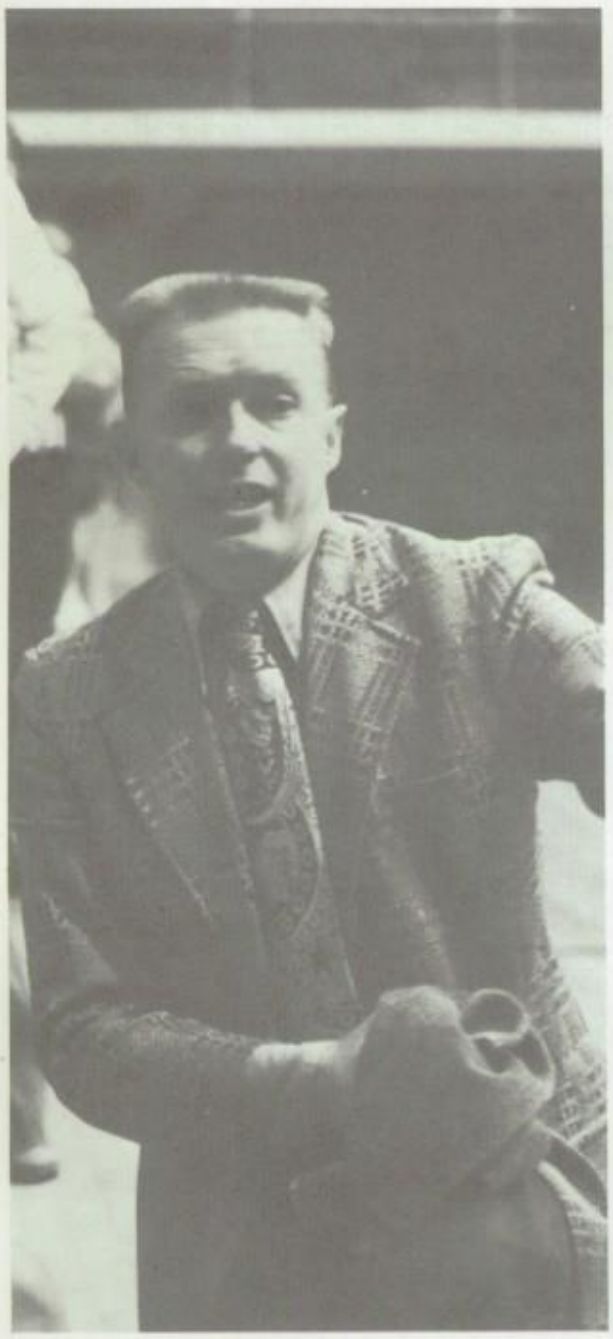
Coached by J. Claycombe, Salem High School's 1978-79 Junior Varsity Girls Basketball Team finished their season with an even 7-7 record. Although their record was even, the girls outscored their opponents by the slim margin of 404 to 400. This year was the fifth year of the girls basketball program and the sixth year's squad will have great potential. This year's team consisted of five freshmen and four sophomores. Two awards were given at the end of the year. S. Hasty received the Defensive Award and C. Campbell was named the Most Improved Player.



1—With hopes of scoring, freshman S. Hasty concentrates while shooting from the charity stripe during a close game.
2—Proving her skillful ability, freshman N. Sullivan shoots a left-handed lay-up and scores another two points for Salem.
3—Taking advantage of an opening, G. Gordon shoots over a Springs Valley player as M. Hurst prepares for the rebound.
4—JV team members are mgr. P. Mitchell, K. Humphrey, S. Bush, S. Spencer, C. Campbell, M. Hurst, R. Taylor, N. Sullivan, G. Gordon, S. Hasty, Coach J. Claycombe.

Girls basketball scores another winning season

The Girls Varsity Basketball team finished their season with an 8-8 record and a loss to New Albany by one point in the Floyd Central Sectional. New warm-ups were provided for the girls. With four upperclassmen and a new coach, John Fultz, this was a building year. Janet Claycombe was the assistant coach. At the winter sports banquet awards were given to M. Hurst, Most Improved Player; K. Armand, Defensive Award; C. Kemp, Assist Trophy; M. Lyles, Free Throw Trophy and MVP; C. Kemp and M. Lyles were named to the All-Conference Team.



1—Sophomore J. Barnett smoothly passes the ball past a W. W. player to senior C. Kemp during the first half.
2—Coach Fultz explains his strategy to his Varsity players preceding the second quarter of the Springs Valley game.
3—Sophomore K. Armand watches the basketball closely in hopes of getting a steal from her Paoli opponent.

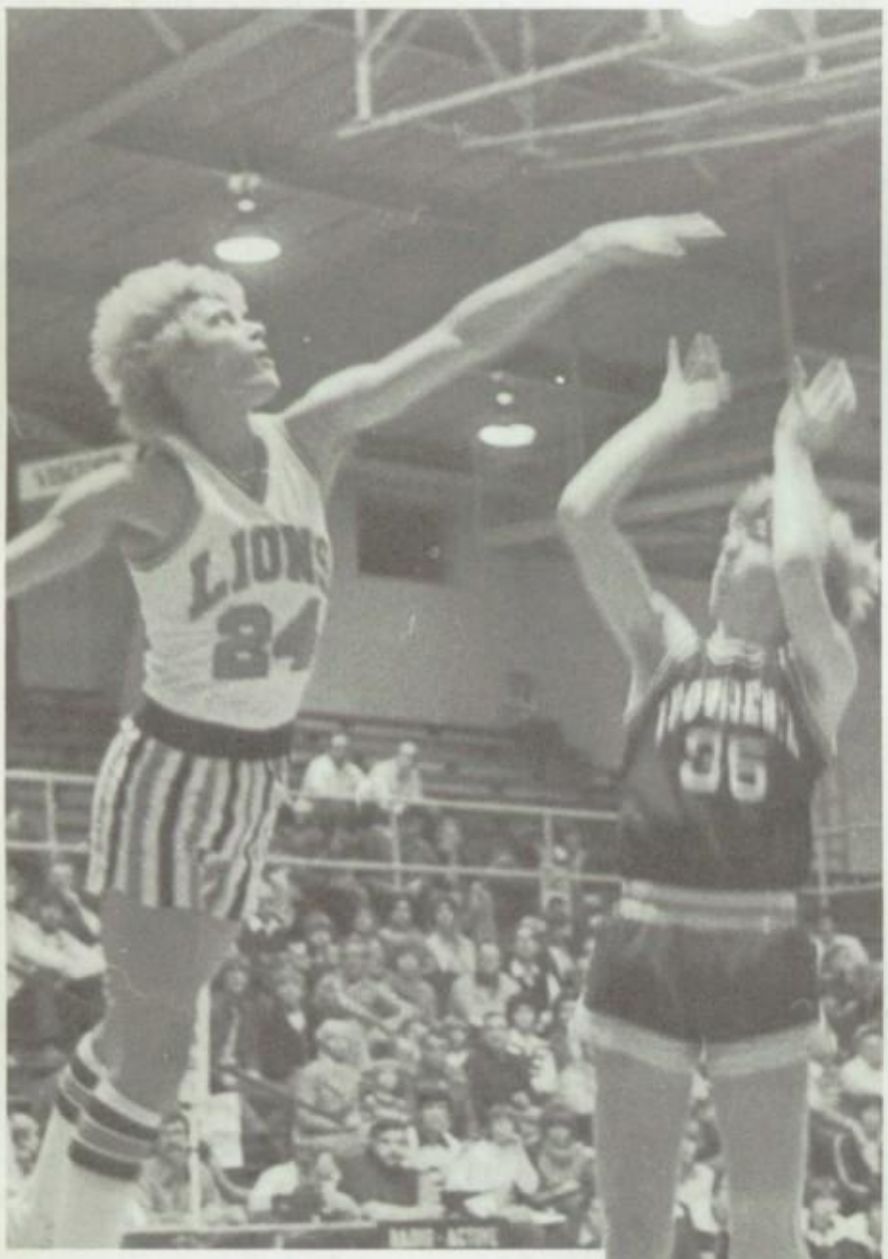
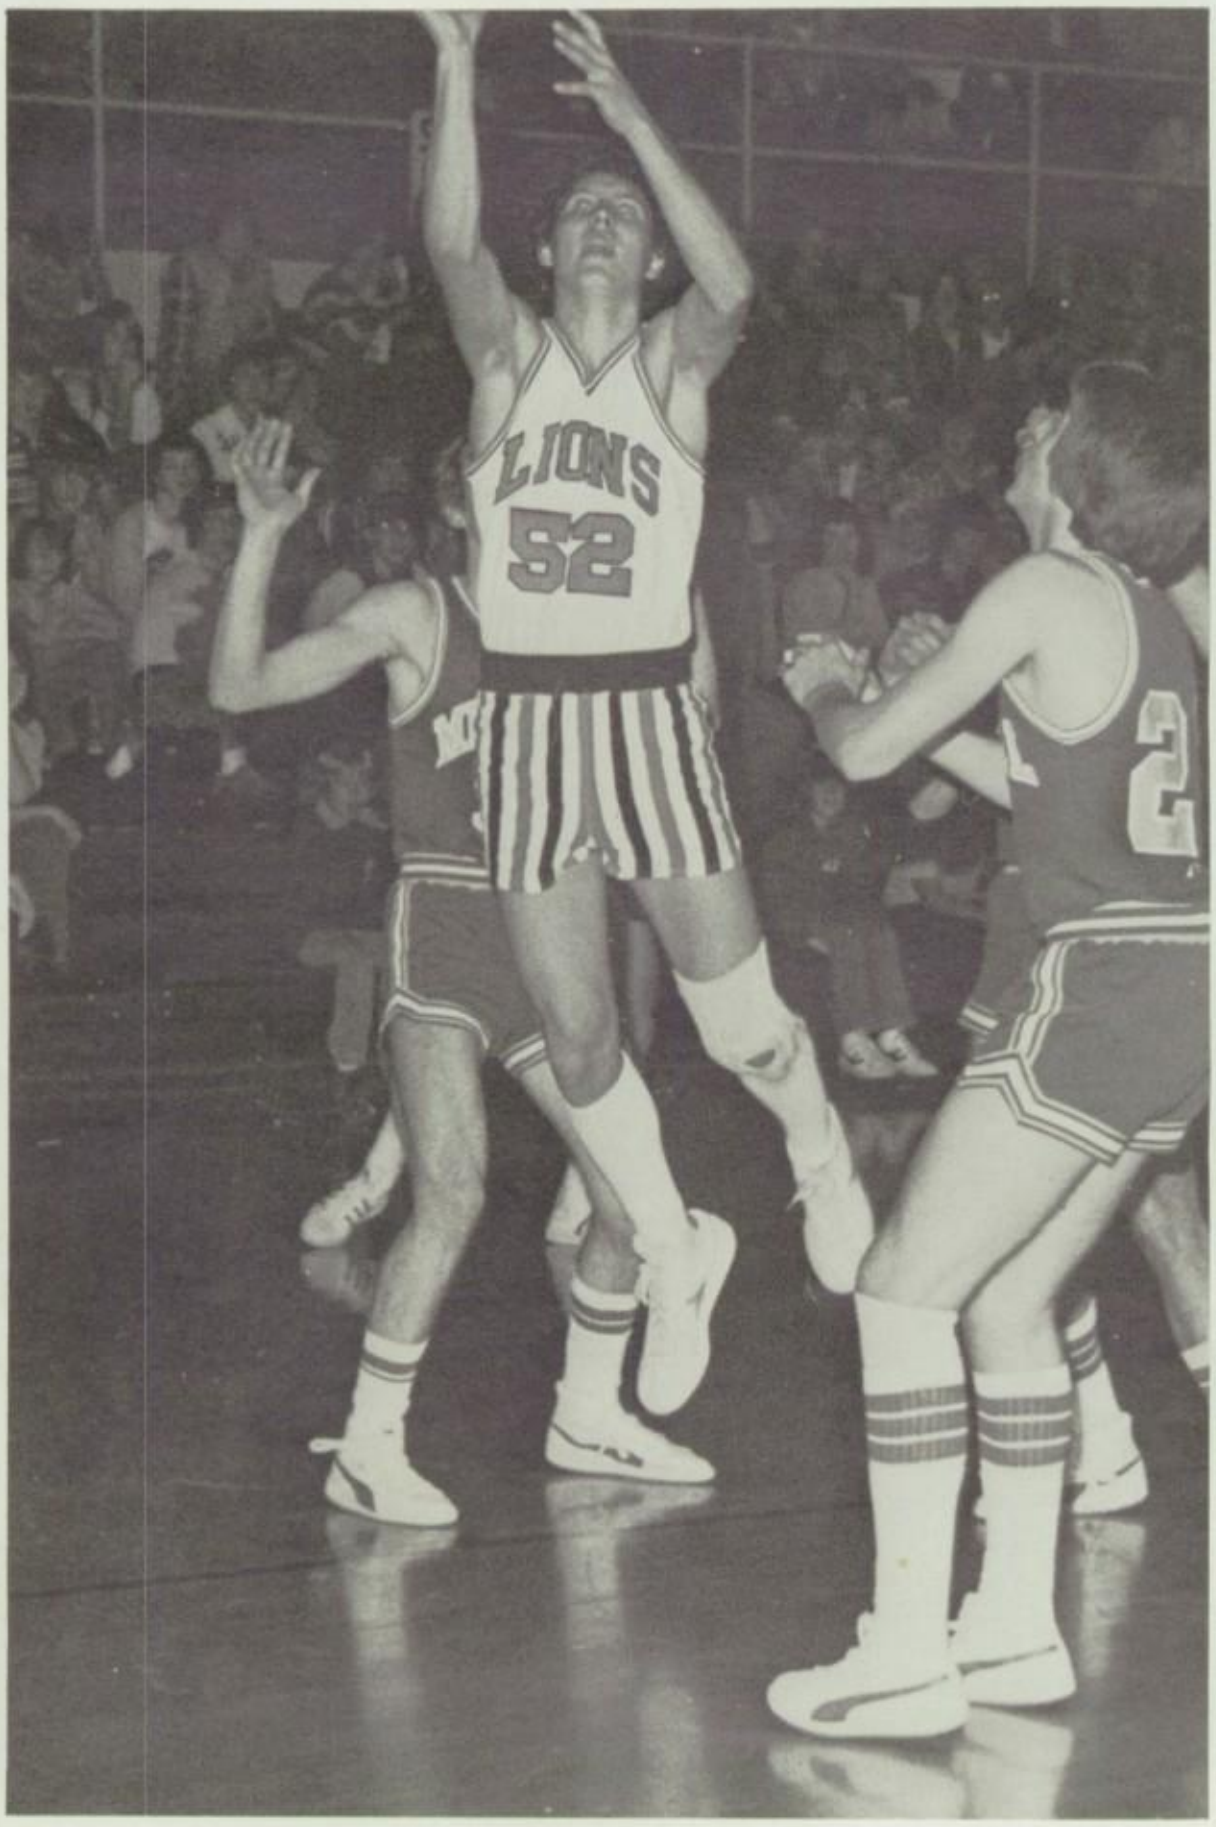
2—The Girls Varsity Basketball team demonstrates their zone defense showing how important defense is in the game.
3—Junior M. Lyles shoots her free throw with total concentration while junior R. Lofton prepares to clap.
4—On a jump ball, junior M. Lyles jumps high into the air so she can tip the ball to a teammate.

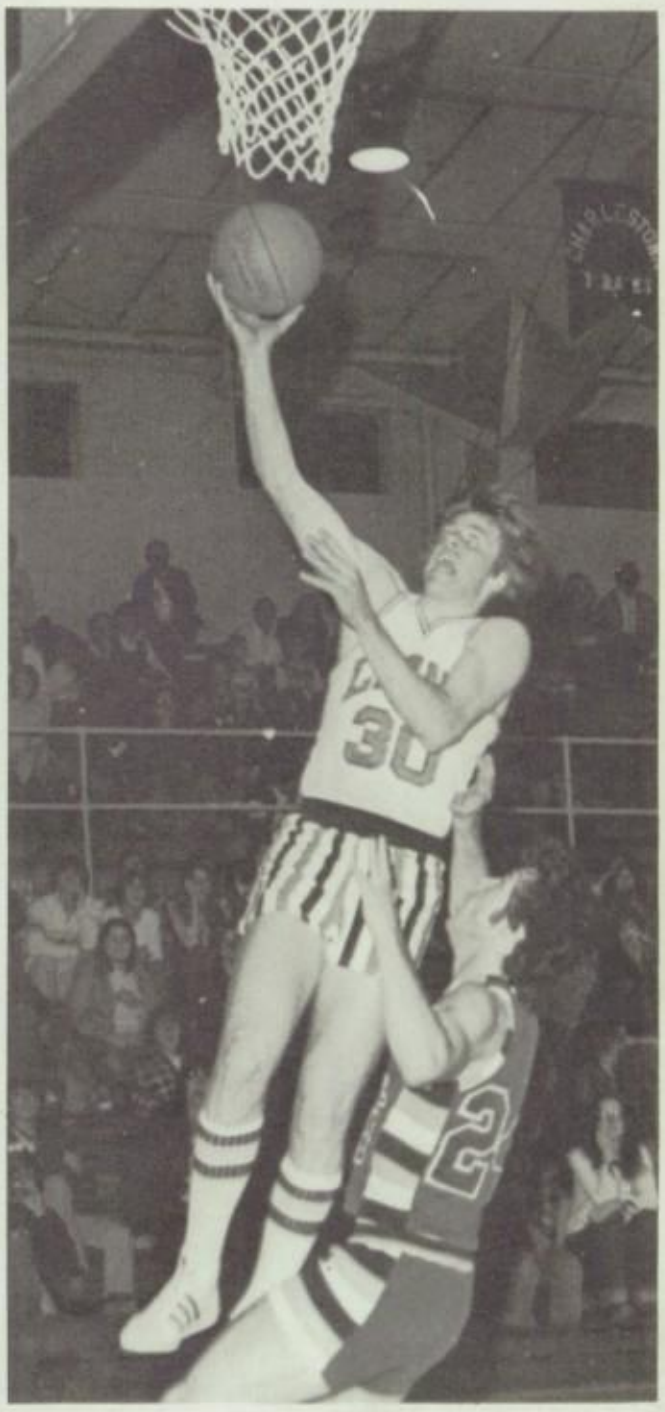
Returning seniors dominate Varsity B-ball play

The 1978-79 Salem Varsity Lions had a strong beginning-of-the-season start by winning three out of their first four games. In December they traveled to Pekin-Eastern for the Holiday Tourney where Borden avenged an earlier loss to the Lions by upsetting them 58-56. The Lions ended up with a disappointing 8-13 record. E. Lincks led the category of field goal percentages with 46.8%. The other categories were held by seniors: M. Campbell had the most field goals with 101; S. Bedwell, the best free throw percentage with 70.4% and B Chastain had 190 rebounds.



1—Coach Bowden, Mgr. F. Coleman, B. Snelling, K. Day, M. Campbell, T. Huffman, E. Lincks, B. Chastain, S. Bedwell, K. Chastain, P. Shouse, G. Underwood, R. Bundy, Coach Dunn, and Coach Warriner.
2—Attempting to block a Providence Pioneer shot is senior S. Bedwell in the closing seconds of the first half.
3—Awaiting the first-half tipoff members of the Lions and Panthers teams get the Homecoming game under way.

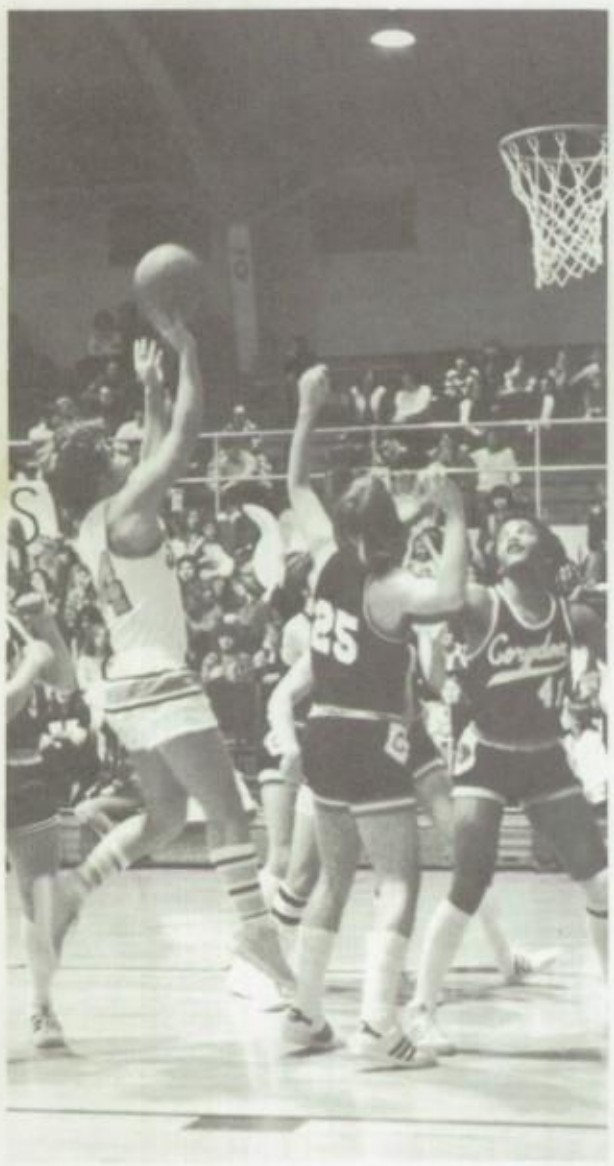




4—At halftime Coach Dunn explains some of the first half's mistakes of the Homecoming game against the Corydon Panthers.
5—Varsity Lion center B. Chastain drives against a rough Mitchell Blue Jacket team to secure the Lions' lead.
6—In the game against the Floyd Central Highlanders, M. Campbell beats the defender for the three-point conversion.

Coach: You told them what to do and they did it

"I would have to say this year's team were the most coachable players I've ever had," commented Coach Warriner. The Junior Lions were led by P. Shouse with 46.1%. From the field J. Day had 87 rebounds and B. Snelling had 44 assists to lead their respective categories. Salem lost seven games by a total of thirteen points and five were decided by a last-second shot. "Our defense and rebounding were exceptionally good, and the guys had great competitive spirit," were the final remarks of Coach Warriner. The JV Lions ended the season 8-12.



1—J. Day overcomes the crowd's pressure by making two free throws against a rough Mitchell Blue Jackets team.
2—Junior Varsity player H. Albertson jumps above the rest of the crowd for the two points that will tighten the score.
3—Front row: Mgr. F. Coleman, R. Bundy, B. Snelling, H. Albertson, T. Fultz, J. Stickels. Row 2: Coach Warriner, P. Shouse, K. Chastain, J. Day, E. Stephenson.
4—On a three-man fast break, T. Huffman and two other Junior Varsity players overtake a Paoli Ram defensive player.

Freshmen Lions "dribble" to a successful season

The Freshman Basketball Team had one of the most successful seasons ever. The A team had a record of 12-6; and the B, 1-4. Two of the highlights were winning the County Tournament Championship and placing second in the annual North Harrison Invitational. "They were a very hard-working team, and they did what I asked them to do. The team is potentially strong, and they are a well-composed team. When we got beat, it was by a very decisive margin," Coach James Bowden said in praise of this season's Freshman Team.

1—Showing his leadership, J. Gholson displays capabilities which made him one of the major floormen.
2—Members of the Freshman Basketball Team are B. Winslow, R. Hobbs, J. Gholson, M. Richardson, J. Shell, T. Trueblood, Coach J. Bowden, J. Stickels, S. Coats, S. Maudling, G. Wilcutt, J. Holstine, P. Briscoe, K. Day, and M. Mead.
3—The Frosh B-ball team shows the thrill of victory, after having won the County Tournament Championship.

Salem track girls end three-year winning streak

After a 26-meet winning streak, the girls track team lost their first meet since 1975 to Floyd Central at their second track meet. The overall record for dual and triangular meets is 54-7. The season record stands at 6-1. The girls took the Charlestown Relays for the fourth consecutive year and have yet to be defeated at the county meet. The season climaxed with the winning of the Mid-Southern Conference Championship. Voted Most Valuable was Lore Mason. Most Improved, decided upon by Coach J. Claycombe and Distance Coach J. Armand, went to Rhonda Taylor.

1—Members of the team are Front row: Coach J. Claycombe, M. Stout, C. Campbell, S. Spencer, D. Chastain, K. Armand, P. Barnard, L. Dickmeyer, L. Backus. Row 2: S. Crain, A. West, M. Board, T. Chastain, J. Snider, R. Spurgeon, J. Baird, B. Kinney, S. Forman, N. Sullivan, G. Gordon, Mgr. S. Burnett. Row 3: D. Buchanan, L. Herron, T. Johnson, D. Bush, C. Kemp, M. Lyles, D. Day, R. Taylor, M. Hurst, Mgr. T. Daily. Row 4: M. Burnett and J. Barnett.
2—Showing exquisite form, T. Johnson begins to take the first steps toward putting a well-placed shot in the Borden-Salem meet.
3—Striving for greater distance, D. Buchanan jumps high into the air hoping it will bring her closer to the end of the pit.

1—In an attempt to clear the bar, sprinter L. Mason tries her luck at the high jump. It was her first year at a field event.
2—Being an experienced distance runner, M. Stout sets her pace to finish first and add five more ponts toward another victory.
3—After receiving the baton in the 880-relay, M. Board sprints the last 220 to bring in a first place for the relay team.
4—At the Salem-Borden meet, hurdlers C. Cornett and S. Forman brought in both first and second place in the 80-yard hurdles.

Boys track team finishes season with even score

The SHS Boys Track Team completed their '79 season with a 7-7 record. First year coach, G. McCurdy, commented that the season turned out better than he had expected and next year he is expecting an even better season. "The high-point of the season occurred at the Sectional when a fifteen-year-old record was completely destroyed by the mile relay team," said Coach McCurdy. The Bob Hoke Sportsmanship and Attitude Award went to R. West who intends to run track in college. B. Chastain received the Ray Lee Track Award and was voted Most Valuable Runner.

1—Arching his body high over the bar, sophomore T. Huffman glides over easily after a moment of concentration.
2—Leaping over the high hurdles in one of his many events, senior B. Chastain sprints a close race with his opponent.
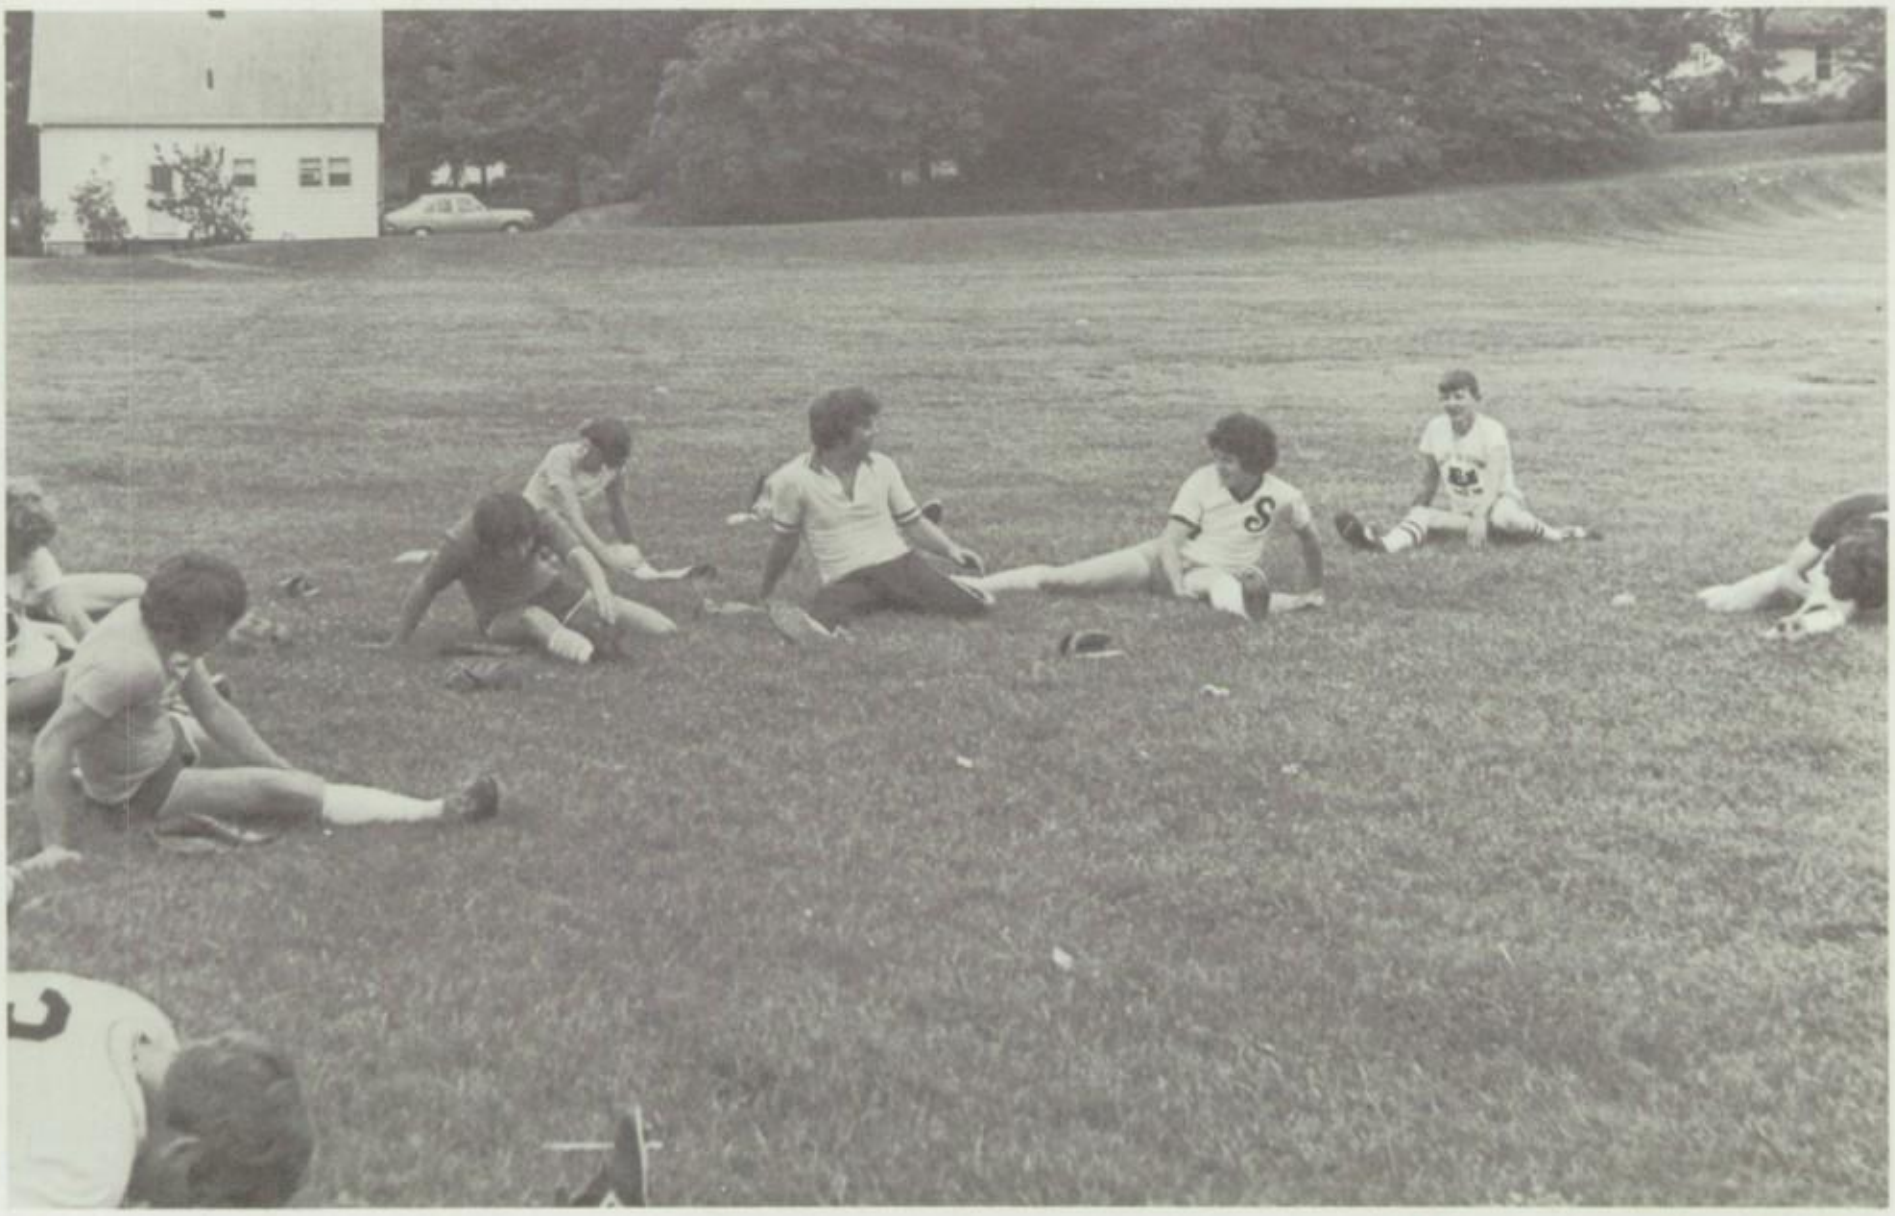
4—Showing the ability to set his own pace and hold it for a first-place position in the mile run is distance runner R. West.
5—Longjumping takes a lot of time and practice in order to co-ordinate the steps, the height, and the speed for a better jump.

Baseball team "powerhouses" through the year

This year's Baseball Team should have a better record than last year's as they finished with a 4-28 record and were defeated in the second round of the Paoli Sectional. Salem is under the guidance of a new Head Coach, Jim Bowden, and Assistant Coach Jim Ralston. With more batting practice, Salem should have some "Powerhitters." The team is composed mostly of underclassmen, but all showed great potential. With more experience and development, the diamondmen of Salem High School should be pleased with the teams in the coming years.

1—Baseball team members are Kneeling: R. Baker, T. Hedges, M. Thomas, D. Fultz, R. Misamore, G. Wilcutt, J. Holstine, B. Snelling. T. Fultz. Standing: Mgr. S. Zink, Coach J. Ralston, L. Roberts, D. Wells, A. Brewer, C. Dufford, H. Albertson, S. Bedwell, T. Hubbard, B. Motsinger, J. Shell, Coach J. Bowden, Mgr. P. Shell.
2—Head baseball coach J. Bowden puts down first base in preparation for one of the home games early in the season.
3—Taking a mighty swing is Salem's prized slugger A. Brewer. He's taking his practice cuts at batting practice.



1—Several members of the baseball team do stretching exercises before practice to prevent pulled muscles and strains.
2—Running down the first base line with all he has and trying to beat the throw is a very determined B. Snelling.
3—Giving his fast ball all the speed he can, relief pitcher J. Shell goes to home with his throw, hoping for a third strike.

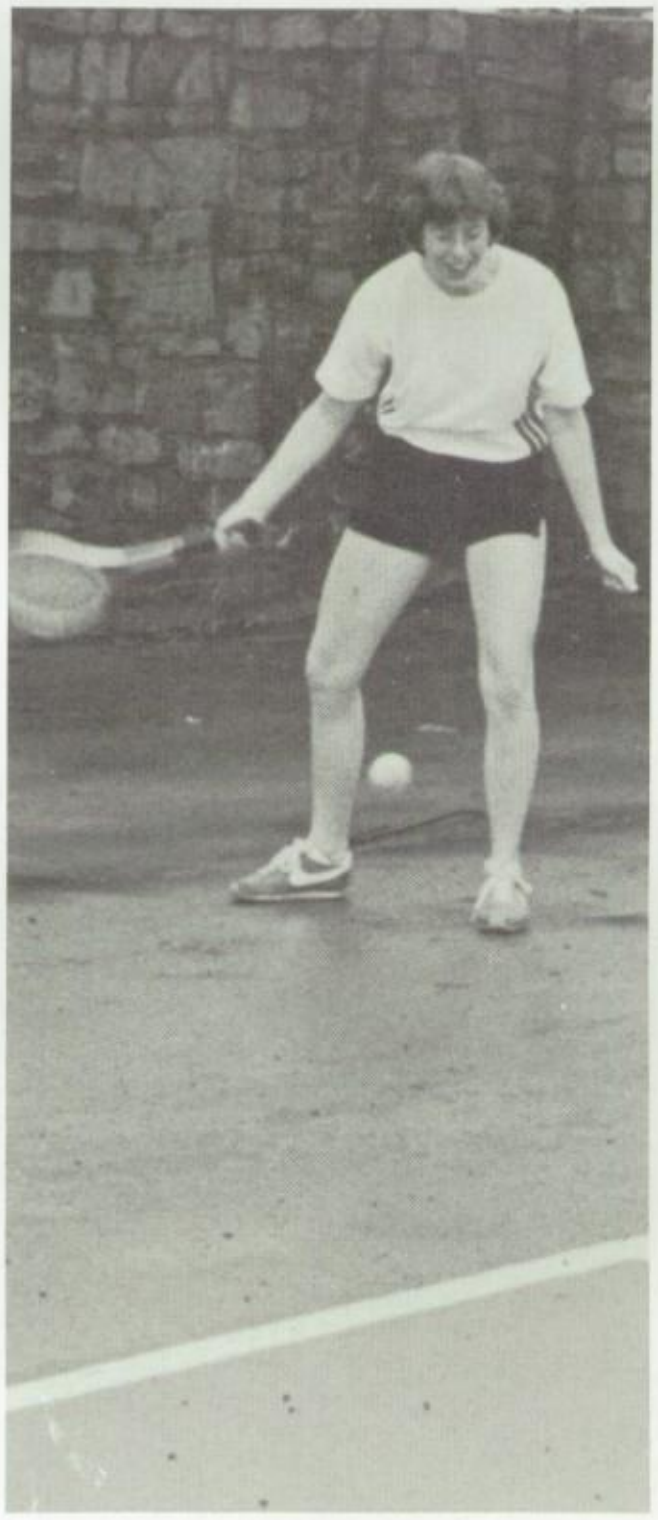
Golf team gets teed off with seventh-place finish

The Salem High School Golf Team placed fifth in the Mid-Southern Conference at Bedford. The team also ranked seventh in the Sectional at New Albany. Dan Richardson qualified as a medalist and will compete in the Regional at Bloomington. Richardson also received the medalist trophy for having the lowest overall average for match play. The team finished the entire season with a record of 16 wins and 14 losses in Conference and Sectional matches. With the loss of only one senior and two fine golfers joining the Varsity, chances for a good team increase.

1—Putting takes much concentration. Here G. Casteuras hopes for the best at the Brownstown match.
2—Golf Team members are Front row: J. Trueblood, B. Winslow, J. Gilmer, D. Richardson, Coach F. Cole. Row 2: G. Castueras, R. LeBrun, J. Horner, P. Fromelius.
3—Receiving the Eddie Gilstrap Memorial Award for Outstanding Golfer is J. Trueblood. It was presented by L. Anders.
4—One of the most important positions in golf is to have the proper stance and the correct line of the putter to the ball.
5-6-7—Preparing for the match at Bedford, J. Gilmer improves his backswing, follow through, and keeping his eye on the ball
8—During a match at Western Hills, J. Trueblood chips the ball to the green in order to get as close to the flag as possible.
9—Senior B. Winslow, a first-year member of the Golf Team, digs the ball out of the rough during the match with Corydon.

Girls tennis team captures fifth at sectional

With the return of only three players, the Girls Tennis Team did unusually well for being a second-year team. This year saw the addition of seven inexperienced players, five of whom were freshmen. Under the coaching of Mr. Randy Bastin, the girls ended the season with a 4-5 team record with the top three players holding records of 6-3 each. At the sectional the team placed fifth, with the doubles team of Lofton-Wilder reaching the semi-finals and there ending up with third place. The returing girls are looking forward to a good season next year.

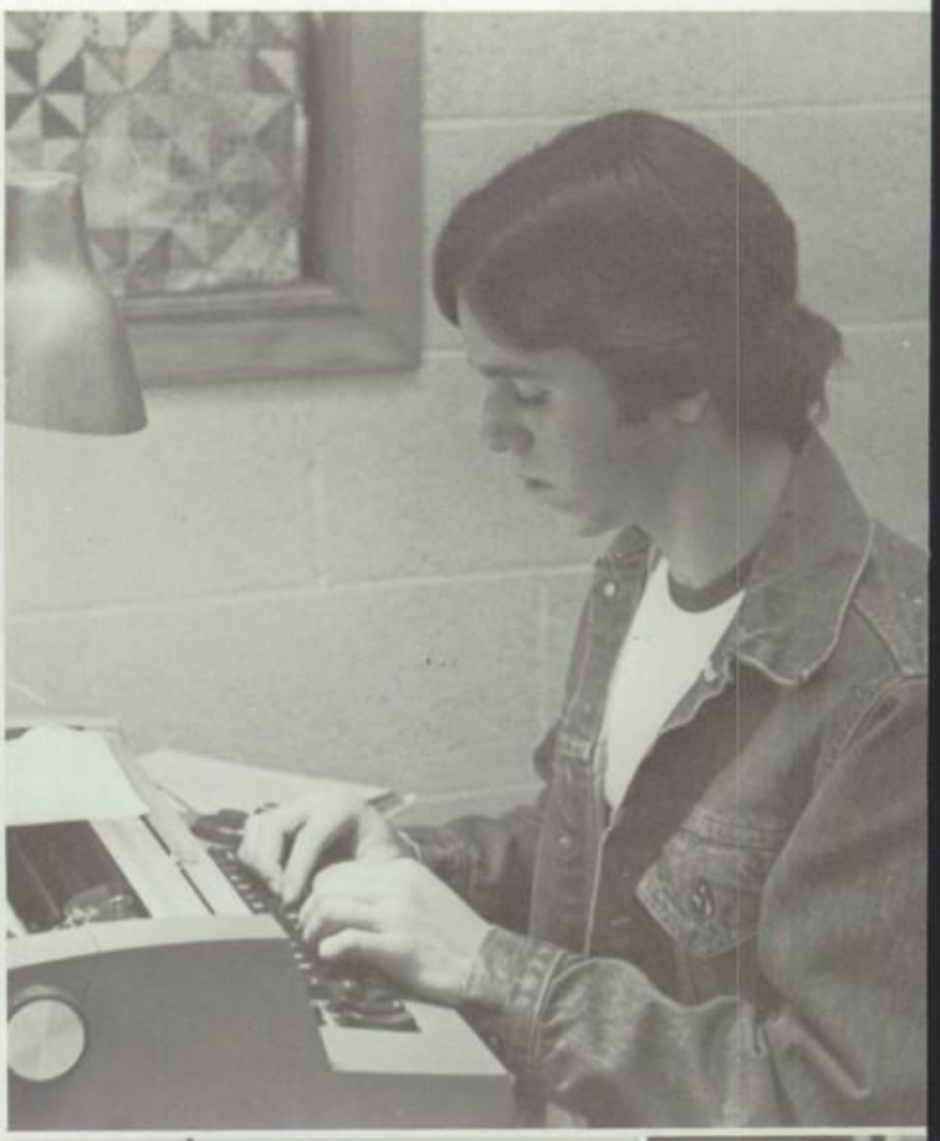


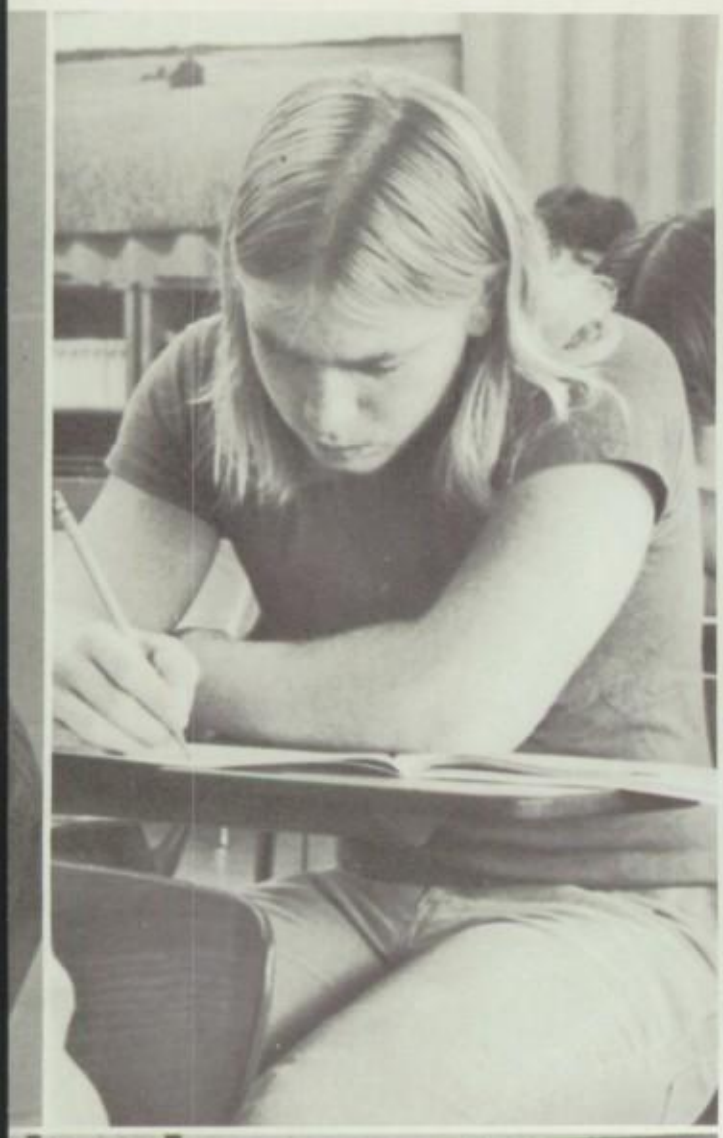
1—Members of the Tennis Team are Front row: B. Gravatt, A. Ooley, S. Lincks, A. Korff, D. Box, A. Box. Row 2: Coach R. Bastin, G. Fleenor, S. Wilder, R. Lofton, S. Dennis, A. Briscoe.
2—Demonstrating her ability and her backhand swing, sophomore B. Gravatt returns the ball using good form.
3—Senior S. Wilder keeps her body stationary and a very close eye on the ball as she attempts to return a low, fast serve.
4—Sending the ball over the net, junior A. Briscoe follows through for the conclusion of a well-practiced and skillful serve.

Council instills good sportsmanship in athletes

The Athletic Council sponsored two sports banquets and a convocation to honor outstanding athletes of fall, winter, and spring sports. The Council also had the responsibility of instilling in participants' minds the real issues of top performance, competitiveness and most importantly, good sportsmanship. They felt that accepting defeat as well as victory was an integral part of the sports experience at SHS. The Council consisted of class representatives, superintendent, principal, athletic director, head coaches, and cheerleader captain.

1—Members of Athletic Council are Seated: J. Ralston, F. Cole, C. Kinney, M. Hunt, J. Claycombe, J. Fultz. Standing: J. Warriner, G. McCurdy, R. Lofton, B. Dunn, K. Armand, R. Bastin, L. Bush.
2—Receiving a jacket and a letter is senior E. Mitchell for girls basketball. Presenting the award is head coach J. Fultz.
3—Sophomore C. Campbell is awarded a trophy for her outstanding play on the JV girls basketball team. Presenter is J. Claycombe.
4—A surprised J. Stickels receives a trophy for his dedication to freshman basketball, presented to him by coach J. Bowden.
5—Head B-ball coach B. Dunn presents senior B. Chastain with an award for his rebounding on the varsity team this year.

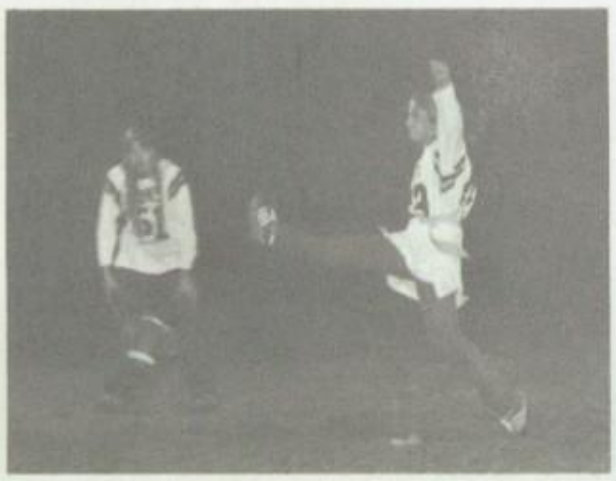




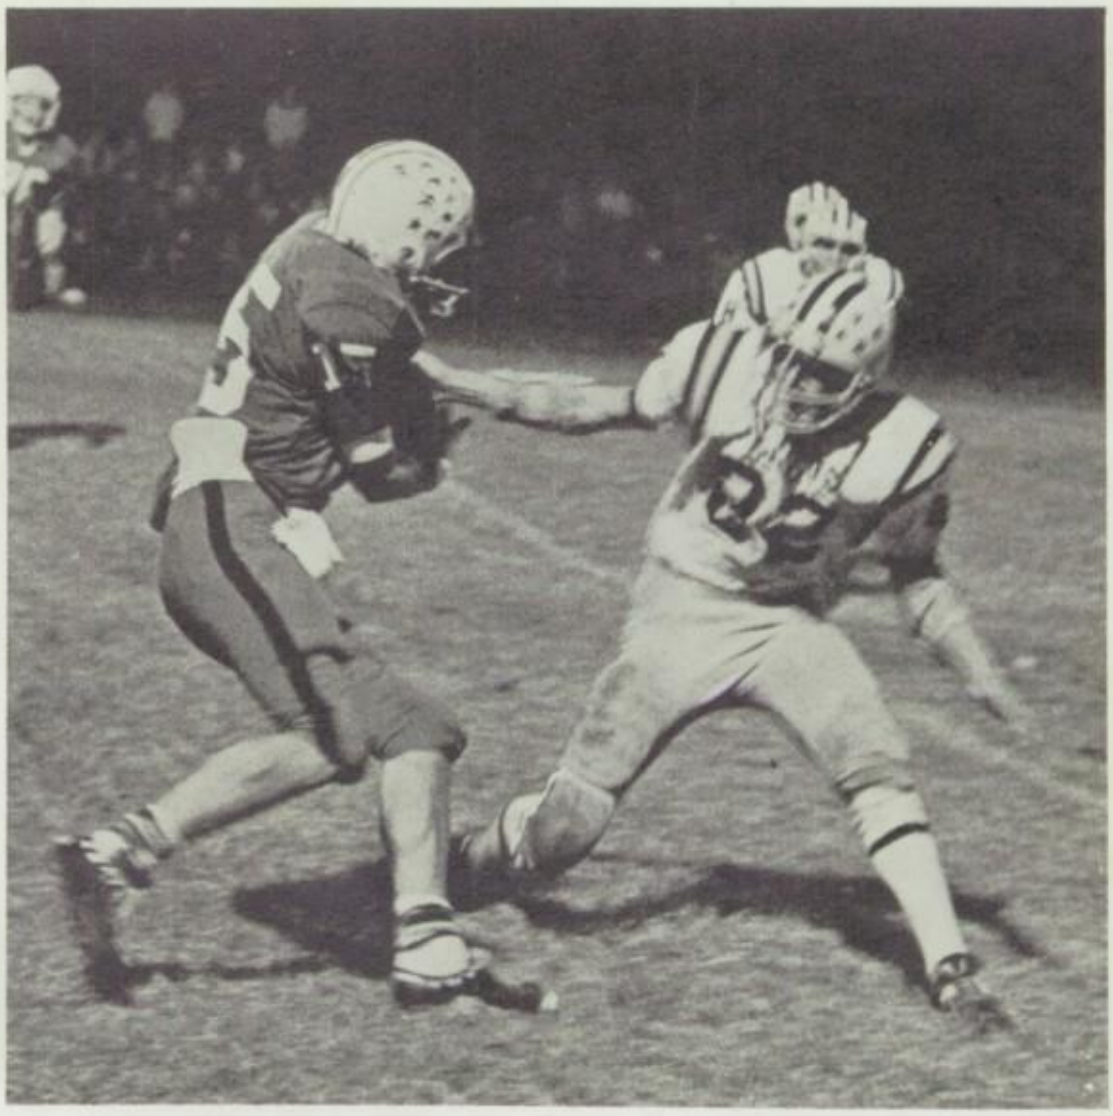
Student Life

Homecoming brings festivities, laughs, and loss

The festivities of Homecoming Week brought the student body's spirit up to a roar! Among the various activities of the week were the girls' powder puff football game and hat, sock, shoe, and Lions-Are-Best overall days. The firey spirit cooled to a sizzle when the Brownstown Braves overtook the Lions with a concluding score of 8-0. It was still a victorious night with the crowning of Homecoming Queen Joni Rexroat. Jennifer Spaulding was Football Sweetheart. After the game, students danced to Buffalo Bolt and Co.



1—Homecoming Queen candidates are Front row: T. Trueblood, S. Cheatham, J. Spaulding, S. DeJean. Row 2: L. Bush, C. Lyles, C. Campbell, D. Stingel. Row 3: G. Korff, J. Rexroat, B. Kinney, M. Graves, D. Brewer.
2—Seniors kick off in the powder puff football game between the seniors and juniors during Homecoming Week.
3—Getting a little anxious, football player M. Humphrey awaits his turn to kiss Sweetheart J. Spaulding.
4—The Lions offense team lines up against Brownstown Braves and awaits their chance to attempt a touchdown.
5—Glowing with happiness is the new Football Homecoming Queen J. Rexroat being crowned by the previous queen, J. Lewis.



1—Showing that if it takes a pie in the face to win the game, Coach Ralston gets psyched up and takes just that.
2—During the Homecoming game B. Chastain confronts Brownstown's quarterback in open field running.
3—Running the ball for Salem, K. Baird comes down after attempting to make some more yards down field.
4—Showing spirit Mrs. Hattabaugh participates in all of the dress-up activities throughout Homecoming Week.

Seniors show their ability at annual talent show

The Class of '79 presented their talents at the annual Senior Talent Show on April 6 in the Salem Middle School Auditorium. The show opened with a performance presented by the entire cast in rendition of Joe Walsh's "Life's Been Good." Throughout the show, members of the audience were reminded that unlike past senior talent shows, this one would refrain from making fun of Mr. Bedwell and Mr. Cole. The show was filled with suspense, fright, and laughter. In the final number, the entire cast again recollected and sang, "Let It Be."

1—Before a live audience the entire cast of the Salem High School Senior Talent Show performs "Life's Been Good."
2—Here, E. Floyd demonstrates her award winning voice by presenting to the public "Theme from the Young and the Restless."
3—Using original motions co-ordinated with the hit song "You Don't Have to be a Star" are T. Doyle, K. Nicholson and T. Sowder.
4—Roxanna Roxannadanna played by K. Petrere, shows her talent at stomping roaches on her newscast for the Senior Talent Show.

Debbie Day captures 1979 Basketball queen title

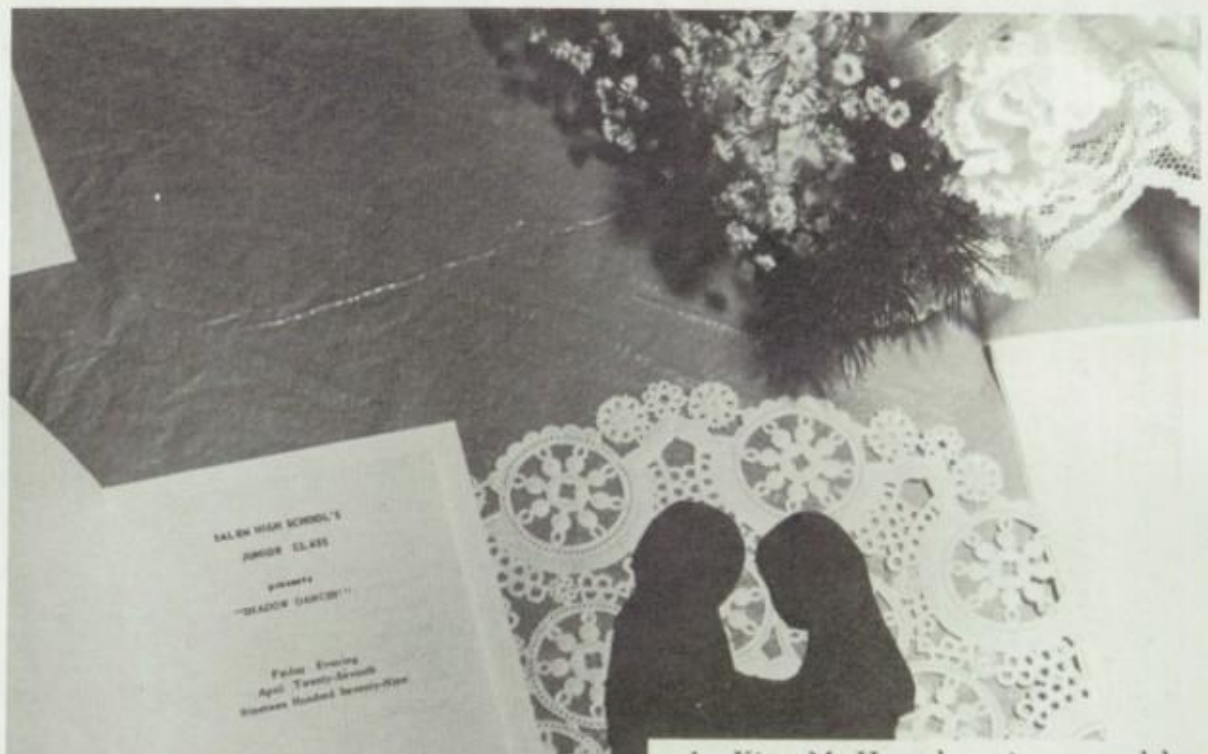
During the 1979 Basketball Homecoming Week the halls were decorated with black and gold streamers and posters all over the walls in order to boost school spirit. Each class participated by electing two queen candidates. Before the Salem-Corydon game began, D. Day was crowned Basketball Queen by Senior Class president R. Henderson. Members of the team chose A. Medlock to become the 1979 B-ball sweetheart. Junior R. Taylor was second runner-up and freshman G. Gordon was first runner-up. Winning from Corydon 71-62 climaxed an exciting Homecoming.

1—Junior D. Day, escorted by B. Snider, is crowned Basketball Homecoming Queen by Senior Class president R. Henderson.
2—Elected Basketball Sweetheart by members of the team, senior A. Medlock chose co-captain B. Chastain as her escort.
3—Freshman G. Gordon was named first runner-up in the Basketball Homecoming Queen contest. Her escort is freshman J. Shell.
4—Queen candidates are front row: G. Gordon, T. Chastain, S. Miller, D. Bush. Row 2: A. Medlock, D. Buchanan, D. Day, R. Taylor.

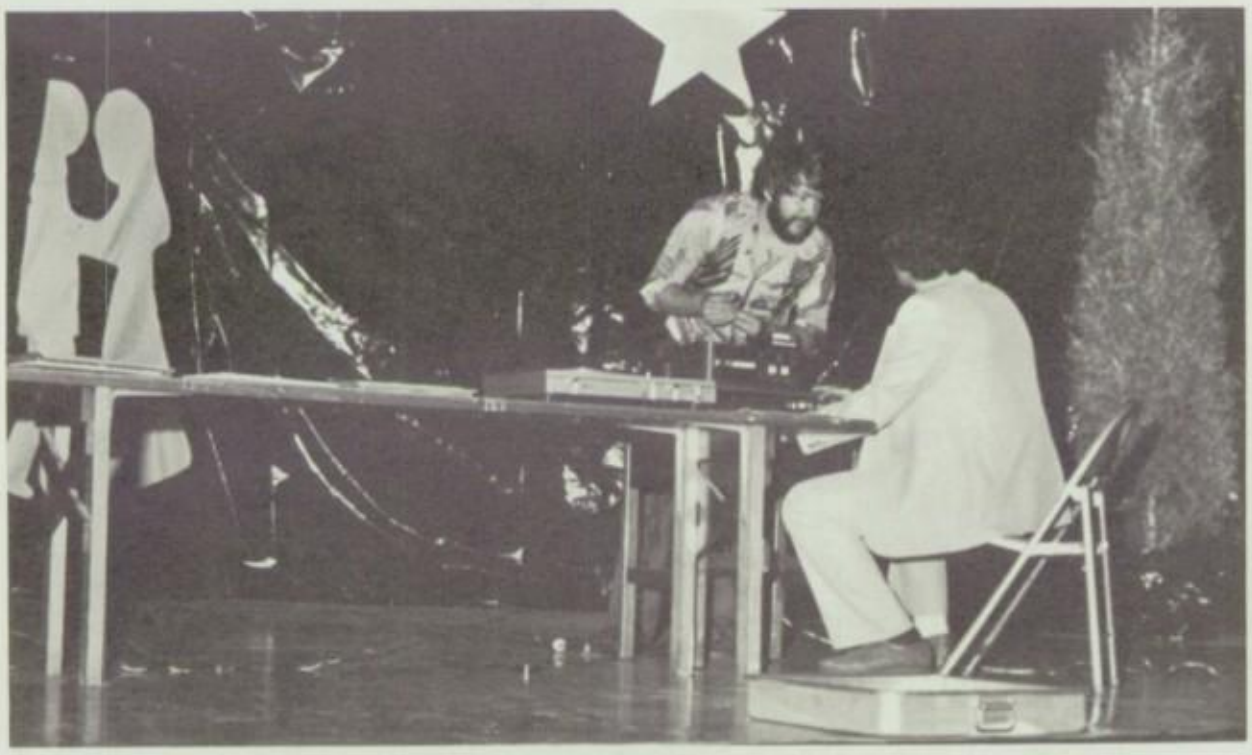
1—Junior R. Taylor is announced second-runner-up Homecoming Queen. She is escorted by junior B. Nester.
2—Homecoming Queen D. Day stands happily in tears with her escort junior B. Snider who shares her happiness.
3—R. Taylor and B. Nester, D. Day and B. Snider, Gina Gordon and J. Shell pose for photographers after the coronation.

Juniors frolic with prom theme 'Shadow Dancing'

Members of the Junior Class worked hard to put together a memorable Prom. Tables and walls were decorated to carry out the theme of "Shadow Dancing." Music was to have been provided by Yantra, but because of delays the band did not arrive on time. In an effort to save the prom, D. Mullins and G. Myszak, junior high teachers, stepped in with a stereo system and records to supply the prom-goers with music. The Home Ec Department prepared refreshments for the occasion. The 1979 Prom King and Queen were M. Humphrey and J. Spaulding.



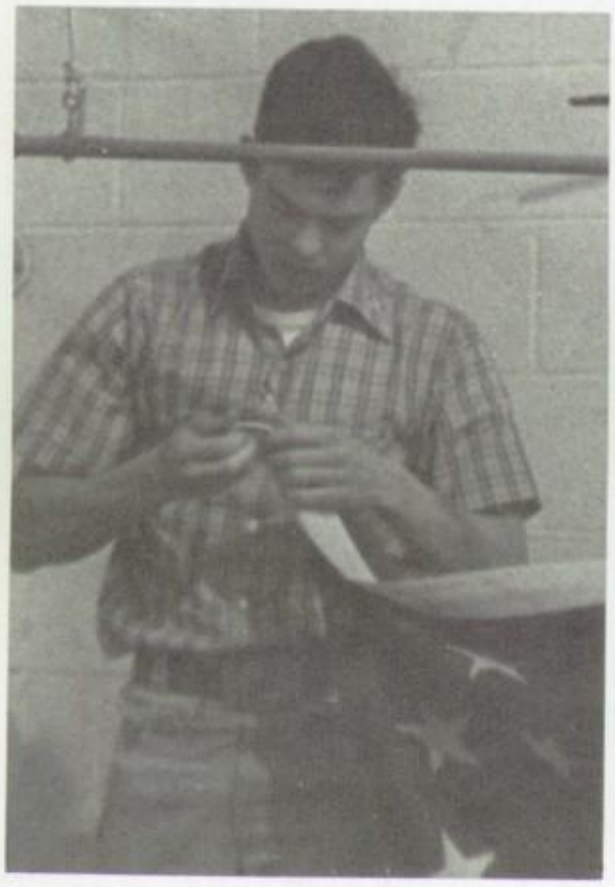
1—King M. Humphrey is crowned by Junior treasurer R. Taylor while secretary J. Hopkins crowns Queen J. Spaulding.
2—Even though many songs were played and dances were danced, juniors, seniors, and guests enjoyed slow dancing most.
3—Silhouettes of dancers, memory books, and flowers provided the setting for the 1979 Prom theme: "Shadow Dancing."



1—Several prom committee chairpersons listen enthusiastically as president W. Backus explains his plan for arranging the gym.
2—Standing in for the band, Mr. D. Mullins and Mr. G. Myszak substitute a stereo and a never-ending supply of records.
3—Junior P. Martin dares her date T. Lewis to eat another sandwich while the servers say, "Oh come on, eat just one more."
4—Figures of dancing couples on the walls not only added to the romantic setting, but encouraged prom-goers to get up and dance.

Deserving students get service, academic awards

Honor Day is set aside to recognize special persons in the school. Those who achieved outstanding success or have given unusual service were honored by various organizations from the school and community. Twenty-three state scholarships, some monetary and some honorary, were awarded. The Student Council gavel was passed from the outgoing to the new president. The Senior Class presented the school with a new fifty-star flag and raised it before the student body. Senior Tim Vernon gave the speech he had prepared for the commencelaureate speech contest.



1—Incoming Stu. Co. president T. Hubbard prepares to make his acceptance speech as outgoing president B. Winslow introduces him.
2—On Honor Day T. Vernon delivers his commencelaureate speech challenging students to continue their education.
3—B. Fletcher prepares to raise the new flag after it was presented as a gift from the Senior Class to the school.
4—Class president R. Henderson and vice-president J. Smedley present sponsors J. Ritz and J. Arnold with gifts of appreciation.
5—Phi Beta Psi representative Mrs. Mary Hilton awards D. Brewer for being the senior girl with the highest grade-point average.
6—Dramatics Club sponsor R. Trueblood honors senior members of National Thespian Society for their dedication and service.
7—The Salem Lions Club presents the Samuel Lewis Mitchell award to band president K. Bills for his outstanding service.
8—Senior T. Neil smiles proudly after being chosen the recipient of this year's Paul Schanlaub Sportsmanship Award.

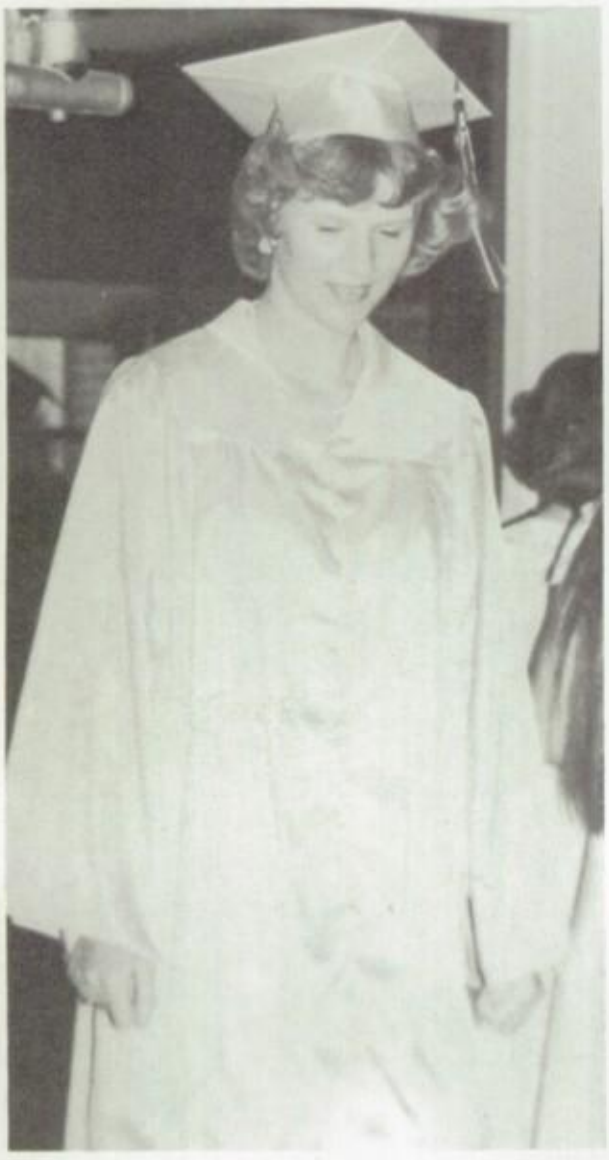
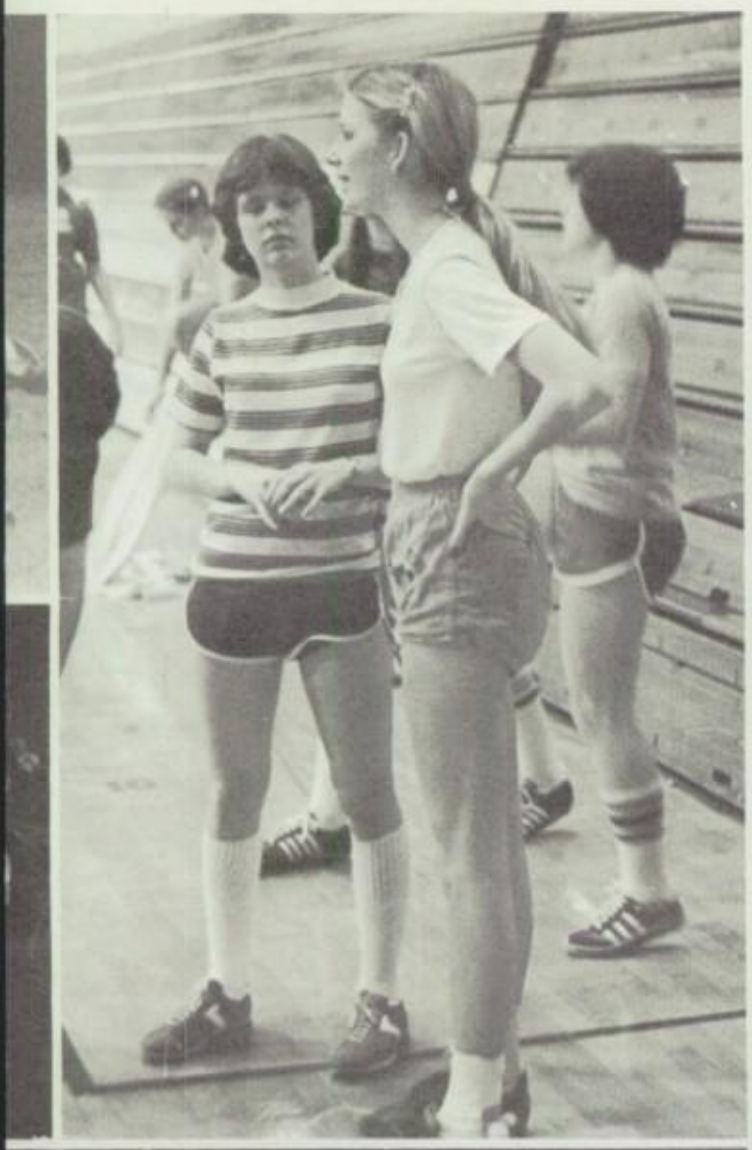
Seniors remember fun times, memories, good- byes

May 20, 1979, will long be remembered by 145 people from Salem High. It was the day they had been awaiting for the past twelve years. The Senior Class had a lot of memories to cherish now that they had finished school. Talent shows, trips, caps and gowns, car washes, tassels, and bake sales brought them all a little closer together. Graduation was probably the last time they would be seen together as a class. They had been "crazy after all these years," but it was time then to make it on their own. May good luck and happiness be with them always.



1—Principal M. Bedwell called graduate J. Smedley to come forward to receive his diploma as L. Bush awaits her turn.
2—Senior P. Kelm realizes the big day has finally arrived as she makes her way into the gym with mixed emotions.
3—B. Chastain, president of Hi-Y, stands before his class to deliver the invocation before Commencelaureate exercises begin.
4—Senior S. Barnard sheds a tear as she receives her diploma and congratulatory handshake from Superintendent C. Kinney.
5—Under the direction of president R. Henderson, the Class of 1979 proudly enact the "turning of the mortarboard tassels."

1—Honor Day proves to be the perfect time for Seniors to prepare and practice marching for graduation ceremonies.
2—With a feeling of sadness, K. Nicholson and C. Kemp take the first big steps toward becoming high school graduates.
3—Principal Max Bedwell presents the Class of '79 to their families, friends, and faculty before the distribution of diplomas.
4—Student speaker for Commencelaureate, S. DeJean, flashes a smile of relief as she receives her diploma and congratulations.



. . . And so another crazy year at Salem High School is brought to a close. The rooms are all quiet, blackboards erased, books placed neatly on shelves, paper picked up from the floor. All the students have cleaned out their lockers, taking away every personal item that gave each individual locker its character. They have retreated to their homes for a summer of leisurely pursuits. No sounds come from anywhere except for a distant echo of one of the custodial workers singing a tune to pass the time as he shines a floor somewhere in another part of the building. The teachers have put away their grade books and rules and retired their professional demeanor for another welcomed summer vacation . . . But soon, the school will be buzzing with activity again as the summer ends and SHS begins another year for the school to be . . . STILL CRAZY AFTER ALL THESE YEARS.
